GERMANS SEEKING TRUCE REACH ALLIED LINES; SEDAN FIRED AS AMERICANS DRIVE FOE BACK; SENATE REPUBLICAN BY 2 OR 4, HOUSE BY 33; SMITH ELECTED GOVERNOR BY ABOUT 10,000

CONGRESS PASSES TO REPUBLICANS AFTER MARCH 4

RULE HOUSE BY 33 VOTES

Victory Means Complete Overturn of All Important Committees.

DEPOSES SPEAKER CLARK

Lodge to be Chairman of Foreign Relations Committee, Which Deals with All Treaties.

The latest returns from all parts of the country show that the Republicans have carried both the Senate and the House of Representatives. The Senate is certainly Republican by a majority of two, and this may be increased to four if the exceedingly close race in Idaho between Nugent, Democrat, and Gooding, Republican, results in favor of the latter. At last accounts Nugent was in the lead by a few hundred votes.

The present Senate consists of 52 Democrats and 44 Republicans, giving the Democrats a majority of 8. The new Senate, whose term will begin on March 4, 1919, probably will consist of 49 Republicans and 47 Democrats.

In the Senatorial contests the Democrats elected only one candidate to fill a place now held in the Senate by a Republican. This was in Massachusetts, where Governor David I. Walsh, Democrat, defeated Senator John W. Weeks. The Republicans gained Senatorial seats in Colorado, Delaware, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri, and New Hampshire.

While the results of some of the Congressional contests are doubtful, the returns indicate that the next House will consist of 234 Republicans, 200 Democrats, and 1 Socialist. This will give the Republicans a clear majority of 33, or a plurality of 34 over the Democrats.

The one Socialist elected is Victor Berger of Milwaukee, Wis., who served one term in the House several years ago. Berger is now under indictment for violation of the Espionage act. Meyer London of New York, the only Socialist in the present House, was defeated by Goldfogle, Democrat.

Reports received up to an early hour Wednesday morning indicated the defeat of Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives, in the Ninth Missouri District. His election now seems assured, but as the Republicans will control the House in the next Congress, he will be displaced as Speaker after March 4.

Henry Ford Defeated.

The greatest interest in the Senatorial contests centred in Michigan and Illinois. Henry Ford, the Detroit automobile manufacturer, who became a candidate for the Senate because, as he said, he was "commanded" by President Wilson to do so, has been defeated on the face of the returns by Truman H. Newberry, Republican, who served as Secretary of the Navy in President Roosevelt's Cabinet, and is now a Lieutenant Commander in the Naval Reserve.

In Illinois Senator James Hamilton Lewis, the Democratic whip of the Senate, was defeated by Representative Medill McCormick.

The election of Governor Walsh to the Senate from Massachusetts over Senator Weeks was a great surprise, although it had been apparent that Mr. Weeks would have a hard contest. Senator Willard Saulsbury of Delaware, the President pro tempore of the Senate was defeated by former Senator L. H. Ball, Republican.

In Idaho, Senator Borah, Republican, has been returned for another term, and his colleague, John F. Nugent, Democrat, who is serving in succession to the late Senator James H. Brady, Republican, is also believed to have been elected, although he is being closely pressed by his Republican opponent, F. R. Gooding.

Governor Arthur Capper, Republican, who is elected to the Senate from Kansas, will take the place of Senator Thomson, Democrat. Governor A. C. Stanley has been elected to the Senate from Kentucky by a greatly reduced majority in this normally Democratic State, over Ben L. Bruner, Republican. One of the great surprises of the Sena-

PLAN COURT FIGHT ON EDGE ELECTION

Nugent Declares Governor Was Ineligible to Run for Senate.

JERSEY ASSEMBLY A TIE

Democrats Win Three Seats and Can Now Prevent Any Legislation for Prohibition.

James R. Nugent, Democratic leader of Essex County, N. J., declared yesterday that he intended to attack the constitutionality of Governor Edge's election in the New Jersey courts and that he also intended to present the matter to the United States Senate in the form of a protest

"I am convinced that the New Jersey Constitution makes Governor Edge ineligible," he said, "and I intend to take the matter into the courts as soon as he is declared elected. The presentation of the matter to the United States Senate will be in addition to this, as the Senate is the judge of the eligibility of its members. Governor Edge will never sit in the Senate if we can prevent it, and we think we can."

The constitutional provision under which legal steps against Governor Edge are threatened is Section 8, Article 5, which reads as follows:

"No member of Congress or person holding office under the United States or of this State shall exercise the office of Governor, and in case the Governor or person administering the Government shall accept any office under the United States or this State, the office of Governor shall thereupon be vacant; nor shall he be elected by the Legislature to any office under the Government of this State or of the United States during the term for which he shall have been elected Governor."

The Republican leaders declared that Nugent's action would avail him little or nothing, as the matter had been passed upon by the Attorney General, who had decided that Governor Edge was entirely within his rights in running for the Senate. Moreover, they added, a precedent had been established in the case of Woodrow Wilson, who was elected President of the United States while he was Governor of New Jersey.

The Democrats answered this by the statement that President Wilson's term as Governor ended on Jan. 1, and he did not become President until March 4 following. They declared that the Constitution of the State expressly prohibits the election of Edge, as his term as Governor will not have expired when the Senate term begins.

One of the greatest political battles in this State will in all probability occur as a result of the election yesterday, when the Democrats succeeded in electing thirty Assemblymen, just one-half of the number in the State. This was a gain of sixteen Assemblymen for the Democrats and means that the Republicans have lost their hold on the Assembly, of which they previously had forty-six members.

All of the Republicans elected yesterday are pledged to support the National Prohibition Amendment, while every Democrat is pledged to oppose it. The Republicans had planned to bring up a prohibition ratification resolution early in the session and pass it. Now this looks impossible, and it is freely predicted tonight that this subject will be dropped entirely, as far as the Assembly is concerned.

SMITH AND WALKER WIN; REPUBLICANS GET OTHER PLACES

With 42 Districts Missing, Democrat Leads Whitman by 12,238.

EXPECT THIS TO BE CUT

Soldier Vote, Not to be Canvassed Until Dec. 17, May Add to Plurality.

SCHOENECK IS DEFEATED

All the Rest of the Whitman Ticket Got Enough Votes Up-State to Win Easily.

Revised returns from 7,229 election districts in New York State, with forty-two districts missing, give Smith 987,438 and Whitman 975,200, a plurality of 12,238. The forty-two districts still to be heard from are all up-State, and the returns from them will probably reduce this Smith plurality. In the 4,564 up-State districts already heard from, Governor Whitman had an average lead of about fifty-four votes. On this basis the forty-two districts will add 2,280 to his plurality, bringing it to 250,000, against Smith's plurality in New York City of 260,483. This would give Smith a net plurality in the State of 9,958.

This seems to give Mr. Smith a safe plurality, for the forty-two remaining districts would have to give the Republican candidate an unprecedented plurality to offset Smith's lead. These figures do not take into account the vote of New York soldiers in the cantonments throughout the United States, numbering about 40,000. This vote is claimed for Mr. Smith by a plurality of from 5,000 to 10,000.

Complete returns for the 2,623 election districts in New York City and reports from 4,005 out of the 4,008 up-State districts give Mayor Harry C. Walker of Binghamton for Lieutenant Governor over Lieut. Gov. Edward Schoeneck a plurality of 64,759. Schoeneck, however, was maintaining a lead over Walker up-State and on the basis of his average for the districts so far heard from the 601 districts yet to be reported outside of New York City would reduce Walker's plurality to about 40,000. All the other Republican candidates on the State ticket have been elected. Here is a list of the successful candidates for State offices:

Governor—ALFRED E. SMITH, D.
Lieutenant Governor — HARRY C. WALKER, D.
*Secretary of State — FRANCIS M. HUGO, R.
*State Controller — EUGENE M. TRAVIS, R.
*State Treasurer—JAMES L. WELLS, R.
Attorney General—CHARLES D. NEWTON, R.
*State Engineer—FRANK M. WILLIAMS, R.
*Re-elected.

The soldiers' vote, under the law, is not to be officially canvassed before Dec. 17. The total number of votes cast by electors from this State who are in the military or naval service at home, was variously estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000, the low estimate emanating from Republican sources. Democratic leaders who have been supervising the polling of the soldiers' and sailors' vote declared that the returns would show a two to one plurality for Alfred E. Smith.

J. J. Lyons, who was charged by Secretary of State Hugo with the task of supervising the taking of the soldiers' vote, made a much lower estimate of the number of votes actually cast in the cantonments when he paid a visit to Republican State Headquarters yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lyons said he had been at seventeen cantonments, and estimated that in all only 15,000 soldiers and sailors had voted. He expressed the belief that 65 per cent. of these votes had been cast for Mr. Smith, 25 per cent. for Governor Whitman, and 10 per cent. for the Socialist candidate for Governor.

The returns indicate that the total vote cast in the State was approximately 2,075,000. This is only 360,000, or a little more than 20 per cent., in excess of the 1,715,000 cast in the Gubernatorial election two years ago, which was the year of a Presidential election.

Governor Whitman spent several hours yesterday at the headquarters of the Re-

Allies Going to Dardanelles; Germans to Quit Rumania

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Preparations are being made for the transfer of British and French troops to occupy the Dardanelles and Bosporus, says The Evening News today.

CONGRESS RESULT SUITS ROOSEVELT

Says Republican Victory Serves Notice on Germany That Foch Will Dictate Terms.

SUPPORT FOR PRESIDENT

"To Secure a Peace That Will Guarantee the Result of the War"—Hits at Pacifists.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, in commenting on the outcome of the election this evening, said:

"It appears we have a Republican Congress. Such a result must be a cause of profound thankfulness to loyal and far-sighted Americans. The Republicans made the fight on the unconditional surrender issue, and their victory serves notice on Germany that Foch will dictate the terms of armistice and that the terms of peace will be determined by all the Allies representing the free and democratic world, acting together against Kaiserism in the first place, and against all tyranny, whether of the Hohenzollerns or the Bolsheviki.

"The Republicans will heartily support President Wilson in every effort to put forth our whole strength and efficiency in the war and to secure a peace that will guarantee the result of the war. Any extravagance, corruption, or inefficiency in waging the war, any leniency to German spies or conspirators at home, and any effort to interfere with the freedom of speech and with the press on the part of honest supporters of the war who protest inefficiency in waging it, will, I believe, result in Congressional investigation and exposure of the guilty parties.

"The result of the election is really extraordinary, inasmuch as the entire pro-German and pacifist vote was behind the Wilson Democratic ticket, and in view of the further fact that the enormous war powers of the Administration have such adroit and unscrupulous partisanship. I regard the result as much more a victory for straight Americanism than Republicanism, for a great multitude of Democrats, without whose aid the victory could not have been won, voted the Republican ticket under issues of straight Americanism, of genuine democracy here at home, and of the aroused purpose to stand beside our allies and against Germany to the end.

"The American people have reflected deep honor upon themselves, and while we owe much to various leaders, we owe more to Mr. Will S. Hays, the Chairman of the National Republican Committee, who has shown not only extreme practicable efficiency but the high purpose to serve the Republican party by making that party render conspicuous service to the nation."

Colonel Roosevelt is suffering from a slight attack of sciatica. He has for the last two days remained indoors, except for going out to vote yesterday. He has cancelled a speaking engagement in Pittsburgh on Saturday for the United War Work Campaign. He is in excellent spirits and will probably be out in a day or two.

Germans Notify Americans and French of Civilians' Danger.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—In a wireless message yesterday addressed to the French and American commanders the Germans reminded the Allies that there were many civilians in the villages north of the Franco-American front and suggested that the artillerymen be notified to this effect.

None of the villages was named, however.

The message was signed by the German field commander.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Nov. 6, (11 P. M.)—The German high command has ordered the withdrawal of the Third and Fifth German Armies across the Meuse on the front of the American First Army. Fresh troops are being thrown in to cover this retiring movement from the region of Stenay northward to beyond Sedan, and to hold back the Americans long as possible.

A new German position is to be taken up along the crest of hills on the other side of the river.

Prisoners taken in the Moselle region say that a German retirement has been ordered also from in front of the American Second Army.

With our troops less than six miles away from Sedan and moving north that city is now burning. Our artillery has not fired on the city, nor have we bombed it because of civilians. The flames, therefore, are of German origin.

The large town of Mouzon, where we fought on the outskirts this afternoon, burst into flames an hour ago, the boche having fired it as he left other towns across the Meuse burning.

Great Victory Developing.

Nov. 6, (10 P. M.)—The success of the American First Army is developing fast into one of the greatest victories of the war. For six successive days we have driven ahead since dawn, and when the sun went down this evening our troops were within sight of Sedan, which lies six miles across low flung hills from where the triumphant doughboys rest north of Chémery. They are on their way to write a new story of Sedan which will call blessed the name of a city French have hated to remember since the dark days of 1871.

Running across the battlefield from left to right we have pushed beyond Chémery, have reached Raucourt, passed Pourron, and are on the outskirts of Mouzon.

We poured troops across the Meuse and to the east of the river, smashed into German positions with striking success. We hold Lion-devant-Dun, Fontaines, the edge of the Bois St. Germain, and are nearing Stenay.

Fighting East of Meuse.

One must say that our task east of the river was tougher than that on the west. On the west we have open country, and that means an American victory every time. We have the best of positions, and that clinches victory. East of the river the German has prepared defenses with trenches and wire, and has the best of positions. In addition he

German Haste Interpreted as Intention to Surrender; They Know Disaster Now Menaces Their Armies

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Nov. 6, (9 P. M.)—The Nauen wireless message announcing the departure of the armistice envoys from Berlin occasions no great surprise. At the same time it is pointed out that the extreme haste shown by the enemy to demand conditions, of whose severity they already have a good idea from the terms accorded their allies and the prognostications in the Swiss press, proves that the German war chiefs realize what is known here, that the military situation is no less dangerous than internal conditions.

I learn today that the latest prisoners all say Germany will never accept such conditions as were imposed upon Austria, but it is considered that their unanimity indicates a statement based on orders.

The news this evening contains signs of the German retreat degenerating into a rush for the frontier. Only weak rearguards oppose the allied advance. Large captures of material are everywhere reported. It is growing hourly more certain than nothing but surrender will avert disaster.

For the first time I can affirm with confidence the end is in sight.

Montreal Hears Germany Has Accepted Foch's Terms

MONTREAL, Nov. 6.—In an extra edition this afternoon The Montreal Star published this dispatch from London:

"Semi-official reports declare that Germany has decided to accept Foch's terms."

HAIG AND PETAIN SWEEP FOE BACK

Large Gains Are Made on a Wide Front by British and French Forces.

FRENCH ADVANCE SIX MILES

Vervins, Rethel, and Other Important Points Won—British Take Several Villages.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—British and French forces from the Scheldt to the Meuse swept forward irresistibly today, driving back the foe for heavy losses of ground.

The British continue their strong advance to the east of Mormal Forest and occupied numerous villages and the important railway junction at Aulnoye.

A Reuter dispatch from British Headquarters in France says:

"The Germans are retreating all along the front of the First, Third, and Fourth British Armies, which are pressing them hard."

The operations of the French today netted one of the greatest advances yet made, measuring more than six miles at various points.

The important towns of Vervins, Montcornet and Rethel were occupied and progress was made far beyond these places.

An Associated Press dispatch from a correspondent with the French Armies in France says, in part:

"The French Armies made a forward bound today of five to seven miles all along the front, from east of Guise to their junction with the American forces west of the Meuse.

"The booty taken over this front indicates that the enemy's retreat has been more precipitate than that of yesterday. Prisoners say the retreat will continue fifteen or twenty miles."

The night report from Marshal Haig reads:

We progressed along the whole battlefront today in spite of a heavy continuous rain. Sharp fighting has taken place at a number of points with German rearguards, and some

KAISER INSISTS ON KEEPING THRONE

BOLSHEVISM A MENACE

Great Stuttgart Crowd Demands Workers' Council—People Finding Their Voice.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6.—The Kaiser, I learn, has come to a personal decision to remain William II. Having played many and various rôles he now apparently believes that he can adapt himself to the difficult part of a democratic monarch. In this decision, it is declared, he has perhaps the larger section of the Government with him and those composing his majority are making strenuous efforts to close the incident.

But the Socialist members refuse to regard the Kaiser's decision as final. They are, it is said, about to hand an ultimatum to the Chancellor. Either the Kaiser goes or they do. Thus, considering the time and the alternative, Prince Max will really stand before Hobson's choice, for he dare not run the risk of breaking up his Ministry. In Berlin the popular belief continues to grow that His Majesty's abdication is merely a matter of days.

Meanwhile, it is highly interesting to note how the German people are beginning to demonstrate in force.

The fact that the Kaiser still remains the Kaiser has called forth protests from many parts of the country. In Munich on Monday at a vast improvised demonstration speakers demanded "peace under all circumstances," and "a last rally for the national defense" was termed nonsense. Greetings were sent to Austria and a resolution was declared that if the Government had not the courage to conclude peace at once a new Bavarian Government would be formed which in the name of all Germany would end the war.

Demonstrations recently took place at Erlangen and Fuerth, and at Nuremburg an open-air demonstration of many thousands of people demanded the immediate abdication of the Kaiser and an immediate peace.

BERLIN SENDS FOUR ENVOYS

GERMANS GET WILSON NOTE

ANGRY AT AUSTRIAN TERMS

Continuation of Blockade and Retention of Prisoners Are Assailed in Berlin.

Foch to Receive Envoys at Daylight This Morning

LONDON, Thursday, Nov. 7.—The Daily News says that it learns that the German peace delegation has been permitted to cross into the allied lines and will be received by Marshal Foch this morning at daylight.

Seize Warships to Compel Peace.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Mutinous German sailors at Kiel have seized the battleships Kaiser and Schleswig-Holstein and refused to return to their duties until a treaty of peace with the Allies is signed.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The German armistice delegation has reached the allied lines. This information reached the lobby of the House of Commons late tonight.

An Amsterdam dispatch to The Associated Press says that the delegation left Berlin this afternoon.

An official Berlin statement telegraphed here said:

The members of the delegation, according to Amsterdam advices, are General E. G. W. von Grünell, Germany's military delegate to The Hague peace conferences; General H. K. A. von Winterfeld, former German Military Attaché at Paris; Vice Admiral Meurer, and Admiral Paul von Hintze, former Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

Impatient To Get Terms.

An official statement from Berlin received in Basle, in announcing that the terms of the armistice had not arrived at the German capital up to Sunday, added:

"Whatever it may be, the message is awaited in Germany with a calmness in conformity with our dignity. Truly there exists the right to ask how the delaying tactics of our adversaries can be reconciled with the speeches of the Entente's leaders, who recently reiterated that it would be a crime to prolong the bloodshed one hour longer than was absolutely indispensable."

Denounce Restrictions on Austria.

The press of Germany also considers the Austrian armistice conditions not only extraordinarily severe but unjust, and in violation of President Wilson's program.

The Frankfurter Zeitung criticises the lack of mutuality regarding the release of prisoners and also the maintenance of the "hunger blockade," while the Allies at the same time reserve freedom of action "to make requisitions on conquered land." The newspaper expresses the hope that the Allies will not try to impose similar conditions on Germany, declaring that this would mean that all that had gone before "would be trifling compared with the horrors to come."

The semi-official North German Gazette, referring to the lack of reciprocity as regards the release of prisoners, says that history shows no such conditions since the days of the Athenian prisoners in the lead mines of Syracuse. The peace of Brest-Litovsk, it contends, was admirable and human compared with the conditions of the Austrian armistice.

The German press, a Copenhagen dispatch says, is also exercised over the peace terms recently proposed by Viscount Northcliffe. Both the North German Gazette and the Berlin Tageblatt ask whether the Governments associated with the United States accept President Wilson's peace program, with which, they declare, Viscount Northcliffe's proposals do not correspond.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—President Wilson's note to the German Government reached Berlin today.

Official announcement of this was made at the German capital, and it was added that the text of the note would be published this evening.

DEMAND EARLY REPLY ON ARMISTICE TERMS

Allies to Allow Only a Few Days —Sea Freedom Discussed in Washington.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—The armistice terms laid down by Marshal Foch must be accepted promptly by Germany, according to semi-official word here tonight. At most, Germany will be allowed three days, or perhaps four, in which to meet the allied terms, but the allied Governments, acting through Marshal Foch, do not intend that there shall be any appreciable temporizing.

Either Germany must accept the conditions dictated, which mean unconditional surrender, or the Allies will push the war with all the aggression that has been manifest in the last few months.

Although no official statement was made in Washington upon the point, it was generally understood tonight that German emissaries were on their way to see Marshal Foch. So far as official information goes, Germany has not yet received Foch's terms. The terms were cabled last night and although official word may not have reached Berlin, there was a wireless flash that gave an indication of them.

The President's note to Germany was put upon the cables by the Swiss Minister before 6 o'clock last night, and must have reached Berlin early this morning.

Expect Action by Tomorrow Night.

There is every expectation that Germany will make known her decision as to the terms of the armistice before Friday night. The prevalent opinion here is that she will accept the terms.

To this decision she will be moved by more than military expediency. If the decision were left to the military leaders of the nation, it is hardly questioned that the terms would be refused, but since the Berlin Government began its latest peace negotiations the situation has changed, so that the powers which began the pourparlers no longer possess the supreme political authority and the people are unwilling to gamble further with their fate.

A big Entente authority tonight expressed the opinion that Emperor William, although reluctantly, was inclined toward acceptance of the armistice terms. In addition to the interests of the nation, those of the Hohenzollern dynasty, it was argued, demand it. If the military heads should insist upon rejection and carry the Government with them, such a course, it was pointed out, could only be prompted by a reasonable hope of defeating America and the Allies, or of creating a break among the Allies. As neither of these alternatives is believed to be likely, there is left to Germany, therefore, only surrender, that being the essence of acceptance by her of the terms proposed.

Germans in Mood for Sacrifice.

While the military leaders of Germany are thought to be ready to fight to the last of the nation's resources in manpower and material, they were aware, a diplomat asserted today, that the German people were of a different mind. The people demand peace even with very great sacrifices, and if the war should be prolonged by refusal to accept the armistice conditions, revolution would threaten.

To Germany, even after a peace that may humiliate her, according to persons in close touch with the developments, the hope remains of recovering her material prosperity even if she be deprived for an appreciable time of the means of remaking her war machine. Germany, it was suggested, has the recollection of Prussia's prostration during the Napoleonic wars, and of her swift revival.

In Washington it is thought that the Entente Powers, and the United States also, will place no insurmountable obstacle in the way of preservation for Germany of the empire and of the Hohenzollern dynasty, provided that Germany lays down her arms now. Should Germany elect to fight on, the Entente nations and the United States would lend every assistance to the German people to sweep away the last vestige of royalty and establish a republic.

Germany cannot in any event prosecute the war through the Winter, military authorities declare, and they look for her capitulation. They believe she hopes to improve her condition at the peace conference as an opportunity given to her now, but which would be denied should the war be pushed to the complete destruction of the German armies and the starting of Bolshevism and anarchy within.

While the Allies' interpretation of President Wilson's peace principles may carry home to Germany a realization that the penalty she must pay for the crimes of her leaders will be drastic, the people are believed to be willing to go to the peace conference with that understanding, depending on the influence of the United States for assurance that the punishment will not exceed the dictates of justice.

Acute interest has been aroused here over President Wilson's position regarding freedom of the seas. The President's attitude, it is believed, may lead to an eventual agreement among the powers on the rights and duties of belligerents and neutrals in naval warfare, although the wording of the President's declaration on the subject, it was suggested, implied a radical step in future negotiations. President Wilson urged in his address of Jan. 8 as one of the principles upon which peace should be re-established the following:

"Absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas outside territorial waters, alike in peace and in war, except as the seas may be closed in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants."

The employment of the term "absolute freedom" by the President has led to the belief that he proposed to give to belligerents the right of carrying on their commerce in wartime without interference by their enemies, and to emancipate neutrals from any interference whatever with their trade by belligerents. The President's words are held to be susceptible of that construction.

Influence of National Traditions.

One authority said tonight:

"It must be remembered that President Wilson is influenced by the traditions of the country, and it is safe to assume that the allied powers are likewise influenced by their national traditions. In the United States the tradition has been in favor of the largest extension of neutral rights, even going so far as to suggest that private property of the enemy, if not contraband, be exempt from seizure or capture. President Wilson apparently believes that, whatever rule may be adopted, it should bind the nations, and that afterward it should only be changed by agreement.

"Great Britain, of course, has been in favor of the widest extension of belligerent rights, inasmuch as Britain has been a belligerent in most of the wars of modern times and has won her empire upon the seas. Hence maritime regulations are of primary importance to her in view of her past and, considering the self-governing dominions, they are equally important today. The same may be said in a lesser degree of France and Italy.

"Therefore it is natural that any change which may be made in what may be considered as the law obtaining at the outbreak of the war in 1914 should be brought about by negotiation and not be determined by one nation, but by the world at large. The Conference of London was an attempt to do this very thing, but it failed, apparently because its provisions did not spring out of actual warfare. The new conference will have to take note of what has happened in the last four years, and what the result may be no man can foresee."

The Russian situation was commented upon today as presenting a serious problem after an armistice is signed with Germany. The allied and American forces in Russia, it was pointed out, could not be withdrawn from that country until all the assistance in the power of the Allies and America had been given, to the end that order and a stable Government might be established there.

The great question, however, which has not yet been determined, is the solution of the Constantinople problem. Russia is expected to claim that port, together with the Dardanelles and the islands off the straits, in the peace conference, in accordance with the terms of the Treaty of London, urging in further support of this claim the plea that the peace of Brest-Litovsk was not between Russia and the Central Empires, but between the Bolshevist traitors and the enemy, which the Russian nation, on account of its prostration due to the demands of the war, was powerless to resist, setting up in evidence of the truth of this declaration Russia's sacrifices in the war and her achievements before her collapse.

GERMANY'S ARMISTICE ENVOYS

Hintze Bore Dewey's Hot Message —All Have Diplomatic Records.

Of the four German Commissioners sent to meet Marshal Foch, Admiral von Hintze is a man of many parts. He is not only a naval officer and a Doctor of Laws, but has distinguished himself in diplomacy and on recent missions for the German Foreign Office.

After the remarks made by Dr. von Kühlmann about a "peace by negotiation" in the Reichstag in July, von Hintze succeeded him as Secretary for the Foreign Office. On Sept. 30, when the Kaiser decided to rebuke the Pan Germans and the military party by amending the German constitution, von Hintze was succeeded by Dr. Solf.

Von Hintze was the Flag Lieutenant of Admiral von Diedrich at Manila Bay in May, 1898, and bore back to his chief Admiral Dewey's famous message, interrupted by the hurried departure of von Hintze:

"Why, I shall stop every vessel, whatever her colors, and if she does not stop I shall fire on her, and that means war, you know, Sir. If Germany wants war, then ——"

About 1900 von Hintze entered the diplomatic service and was attached to the person of the Czar of Russia. Later he went home at the request of Nicholas on account, it is said, of his too great curiosity in regard to Russian State secrets. In 1912 von Hintze was made Minister to Mexico, and it is said that much of the hostility of President Huerta toward the United States was due to his propaganda there.

When the war broke out he was sent as Minister to Peking, whence he made a hurried departure, via Shanghai and San Francisco, when China seemed to be on the point of entering the war in March, 1917.

Von Hintze did not reach Berlin until after the United States had declared war. From that time until he became Foreign Secretary last July he was employed on various secret missions abroad.

It has been said that he was the vehicle through which the German and Bolshevist Governments opened secret negotiations a year ago. Last Summer he was in Switzerland, where he attempted to establish communication between Imperial Chancellor von Hertling and the Belgian Minister at Berne, and actually succeeded in placing in the Belgian's hands, in early September, a formula for Belgium's withdrawal from the war—a document promptly passed on by King Albert to his allies.

Friends of General von Winterfeld have always declared that the unfortunate accident which sent him to a Bordeaux hospital in 1913 was not a fall from his horse—that would have been impossible with such a superb horseman, they say—but an automobile accident, at the French Army manoeuvres, the machine falling on top of him. While he was being cared for at the hospital with every attention which President Poincaré, eminent physicians, and Commanding Generals could bestow, the Kaiser promoted him from Major to Colonel, and on his return to Berlin he received the Iron Cross from the Kaiser's own hands.

When the war began he was in San Sebastian, Spain, either for his health or on a secret service. How he managed to get back to Germany is not known. His mother is the Countess von Alvensleben, who Czar Nicholas II. once said, was the only beautiful German woman he had ever seen. At that time her husband was Ambassador at St. Petersburg.

Little is known about Vice Admiral Meurer except that he has served as Naval Attaché at various capitals, has been in command at Wilhelmshaven, invented the form of naval tactics known as the "mêlée," in the maneuvres of the High Sea Fleet in 1913, and fourteen years before had introduced Admiral, then Captain, A. T. Mahan to the Kaiser, on which the latter enthusiastically cried out:

"I have not read your book, 'Influence of Sea Power on History' — have devoured it."

GERMANS WANT PEACE "AND WANT IT SOON"

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—In appealing to the German people for support, the Berlin Government declares that it must have the confidence of the people and the Reichstag in carrying out reforms. The Government manifesto, which was issued today, [brief extracts from the manifesto were cabled from Basle Tuesday night,] says that Germany is being changed to a democratic State, but if the transformation is to be a success there must be self-discipline among the people.

The text of the manifesto follows:

"The burden of the present time is weighing heavily on the world and the German nation. We must overcome these hard days and their consequences. We must begin working for the happier times to which the German nation has a right.

"The new Government is engaged on this important work. Equal suffrage is assured in Prussia. The new Government is made up of representatives of the majority parties in the Reichstag. The military administration has been placed under the responsibility of the Imperial Chancellor, a far-reaching amnesty has been granted, and freedom of the press and the right of assembly have been guaranteed. There still remains, however, much to do.

"The transformation of Germany into a people's State second to no other country in respect of political freedom and care for the welfare of the masses will be continued resolutely. The reorganization can only exercise its beneficial effects if it encounters among administrative and military authorities a spirit which recognizes and promotes its aims. We expect from our countrymen who serve the Commonwealth in official positions willing co-operation.

"In all parts of the State and Empire we need the maintenance of public safety by the nation itself. We have confidence in the German people. It has proved its brilliant qualities during four terrible years of war and will not allow itself to be driven senselessly and uselessly into new misery by visionaries. Self-discipline and order are needed. All lack of discipline will most seriously endanger the conclusion of a speedy peace.

"The Government and the commanders of the army and fleet want peace. They want it honestly and they want it soon. Until that time we must protect our frontiers against invasion by the enemy. The troops who for weeks have been engaged in severe fighting must be relieved and rested. It is for this reason, and no other, that more men have recently been called up.

"Men of the army and fleet! Our especial thanks are due to you, as well as to your leaders. By your defiance of death and your discipline you have saved the Fatherland.

"One of our most important tasks is economic reconstruction so that soldiers and sailors returning home from the front may find the possibility of assuring existence for themselves and their families. All large associations of employers have declared themselves ready to re-employ immediately their former employes and workmen now serving the colors. Provisions for employment, the support of the unemployed, and for housing and other measures with the same object are in preparation or have been carried out.

"With the conclusion of peace will come an improvement in food and all other conditions of existence."

FOCH PRESSING FOE INTO NARROW GATEWAY

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, Nov. 6.—The German retirement continues on the whole front with even greater rapidity than yesterday.

During the night the French maintained contact with the foe's rearguards by means of patrols and at dawn the pursuit was resumed.

The map shows how Marshal Foch followed his characteristic tactics of pressure on the salient which have been the source of his previous victories.

At the present moment the British are less than fifty miles from Namur, while on the right the French and Americans, already well nigh astride the Metz-Sedan Railroad and hardly twelve miles from Mezières, are only sixty-two miles distance from the Belgian fortress, which is assuming the character of a swiftly narrowing gateway through which the German forces in France, nine armies strong, must retreat.

The extreme point of the salient near Rethel is fully seventy-five miles from Namur, and the Germans, hampered by lack of motor transport, are being crowded ever more dangerously along the roads and railroads still open to them, but never free from the deadly assaults of allied aircraft.

It was reported some weeks ago that Foch said: "I have not yet had my battle."

GERMANY BREAKS WITH THE SOVIET

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6.—Germany has demanded the withdrawal of all Russian representatives in Germany, a Berlin dispatch today announces. The German representatives in Russia, it is added, have been recalled.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 6.—An official report from Berlin says:

The discovery of Russian revolutionary propaganda pamphlets, printed in German, in the baggage of a courier of the Russian Embassy at Berlin is probably the cause of the breaking off of diplomatic relations between Germany and the Russian Soviet Government.

KAISER INSISTS ON KEEPING THRONE

By GEORGE RENWICK.

was that held at Stuttgart on Monday. Twenty thousand people from the Daimler works and the railway workshops gathered together in the palace square under great red flags and vast placards bearing the legend, "Down with war—Long live the social republic."

Many speeches were made and the demonstrators' program was set forth. Its main item was the formation of a Workers' and Soldiers' Council on the Russian lines for the purpose of championing the cause of the workers at the Daimler and other factories.

The demonstrators then marched in a procession to the Ministry of the Interior, where a deputation saw the Minister, laying before him, so reports say, "the full Bolshevist program of a workers' council and demanding his instant decision in favor of it."

The Minister, however, managed to persuade the deputation to give him time to think over the matter.

Work was stopped at all the great factories of Stuttgart and neighborhood for the day. There are said to be signs of this sort of thing becoming a serious factor in the situation.

Say Cabinet Would Retain Kaiser.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 6, (Dispatch to The London Daily Telegraph.)—For a time, at any rate, Wilhelm II. is to remain on the throne. Such is the decision arrived at by the German Government in consultation with the party leaders, after a long controversy. From a well-informed source I understand that the general position is as follows:

The argument urged by the Socialists was that, though President Wilson has not formally demanded the ending of the Hohenzollern dynasty, yet the Kaiser is regarded abroad as the symbol of the militaristic system to which is ascribed the guilt for the war. That system having been rendered powerless, why should not its one remaining symbol be obliterated?

Against that view it was represented by the Conservatives and National Liberals, with also a majority of the Progressives, that the Kaiser was a symbol of something even more important, namely, the unity of the German Empire, and they gave very real reasons for fearing that that unity was in danger of being broken, one of the most weighty being the open advocacy by important Munich journals of Bavarian separatism. This argument gained the day in the party debates.

Bills Lampoon the Kaiser.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

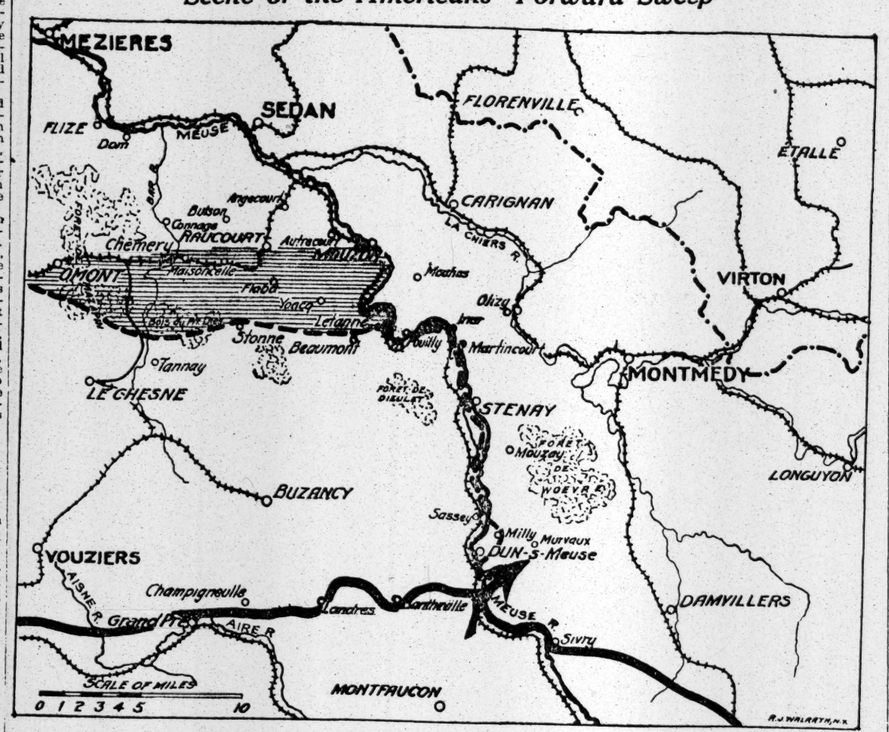

THE HAGUE, Nov. 6, (Dispatch to The London Times.)—Travelers from Germany with whom I have conversed confirm the stories of the present unpopularity of the Hohenzollerns.

One of these informants came from Berlin, where many disloyal bills now are posted. He saw there bills which said: "The Kaiser should be sent to St. Helena," "Down with the Hohenzollerns," "Long Live the social revolution," and "Long live Liebknecht." One bill, representing a prison, bore the inscription: "Liebknecht should be liberated and his place taken by Kaiser Wilhelm."

When this man left Berlin a few days ago the people had not gone so far as to insist on the Kaiser's abdication. Among the working classes opinion as to the advisability of this course was divided, and the result was disputes which often led to fighting between the rival factions, with the intervention of the police as an outcome.

The royal castle is now strongly guarded. All around it is a hedge of infantrymen, not more than a pace from each other. They stand with fixed bayonets and as rigid as statues. Behind them is a ring of Uhlans with drawn swords, and behind them a detachment of machine gunners. Another circle of infantry makes the fourth line of defense. Guns are also stationed on the bridges, giving access to the castle.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES.

The American force will soon have achieved the object for which their offensive in the Argonne was undertaken. They are almost in the shadow of the Ardennes, that wide, deep belt of heavy woods and broken hills through which the Meuse flows northward toward the sea. The German resistance has been badly broken. There is, it is true, no sign of rapid flight, of completely disorganized resistance. But each day marks a material gain in a situation where every yard is of value.

The point, too, at which they are approaching the Metz-Lille road, Sedan, is one of exceptional danger. If Sedan can be reached not only will this railroad be cut, but several important branches which could be used in case of an emergency will also be severed. East of Sedan are found several radiations from the main stem which have served as important connecting links between the armies in the north and those of the south and have aided materially in the distribution of supplies. This connection will be absolutely broken. Just to the west of Sedan is Mézières, where another connecting link from the north comes into the main stem. This is also in as great danger as is Sedan.

It is this line which constitutes the greatest menace to Germany, and which if cut is apt to bring a true disaster. It is at the moment the most vital position in the battle area, and the situation here, which is fast culminating, will prove more potent than any other one factor in hastening Germany's acceptance of the terms of the armistice.

The persistent character of the work of the American forces here has achieved remarkable results under difficulties of terrain as great as those which any army has had to fight against. From the first day of the attack against St. Mihiel up to the present time every advantage has been with the defense. Not once has open country or anything approaching it been reached. What this means can best be appreciated by reference to the fighting in other sectors for even small elevations in open country. This is of special importance in the German defense, which consists principally of machine gun nests, in which character of fighting every position must be taken individually. The worst of the fighting, however, is over for the moment. The heaviest masses of woods have been passed, and while the country ahead is still badly broken, there are greater opportunities for offensive work.

It is useless to expect that we have accomplished the truly great results of the last two months without paying a heavy price. Not an exorbitant price, it is true, for the results have been highly valuable. But a heavy price has been paid—much higher, indeed, than has yet been indicated by the reports. But this is inevitable. Every position or series of positions has its value as expressed in casualties. And our contribution to the general success in bringing the war so near to an end justifies the expenditure we have made, and shows that we have obtained value received. It has been infinitely cheaper to fight the war as has been done during the last four months than to do it piecemeal, throwing in a relatively small number on a local front each day. More men are consumed in the fire each day, but the total required to complete the task is immeasurably lower.

On the British front results have been accomplished which are none the less positive than our own. The great forest of Morval, which it was expected would prove such a stumbling block to the British advance, has been completely taken. In fact, the Germans hardly dared make an issue at this point, but hurried behind the Sambre Canal and the defenses of Maubeuge to seek what shelter was available. The movement here is, too, assuming vital proportions in its relation to the line to the north.

Just as the Germans clung to the north bank of the Sensée Canal, which guarded the southern approaches to Lille, even though the British had pushed far to the east, so here the Germans are clinging desperately to the Scheldt and the Condé Canal, while their lies stand fast at Tournai, where their line follows the bend in the river. This is placing them in a dangerous position from Maubeuge northward from which they will find extrication difficult.

We do not know how much the German in the ranks knows as to just what is happening, or how familiar he is with the details of the surrender of his country's allies. He may know much or he may know nothing. But if he does know we may be sure his heart is not in the fight and that he is ready to lay down his arms whenever there is a legitimate excuse for doing so. The German has no native courage. He is prone to quit when he realizes that he will probably be beaten. Individually he is not a good soldier, though collectively he has proved himself an excellent unit of a machine. But his machine is fast going to pieces, scattering its parts over the roads as it moves. And with the disintegration of the machine the value of the individual dwindles.

hundreds of prisoners have been taken by us.

On our right our troops, pushing forward, captured Cartignies and Marbaix.

In the centre, driving the enemy from his hastily constructed defenses on the east bank of the Sambre, we have crossed the river about Berlaimont and have captured Leval and Aulnoye, where we have taken prisoners. The important railway junction of Aulnoye is in our possession.

Further north we have crossed the Avesnes-Bavay road east of Mormal Forest and reached the railway to the south and west of Bavay, where sharp fighting is taking place within a short distance of the town.

On the left, the Canadian troops are continuing their progress east of the Scheldt and have captured Baisieu and Quievrechain.

The day bulletin is as follows:

North of the Sambre River our advanced troops pressed forward beyond the forest of Mormal and reached the main Avesnes-Bavay road, southeast of Bavay.

Progress was also made north of Bavay and on other parts of the battlefront. A number of additional prisoners were taken.

Great Gains by French.

The night report of the French War Office reads:

Our troops continued to pursue the enemy throughout the day on an extended front between the Sambre and the Meuse. Our armies, breaking down local resistance, made an important advance which exceeded ten kilometers at certain points, and freed numerous localities with their civil population.

The enemy, harassed by our advanced guards, was obliged in the house of his precipitate retreat to abandon guns and considerable material, which it is impossible to enumerate. Everywhere prisoners remained in our hands.

East of the Sanre we reached the eastern outskirts of Nouvion and Regnaval forests.

Further south we have taken Fontaine-les-Vervins and the town of Vervins. Our advance elements have gone beyond the Serre. We hold Hary and La Correrie. Further east, after having occupied Montcornet, we pushed our lines beyond Hocquet, Renneval, and Doligmon.

An Italian corps, operating in close conjunction with our troops, crossed the Hurtaut River, and, despite stubborn resistance by the enemy, stormed Rozoy-sur-Serre.

On the front north of the Aisne our troops are more than twelve kilometers [seven and a half miles] north of Châteu-Porcien on the general line of Hardoye, the southern outskirts of Chaumont-Porcien, Doumely, Begny, Herbigny, and the railroad between Rethel and Liart. The town of Rethel fell into our possession.

Pushing further north with admirable spirit, our troops reached at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the village of Dyonne, six kilometers north of Rethel. In this region our cavalry captured a battery of 77s and one of 105s, taking prisoner three officers, the gunners, and capturing the teams.

has orders to hold there, no matter what else gives way.

We have the boche beaten and the rearguard efforts he puts up melt quickly after we hit them.

Six kilometers was the measure of our advance today just west of the Meuse. With the French Fourth Army smashing across the Aisne at many points today, coming up on our left, Pétain is pushing up toward Mezières and Charleville.

General Foch's message to General Pershing gives big importance to our victory.

Stenay Is Evacuated.

Reports have just come in that Stenay has been evacuated by the Germans. Word has been sent to American commanders that 850 civilians remain in the town. Reports also say that the civilian population of Montmedy has been evacuated and the population of Sedan has been told to get ready to move.

This indicates that the Germans will attempt to defend Montmedy and Sedan while giving up their purpose to make a stand for Stenay. They have sent to the Americans a list of villages with civilians, presumably to avert bombardment. Laneuville, where 210 civilians were left by the enemy, was shelled. Because of this boche warfare the Americans were forced today to take these people back to safety.

Late today Americans at Laneuville received a message brought from Stenay asking that our men reach the people there soon with something to eat, and also get them from under the German shell fire.

Shell Helpless Civilians.

The Germans are able to see from the hills that we have not occupied this town, but they keep shelling it. Up near Laneuville today I met what looked like a picnic. It was two hundred and more civilians who were being taken from their homes at Laneuville where they had lived in bondage for four years.

I asked for the Mayor, but was told that M. Henri had said that he had stuck to the town for four years and was not going to leave it now. The Americans fixed him up a dugout and left him. Others were glad to get from under the hell of shellfire.

Jean Baptiste Verne told me much of the four years' story. He said the Germans had stripped the village, paying for property with German scrip. He had worked four years for Germans, but had been well paid, he added. With tears in his eyes he asked me to thank the Americans for the food his townsmen had received through the lean war years. Verne said the Germans had left at 5 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, and the Americans had entered the village at 8.

Two old women who lived on the outskirts proudly boasted that they were the first to see our doughboys coming down the hill. Scenes in Beaumont, Letanne, and Laneuville will live forever in the memories of the doughboys who rescued the French, weary and hungry and broken in all but spirit.

Took People's Flour.

Folks from all these towns agreed that the boche had left nothing behind. They said that for the last six months the Germans had consistently taken from them white flour furnished by the American relief workers and given them black bread instead.

I was impressed to find that most of the children had learned to speak some German, but without exception the older folks questioned, declared they knew no word nor wanted to. All praised the Americans, but expressed regret at having to leave their homes with peace seeming so near.

The American cavalry is doing great scout work in cleaning up woods lying west of the Meuse. One Lieutenant with sixteen men spent seven hours today in the task of discovering machine gun nests ahead of the infantry by drawing their fire. As soon as a German Maxim opened upon them they would gallop back to tell the infantry. The Lieutenant and two men were slightly wounded in the capture of eighty-one machine guns.

In a district near Stenay we have found a large number of boxes labelled "Lookout; infectious material." These are believed to contain bacilli which are being examined at our laboratories in efforts to discover what the Germans intended doing with them. Warnings have been issued to look out for little tubes in which germs have been placed.

Cloudy weather again hindered air activity today. The air victories in recent fighting add two names to the list of American aces—Lieutenant E. P. Curtis of Rochester, N. Y., and Lieutenant J. Healy of Jersey City, N. J.

Only Six Miles From Sedan.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY ON THE SEDAN FRONT, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—Its footing well established east of the Meuse, the American army has forced its way along both banks of the river until tonight it is within six miles of Sedan.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Germans have put in fresh divisions, the American and French troops continue their grim advance. Murvaux, north of the Freya line and east of Dun, was reached this afternoon, and operations about the heights to the east of Sedan are well under way.

The territory regained about Dun-sur-Meuse includes Lion-devant-Dun, Fontaines, Hill 284, and up to the edge of Côte St. Germaine.

On the west of the river the army moved to the outskirts of Mouzon. Further west it fought its way along a four-mile front to Cogneux Woods. Pourron and Mont de Brune were among the villages captured. Raucourt was reached.

Retreat Before Our Rushes.

The advance on Raucourt and Chémery was accomplished against machine gunfire. The Germans had intrenched themselves in every available shellhole, supplemented by trenches, but were driven out without excessive use of artillery. It was an infantry engagement, the Germans giving way before the steady rushes of the Americans. East of Chémery the American line runs through Maisoncelle.

The advance today between the Meuse and the Bar moved forward at one place more than three miles.

Along the heights of the Meuse, in the region of Sassey and between Milly and Dun, the Americans made progress despite heavy machine gun and artillery resistance on the part of the Germans.

The division fighting in the centre captured today twenty-three 77s, 200 machine guns, fifteen trench mortars, 200,000 rounds of ammunition, and much other material.

When they reached Chémery the troops of the American First Army had advanced slightly more than twenty-seven miles since the Meuse offensive began on Sept. 26.

LIGGETT'S ADVANCE GOES ON.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Troops of Lieut. Gen. Liggett's American First Army are now fighting in the Bois du Fond de Limon, south of Sedan, and have reached the line Flaba, Maisoncelle, and Chémery, General Pershing reports in his communiqué for this morning. The Germans are resisting with artillery and machine guns the advance of the Americans east of the Meuse. The statement follows:

"Headquarters American Expeditionary Force, Nov. 6, (Morning.)

"Between the Bar and the Meuse the First American Army continued its advance northward, where it was opposed by strong resistance.

"Our troops are in the Bois du Fond de Limon, whence the line extends through Flaba, Maisoncelle, and Chemery.

"On the line of the Meuse which we now hold from the Bois de l'Hospice, inclusive to Sassey, and on the height to the east of Milly, and thence to Dun-sur-Meuse, there was severe artillery and machine gun fighting during the night.

"Franco-American units operating in the difficult terrain east of the Meuse against positions long held by the enemy on the front, Sivry to the Bois de La Grande Montagne, were heavily engaged.

"During successful air contests yesterday afternoon, three additional enemy planes were brought down. All of our machines returned."

General Pershing's Tuesday evening communiqué describes advances by the corps under Major Gens. Hines, Summerall, and Dickman. The report follows:

"Headquarters American Expeditionary Forces, Nov. 5, (Evening.)

"The First Army under Lieut. Gen. Liggett has continued its success. Crossing the river south of Dun-sur-Meuse under a heavy artillery fire, which frequently wrecked the newly constructed bridges, the troops of Major Gen. Hines's corps fought their way up the slopes of the east bank. Breaking the enemy's strong resistance, they captured Hill 292, Hill 260, Linydevant-Dun, and drove him from the Boise de Chatillon. During the afternoon our gains in this sector were extended northward; Dun-sur-Meuse was captured and our line pushed forward a mile beyond that town, as far as the Village of Milly.

"The troops of Maj. Gen. Summerall's corps reached the river at Cesse and Luzy and mopped up the forest of Jaulny. The important road centre of Bertmont [Beaumont?] fell before our victorious forces, who pushed on to the Bois de l'Hospice, two miles north of that town, capturing in their advance the Village of Létanne. At Beaumont we liberated 500 French citizens, who welcomed our soldiers as deliverers.

"The advance of the last two days has carried our line to points within five miles of the Sedan-Metz railroad, one of the main lines of communication of the German armies.

"Between Beaumont and Bar, Major General Dickman's corps, in close liaison with the French Fourth Army on its left, pushed forward under heavy artillery and machine-gun fire through the rugged forest areas beyond Stonne. The villages of Yoncq, Le Besace, and Stonne were taken.

"We have taken today, west of the Meuse, fifty-one additional guns, making a total of more than 150 since Nov. 1.

"Thirty of our bombing planes executed a successful raid on Metzeral and on Raucourt this morning, dropping more than two tons of bombs with good effect. Reconnoissance and pursuit squadrons carried out many successful missions, machine gunning enemy troops and greatly assisting the advance of our infantry. Seventeen enemy airplanes were shot down, and two enemy balloons burned. Seven of our planes are missing."

SMITH GOT 260,483 PLURALITY IN CITY

CONNELLY BEATEN BY FABER

Raymond Wilcox Received City's Highest Socialist Vote, 105,866, for State Ticket.

Fully revised returns of Tuesday's vote in the city showed yesterday a plurality for Smith of 260,483 over Governor Whitman. For Lieutenant Governor, Walker had 241,058 plurality over Schoeneck. The total city vote for Governor was 918,660 and for Lieutenant Governor 890,887.

Governor Whitman carried only three Assembly districts in the city vote. These were the Twenty-first Manhattan, Whitman 6,579, Smith 5,788; the Seventeenth Brooklyn, 8,554 to 8,277, and the Twenty-first Brooklyn, 11,329 to 9,903.

Ervin, Socialist, received 85,624 for Governor, having a few more votes in Brooklyn than in Manhattan. His running mate, Bloor, ran 6,700 ahead of Ervin, but got more in Manhattan.

Of other State offices, the city gave Bard 192,600 plurality over Hugo for Secretary of State; Coler, for Controller, 222,449 over Travis; Cohen, for Treasurer, 137,361 over Wells; Morschauser, for Attorney General, 186,932 over Newton, and for Engineer and Surveyor, Ladu over Williams, 210,162. The pluralities in these five cases were overcome by the up-State vote.

The Socialists polled for these other State offices 96,273 for Hugham for Secretary of State, 104,797 for Sheahan for Controller, 98,325 for Noonan for Treasurer, 99,139 for H. D. Wilcox for Attorney General, and 105,866 for Raymond Wilcox for Engineer and Surveyor, the highest vote among the State candidates of the Socialists.

For Supreme Court Justice, First District, including Manhattan and the Bronx, the successful candidates were Dowling, nominated by both Democrats and Republicans, and Wagner and Lydon, who were on the Democratic ticket. Roy and Faber, the latter a Republican, were successful in the Second District, Richmond and Long Island. Connelly led Faber in the early returns, but was finally beaten.

The two County Judges elected in Kings were McDermott and McMahon, Democrats. Cox beat Rodger by 27,921 for County Clerk of Queens. Walsh defeated Siersema by 7,686 for Sheriff of Richmond.

For the Brooklyn Municipal Court, Esterbrook, Republican, won over Fish by 17,532 to 16,306, with Wolf, Socialist, polling 4,111 votes. Brooklyn filled two Aldermanic vacancies, both with Democrats, Larney beating Dilthey in the Thirty-seventh District and Zettler beating Chambers in the Fifty-fifth.

In Manhattan, Boyle, Democrat, defeated Goode for the Municipal Court by 10,178 to 4,587, with Lynn, Socialist, 1,982. O'Kane, Democrat, won for Alderman in the Ninth Manhattan District by 3,089 plurality over Engle, Republican.

SMITH TOO WEARY TO ENJOY TRIUMPH

WILL MAKE NO STATEMENT

Special to The New York Times.

SYRACUSE, Nov. 6.—With State Democratic Chairman Kellogg's assurance that returns showed he had been elected Governor by a plurality of at least 19,000 in the civilian vote ringing in his ears, Alfred E. Smith retired at 10 o'clock tonight in Room 818 in the Onondaga Hotel.

Tired from lack of sleep for three nights and showing the strain of a month's campaign that was packed into two short weeks, the man who was too weary to enjoy his triumph when final figures, filtering in from official and unofficial sources, assured him a substantial plurality, shut the door to all and announced that everything further would have to wait until morning.

No personal statement could be obtained from him other than the admission that all the available figures indicated his election, and an expression of thanks to all who had supported him at the polls.

Will Make No Statement Yet.

Mindful of the Hughes-Wilson episode, he put off all requests for a statement until the Republicans had conceded their defeat. Up to 10 oclock New York friends were in constant communication with Syracuse headquarters by telephone, and declared that George A. Glynn, Republican Chairman, still claimed victory for Whitman.

Scores of up-State Democrats, from Mayor Smith of Utica to the ward leaders of Syracuse, flocked into State headquarters as soon as it was known that Smith had arrived early this afternoon. He saw none of them, with the exception of William H. Kelley of this city and one or two other up-State members of the State Committee, and the group of New Yorkers who came with him. These included Senator Robert F. Wagner, Senator James J. Walker of Brooklyn, and John Godfrey Saxe. Senator James A. Foley, who started with the party, went only as far as Albany.

Chairman Kellogg was more communitive than Mr. Smith. Late tonight he issued this statement:

"I have returns from every county but Sullivan. In all but one or two cases, they are official, coming from the county election officials. In the others, the Democratic County Chairman was ordered to give us the highest possible estimate of the Whitman vote.

"These figures show that Mr. Smith has received a plurality of about 260 000 in Greater New York and Hamilton County. In the other counties, Whitman has received a plurality of 241,000. That gives Mr. Smith a net plurality of 19,000 exclusive of the soldier vote Expects 10,000 Soldier Votes.

"The votes of men in service, if our estimates of their total number are correct, will give him about 10,000 more to add to his plurality. In any event, it is conceded by Republican leaders that he will get more than a majority of such votes.

"These figures were not compiled for amusement, and great care was taken to insure accuracy. They satisfy me that no possible misadventure can overturn Mr. Smith's margin of victory.

"It is true that the returns seem to indicate the defeat of the rest of the Democratic State ticket, with the exception of Mr. Walker, but I am not ready to concede that until I have more reliable information."

Neither Chairman Kellogg nor Mr. Smith expressed the slightest fear of an attempt by the Republican forces up-State to count out the successful candidate.

"We have instructed our county and district leaders to watch the count very carefully," said Judge Kellogg. "That is a natural precaution when the vote is so close as this one. I dare say the Republicans have done the same thing. Mr. Smith has won a clean-cut victory and nothing can deprive him of the fruits of it."

Democrats in Central New York, many of whom called at headquarters during the day and last night, were jubilant over the outcome, even though it resulted in the defeat of all but the two leading candidates.

"We have elected Smith and Walker safely; that is good enough," said Committeeman William H. Kelley. "The rest can wait."

ODDS FAVORED SMITH.

Democratic Candidate Made Favorite in Curb Betting at 7 to 5.

A duplication of the conditions which prevailed after the last Presidential election were enacted on the Curb yesterday, when post-election wagers were made due to the uncertainty which surrounded the Gubernatorial contest and the fight for control in the Senate and House. This is the second time in the history of Wall Street election betting that wagers have been laid after the closing of the polls.

It could not be said that the betting was spirited, probably not more than $2,500 to $3,000 being put up, and this was distributed at odds of from 7 to 5 to 8 to 5 on Smith. At the close of Monday's betting Whitman was a favorite at odds of 7 to 5. There were a number of offers of even money that the House would be Republican, but there were no takers.

New York Pressmen Present Claims

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Thirteen thousand job and cylinder pressmen and members of allied trades in New York City asked the National War Labor Board today for 35 per cent. wage increases, a basic eight-hour day in all shops and reinstatement of men who, they asserted, were locked out by employers.

SMITH AND WALKER WIN IN THE STATE

publican State Committee, in West Thirty-ninth Street, in conference with Republican leaders. These included ex-Chairman Charles B. Hilles of the Republican National Committee, Republican State Chairman George A. Glynn, United Senator William M. Calder, Lafayette B. Gleason, Samuel S. Koenig, F. J. H. Kracke, who led Governor Whitman's fight in Brooklyn; William Chilvers, legal adviser to the Governor; Franklin B. Lord, who formerly occupied that position; William Orr, Secretary to the Governor, and William Barnes. Mr. Barnes, however, only remained in the conference for a little while. When he emerged he was asked if the returns received from districts up-State had improved the Republican prospects any.

"No, I cannot say that they have," said Mr. Barnes. "We will have to wait for official canvass to decide this election as far as the Governorship is concerned; that's my opinion."

"No," said the Governor, "but it is very close. With 200 election districts, approximately, to be heard from, it is one thousand either side. All the other candidates on the Republican State ticket, with the exception of Lieutenant Governor Schoeneck, appear to have been elected by comfortable pluralities, ranging from 70 000 to 80,000. Mr. Schoeneck appears to have been defeated by Harry Walker by approximately 70,000. My own vote up-State marks a new Republican record, but the vote of my opponent in this city was too big to overcome."

At Republican State Headquarters there had been talk among the visiting politicians, which prompted a question whether or not a recount was contemplated. The Governor smiled.

"A recount might be desirable in some districts," he replied.

Governor Whitman said that Monroe, Chautauqua, St. Lawrence, and Albany Counties, in the order named, had done best for the Republican candidates. Onondaga, while not coming up to the mark, in Governor Whitman's estimation, did pretty well. The result in Erie and Westchester, he admitted, had been extremely disappointing. Erie gave a plurality of approximately 7,775, where 20,000 had been expected; Westchester gave 8,970, instead of the 16,000 that had been promised.

Alfred E. Smith, after remaining up practically all Tuesday night receiving returns, took an early train for Syracuse yesterday morning, accompanied by a squad of Democratic lawyers, who were to assist in protecting the partys interests in the counting of the vote up-State. Reports of attempted vote buying in some up-State districts and in some of the Hudson River counties, notably Orange, according to friends of Mr. Smith, had somfething to do with the hurried journey.

Among those who went with Mr. Smith were John Godfrey Saxe, an expert on the election law; Senators Robert F. Wagner and James A. Foley, and a dozen other attorneys. Senator Foley, who has had supervision for the Democratic State Committee of the polling of the soldiers' vote, dropped off at Albany, where he called upon Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo and caused the returns from the cantonments, of which the Secretary of State is custodian under the law, to be transferred from his office in the State Capitol to a safe deposit vault in Albany.

Joseph Augustus Kellogg, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee and the Democratic Campaign Committee, after a conference with Mr. Smith, sent out the following statement from his Syracuse headquarters last night:

"Alfred E. Smith has been elected Governor. His plurality will be more than 18,000. No upsets are possible."

Abram I. Elkus, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee for Alfred E. Smith, issued this statement from his headquarters in the Hotel Biltmore late last night:

"The latest returns show that the election of Alfred E. Smith as Governor is absolutely assured. With only sixty election districts missing in the entire State, Mr. Smith has a plurality of more than 12,000. This would indicate that the net plurality will not be less than 10 000, exclusive of the soldiers' vote. The soldier vote, when counted, will more than double Mr. Smith's plurality."

While all the districts not heard from at the time Mr. Elkus made his statement are assumed to be Republican strongholds, it was regarded impossible by the Democratic leaders that the Governor could possibly average the plurality of 200 to a district that would be necessary to wipe out the 12,000 plurality on the face of the returns. The Governor has averaged only about 57 plurality to an election district in the Republican territory up State.

An analysis of the returns has convinced the Republican leaders that the result of Tuesday's election is not to be regarded as a party disaster, but rather as a personal defeat for a Republican Governor who has managed to make himself unpopular with large groups of voters. In support of this contention they point to the fact that except for the losses sustained in this city as a result of the landslide for Alfred E. Smith, Governor Whitman's Democratic opponent, and the defeat of his personal friend, Senator George B. Wellington of Troy, who was a candidate for re-election, the Republicans had held their own in the lawmaking body as well as in [illegible] local elections up-State. In the [illegible] the Republicans suffered only [illegible]s of six and in the Assembly a [illegible] of four. The Democrats made [illegible] greater in proportion, but these [illegible] at the expense of the Socialists, who lost eight seats in the Assembly, returning only two representatives of their party to the House in Albany.

Lay Defeat to Prohibition.

Governor Whitman's extreme stand for the ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment and his resistance to the proposal for a popular referendum on the question, was advanced by many of the Republican leaders who gloomily studied election figures at headquarters of the Republican State Committee yesterday as one of the principal causes of his defeat. Governor Whitman himself admitted that the overwhelming plurality for Smith in this city and the comparatively poor showing for himself in some of the up-State cities undoubtedly was due to his advocacy of a bone dry State.

Governor Whitman is aware, too, and his belief is shared by most of the Republican leaders, that the B. R. T. wreck in Brooklyn on the eve of the election was, perhaps, the one thing that more than anything else contributed to his defeat. The figures in this city show that Governor Whitman lost the Borough of Brooklyn by more than 77,000, where 42,000 has been regarded as the maximum plurality by which that borough could be carried by the Democrats.

The wreck, which occurred within the confines of the very Assembly district where Public Service Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke is the leader, it was said yesterday by the gloom-ridden Republicans, served to recall the bitter criticism of the Governor's course in appointing men on the Public Service Commission for what they could deliver to him practically rather than for what they could deliver to the people in the way of supervisory service, which was voiced by Attorney General Merton E. Lewis when he was a candidate against Governor Whitman in the Republican primaries, and which since was used with tremendous effectiveness by Alfred E. Smith in the general campaign.

The defeat of Governor Whitman, it was generally conceded yesterday, would shatter the hopes of those who had been contending for the immediate ratification of the Federal prohibition amendment, and had hoped that with Governor Whitman re-elected he would contrive to bring pressure on a Republican Legislature to act favorably on the amendment. A very large number of the Republican Assemblymen up-State were running with prohibition indorsement and others had been pledged to support ratification by the New York Anti-Saloon League. But with the Governor defeated, it was pointed out, the lawmakers would gladly take advantage of the situation to dodge a vote on the question. The advocates for ratification had pinned their hopes on the re-election of Governor Whitman. William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, last night said:

"We are advised from our Washington office this afternoon that four States—Wyoming, Florida, Nevada, and Minnesota—voted dry yesterday, making thirty-two prohibition States. As five 'wet' States have already ratified the Federal prohibition amendment, this makes a total of thirty-seven, or one more than the number necessary, thus insuring ratification next Winter whether New York ratifies or not."

With the city complete and 1,872 up-State districts missing, Francis M. Hugo, Republican candidate for Secretary of State, had 737,261, as compared with 728,575 for Franklin E. Bard, Democrat. Bird S. Coler, Democratic nominee for Controller, had 735,989 and Eugene M. Travis, Republican, 708,165, with 1,980 districts missing. All the returns still to come were from Republican sections up-State, however.

In the contest for State Treasurer, James L. Wells, Republican, had 737,109 and Jacob G. Cohen, Democrat, 681,642, with 1,875 districts missing.

With 1,877 districts missing, Charles D. Newton, Republican nominee for Attorney General, had 729,573, and Charles Morschauser, Democrat, 721,164.

Dwight B. La Du, Democratic candidate for State Engineer and Surveyor, had 703,018, with 1,879 districts missing, as compared with 678,850 for Frank M. Williams, Republican.

The election of State officers representing both parties is by no means unprecedented. When Charles E. Hughes was elected Governor in 1906, Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler and other Democrats were elected to serve with him.

"Efficient" Robert Burns!
WE call Robert Burns "efficient," for the very good reason that he appeals particularly to efficient men!
Efficient men like to smoke — but they usually prefer a cigar of mild aroma, that will respond to "encores" without displaying a tendency to "hit back."
The fragrant Havana in Robert Burns' filler just fills the bill with business and professional men of more-than-average efficiency.
Perhaps a change to mild, efficient Robert Burns would solve your smoke problem!

Why We Will Win the War

The parents of our soldiers wanted something more in life than Europe had to offer them. And so they tore up their home anchorages and went to the United States. It takes a good man or woman to do that; healthier and more ambitious than their neighbors.

Men and women like that are going to have fine children; ambitious children with lots of red, good blood and brimming health. They will be better than their average run of cousins back in Europe. That is why we will win this war. It was all decided years ago by the fathers and mothers of these boys of ours.

CONGRESS PASSES TO REPUBLICANS

torial election was the defeat of ex-Governor Joseph M. Folk, Democrat, by S. P. Spencer, Republican, in Missouri.

Senator T. J. Walsh, Democrat, had a narrow shave in obtaining re-election from Montana. In Nebraska, Senator G. W. Norris, Republican, one of the "willful twelve" scored by President Wilson for bringing about the defeat of the Administration's Armed Ship bill, was re-elected by a very small majority. New Hampshire elected two Republican Senators, one of whom will succeed Senator Hollis, Democrat. Two Republicans have also been elected in New Jersey, one of them, Governor Walter E. Edge, and the other, David Baird, who is now serving in the Senate by appointment as successor to the late William Hughes, Democrat.

Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, Democrat, has been elected to succeed himself, although first returns indicated that he might be defeated. In West Virginia, Davis Elkins, Republican, who served a brief term as Senator in succession to his father, the late Stephen B. Elkins, has been elected for a full term of six years, to take the place of Senator Nathan B. Goff, Republican.

The turn-over politically in the Senate and the House will bring about a complete change in the chairmanships and dominating personnel of all the important committees.

In the Senate the Committee on Foreign Relations, to which is referred all treaties and matters of international relations, will be headed by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, now the Republican leader in the upper house. Senator Lodge has been a bitter critic of the President's attitude on the war and has stood with Colonel Roosevelt in criticising President Wilson.

Following the rule of seniority of service in the selection of Chairmen of the Senate committees, the other important Chairmanships in that body when it comes under Republican control will probably go to the following:

Warren, Wyoming, Appropriations; McLean, Connecticut, Banking and Currency; Jones, Washington, Commerce; Borah, Idaho, Education and Labor; Dillingham, Vermont, Privileges and Elections or Immigration; Cummins, Iowa, Interstate Commerce; Nelson, Minnesota, Judiciary; Kenyon, Iowa, Manufactures or Privileges and Elections; Wadsworth, New York, Military Affairs; Poindexter, Washington, or Harding, Ohio, Naval Affairs; Page, Vermont, Agriculture; Smoot, Utah, Public Lands; Knox, Pennsylvania, Rules, and Johnson, California, Woman Suffrage.

The House will elect a new Speaker in place of Champ Clark. It is likely that this will go to Representative Mann of Illinois or Representative Gillett of Massachusetts. Whichever is chosen, the other probably will be Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, the post now held by Representative Swagar Sherley of Kentucky, whose defeat on Tuesday was a great surprise. Others mentioned in connection with the Appropriations Committee Chairmanship are Representatives Moon of Pennsylvania and Longworth and Fess of Ohio.

Representative Fordney of Michigan is regarded as certain to become Chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means. This Chairmanship is now held by Representative Claude Kitchin of North Carolina, and it usually carries with it, as in Mr. Kitchin's case, the floor leadership of the majority party in the House.

The important Chairmanship of the Committee on Military Affairs probably will go to Representative Julius Kahn of California, who would replace Representative Dent of Alabama. Dent was opposed to the selective draft and other war measures, and on account of his opposition to them they were engineered through the House for the Military Affairs Committee by Representative Kahn, the ranking Republican member of that committee. Mr. Kahn was born in Germany, but has shown himself to be a stalwart American and firm for a vigorous prosecution of the war.

There are in the House several committees which have power to investigate expenditures of the executive departments. During control of the Democratic majority the Republicans have been powerless to compel investigation of things which they have attacked. In control of those committees, which in times of peace are of practically no importance, the field for investigation of the Democratic Administration by a Republican House is thrown wide open almost on the eve of the next Presidential election.

In certain reconstruction, fiscal and other legislation, the Republicans are prepared to initiate new policies in the next House, with a bearing upon the Presidential campaign of 1920. The House Republicans are planning a definite program dealing with after-the-war problems. They have pledged themselves to prosecute the war to its conclusion.

In the committee changes, Southern Democrats who have held most of the Chairmanships, under the senior service rule, will be displaced by Northern and Western Republicans. Solid Republican delegations will come to the next House from at least twelve States—Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington, and Wyoming. The Democrats also will retain solid fronts from at least twelve States—Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nevada, North Carolina, South Caroline, Texas, and Utah.

McCORMICK'S PLURALITY NOW EXCEEDS 50,000

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 6.—With the returns still incomplete Congressman Medill McCormick's plurality for United States Senator is indicated around 55,000. With 475 down-State precincts still missing, his plurality over Senator James Hamilton Lewis stood at 42,620. If the missing precincts return figures in the same ratio as the rest of the State the final plurality for McCormick is estimated at between 55,000 and 60,000.

Cook County complete gave Lewis a plurality of 44,068. The figures were: McCormick, 156,007; Lewis, 200,875. William B. Ross Lloyd, Socialist, got only 21,101. Down-State 2,725 precincts out of 3,200 gave McCormick 271,914 and Lewis 185,226. This was a lead of 86,688 for McCormick. Incomplete returns indicate that McCormick carried the down-State regions by 100,000, which was about the Taft down-State plurality in 1908. Senator Lewis today sent this message of congratulation to Mr. McCormick:

> My Dear Mr. McCormick: From the returns of the election in this State you have been chosen as my successor as United States Senator for Illinois. I congratulate you and sincerely wish for you a career that will be a distinction to our State and an honor to yourself.
> I beg you to command my aid in your office in every way possible.
> Yours very truly,
> JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS.

Senator-elect McCormick sent the following reply:

> My Dear Senator: I thank you for your cordial letter of congratulation, and now that the campaign is over, am glad to think that we may continue in friendly co-operation as representatives of the State which has honored us both. During the life of the present Congress each of us will continue to serve Illinois and the country according to his opportunity and responsibility.
> With all best wishes, I am sincerely yours, MEDILL McCORMICK.

There is some talk in Democratic circles of making Senator Lewis the party candidate for Mayor of Chicago at the April election. The Republicans in Illinois have gained one congressional seat, according to the latest available returns tonight. Congressman Martin D. Foster, in the Vandalia district, one of the recognized leaders of the House, has been defeated by E. B. Brooks, Republican, of Newton.

The Republicans retain control of the legislature. The "Dry" claim tonight was that there is an easy majority in the next House on the direct issue of ratification of the Federal Constitutional prohibition amendment. This claim is not denied by the "Wets."

REPUBLICANS' LEAD CUT IN LEGISLATURE

TWO WOMEN IN ASSEMBLY

Democrats Made Greatest Gains in This City—Only Two Socialists Elected.

The Republican majority in both the Senate and Assembly was further reduced yesterday when complete returns were at hand. These showed that the next Senate would have only 29 Republicans and 22 Democrats, as compared with 36 Republicans and 15 Democrats in the present Senate.

The next Assembly will be composed of 92 Republicans, 56 Democrats, and 2 Socialists, as compared with 96 Republicans, 43 Democrats, 10 Socialists, and 1 Independent in the present Assembly.

The new division gives the Republicans a working majority of 4 in the Senate and of 17 in the Assembly. This will not be sufficient to enable the Legislature to overrule Gubernatorial vetoes, which is an important consideration in view of the likelihood that Alfred E. Smith, candidate of the opposition party, may receive a certificate of election and take his seat as Governor.

Two Women Elected.

Two women will sit in the next Assembly. One of these, Mrs. Ida B. Sammis, who will represent the Second Suffolk District, is a Republican. The other, Miss Mary M. Lilly, who on revised returns was found to have won in the Seventh Assembly District in Manhattan, defeating Assemblyman Ellenbogen, is a Democrat.

The Democrats have greatly increased their representation from this city. In the present Legislature there are fourteen Democratic Senators and thirty-eight Democratic Assemblymen representing New York City districts. In the next Legislature there will be twenty Democratic Senators and fifty-one Democratic Assemblymen to represent the city. The Republicans will have only three Senators and nine Assemblymen and the Socialists only two Assemblymen from this city, where they had ten in the last Assembly.

The Democrats made their inroads on the Republican strength in this city. They made only one notable gain up-State in the defeat of Senator George B. Wellington, who represents Rensselaer in the Present Senate. John J. Mackrell of Troy was the Democrat elected to succeed him.

The two Socialists elected to the next Assembly are August Claessens, who was re-elected from the Seventeenth Assembly District in Manhattan, and Charles Solomon, who will serve his first term in the Assembly from the Brownsville district in Brooklyn as successor to Abraham I. Shiplacoff, Socialist leader of the present Assembly.

Senator C. F. Murphy Defeated.

Complete returns from the Senate election showed the loss of two additional Senate districts to the Republicans, both in this city. In the Sixth, which is a Brooklyn district, Loring M. Black, Jr., who served in the Senate during the Dix administration, turned out the winner in his fight against Senator Charles F. Murphy, an influential member of the Kings County Republican organization, who was a candidate for re-election.

In the Seventeenth, Manhattan District, Assemblyman Schuyler M. Meyer, who was the Republican candidate, was defeated by Julius Miller, his Democratic opponent, who is a newcomer in the lawmaking body.

NEWBERRY HOLDS LEAD OVER FORD

Michigan Race for Senate, However, Narrows to Close Margin on Late Returns.

DETROIT A BIG SURPRISE

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—In the race between Henry Ford and Truman H. Newberry for the United States Senate, Newberry, the Republican candidate, had a lead of 5,000 votes tonight with Wayne County and Detroit City complete and only 220 State precincts unreported. The count stood:

Newberry, 204,816; Ford, 199,815.

The missing precincts were nearly all in rural districts, and were expected to bring Newberry's lead up to about 6,000.

At one time today Newberry was leading by only 750 votes. This was when the completion of the city count was reached. After Wayne County was complete, Newberry's total began to rise.

If Newberry's majority is under 9,000 or 10,000 the chances are favorable to a recount. Today, when it looked as if the Newberry vote was to be reduced to the barest margin, Elbert H. Fowler, Secretary of the Ford Non-Partisan Committee, wired to Governor Sleeper, asking that all ballot boxes be carefully guarded.

"If Mr. Newberry's majority is under 10,000 we will ask a recount," said Fowler.

The avalanche of votes for Ford in Detroit was one of the surprises of the election. Democratic State Central headquarters considered itself extremely optimistic by announcing 15,000 as a possible majority for Ford in Wayne County. Republicans figured 10,000 would about cover it. Instead the Ford majority in Wayne is 27,130. Added to this came unexpected strength for Ford in the Upper Peninsula. Newberry carried it by probably less than 4,000, whereas 10,000 majority had been relied upon. No explanation has been received for the slump in Newberry strength in Menominee and Delta Counties.

The industrial centres, despite the showing up to this morning, showed Ford strength. Saginaw City reduced the majority in that county; in Flint the story was the same. Grand Rapids failed to come through as expected by the Newberry supporters, the Republican candidate carrying it by only twenty-one votes. Ford carried Jackson County by about seventy-five, and he carried Kalamazoo County by forty-five.

Michigan will be represented in the next Congress by twelve Republicans and one Democrat, a gain of one for the Republicans. Congressman Samuel Beakes, Democrat, was defeated in the Second District by Earl Michener. Beakes made no campaign.

Frank E. Doremus, Democratic Congressman, in the First District, made a wonderful race. Although his district is normally Republican he defeated James Hanley, Republican, by more than 8,000.

WALSH WON BY 18,908.

Election of Senator the Only Democratic Gain in Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—The plurality of Ex-Governor David I. Walsh, Democrat, over John W. Weeks for the Senate was 18,908 votes. The vote of the State complete was:

Walsh, (Democrat,) 206,710.
Thomas W. Lawson, (Independent,) 22,000.

The Democrats were unable to make any inroads on the Republican representation in the House of Representatives from this State. All except one of the present Congressmen, both Democratic and Republican, were candidates for re-election and were returned, with the exception of Congressman Peter F. Tague, Democrat. Mr. Tague was defeated for renomination in the Democratic primaries by John F. Fitzgerald, former Congressman and former Mayor of Boston. He lost an appeal to the election commissioners in which he charged fraud at the primaries, and ran for the election on stickers. Mr. Fitzgerald was elected by a close vote, the Republican candidate running a poor third. Congressman William H. Carter, Republican, did not seek re-election, but a Republican was chosen as his successor in the person of former Lieutenant Governor Robert Luce.

Lieutenant Governor Calvin Coolidge, Republican, was elected Governor by a plurality of 17,147 over Richard H. Long, Democrat. The total vote was: Collidge, 214,107; Long, 196,960.

STANLEY ELECTED BY 7,275.

Kentucky Governor Wins Senate Race—Cause of Sherley's Defeat.

Special to The New York Times.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 6.—Latest returns from 120 counties give A. O. Stanley, Democrat, an estimated majority of 7,275 over Dr. Ben L. Bruner, Republican, in the race for United States Senator.

Swagar Sherley, Kentucky's most brilliant Representative in Congress, owes his defeat by C. F. Ogden, Republican, to a combination of circumstances, chief of which is the fact that the Republicans have been in the saddle in this district since last November, when they won all city and county offices. The district has always been close, and the Republican advantage brought about by control of the Police and Fire Departments and consequent subjugation of negro voters was more than the Democratic organization could overcome.

Another element entering into the result was the fact that there was a strong undercurrent against Governor Stanley, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, in Louisville, his bitterest enemies stamping under the log cabin emblem rather than take a chance of invalidating their ballots by "scratching" the ticket.

Much of the labor vote went against Sherley because he opposed the bill increasing the pay of postal employes, resulting in a widespread impression that he was aligned with capital rather than labor. From his entrance into politics Congressman Sherley has been a poor mixer, and this has given rise to the belief among a certain element that he considered himself aloof from the crowd. Some Germans, heretofore identified with the Democratic Party in this district, are also believed to have knifed Sherley, actuated by spite against the President.

In virtually all his other races Mr. Sherley had the advantage of being the candidate of the party in power in this district. He led the Democratic ticket in the district yesterday, being defeated by only 1,084 votes.

Governor Stanley, elected to the United States Senate, according to the latest returns, lost this district by 3,126.

CLOSE RACE IN IOWA.

Republicans Elect Gov. Harding by 12,000—Full Sweep for Congress.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 6.—Late returns show that Governor W. L. Harding, Republican, was re-elected yesterday in one of the closest Gubernatorial contests in Iowa in recent years. He defeated Claude R. Porter, Democrat, by approximately 12,000 votes. Returns from 2,061 precincts out of 2,348 in the State gave Harding 164,692 and Porter 152,586.

Republicans won in all important contests, re-electing Senator Kenyon and choosing all of the eleven Congressmen, a gain of one.

ELKINS WINS BY 15,000.

West Virginia Republicans Also Elect Five or Six Congressmen.

Special to The New York Times.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 6.—Precinct returns from 1,204 of the 1,803 election districts in West Virginia give these totals for the United States Senatorship:

Davis Elkins, Republican, 84,324; Clarence W. Watson, Democrat, 71,109; Elkins's majority, 13,215.

On the complete returns for the State the Elkins majority will be increased to more than 15,000. Republicans have elected five of the six Congressmen and have won the Legislature in both Houses by overwhelming majorities. Of the fifteen State Senators elected yesterday, twelve are Republicans, two Democrats, and one in doubt.

FALL 1,000 VOTES AHEAD.

New Mexico Returns, However, Are Far from Complete.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 6.—Election returns in New Mexico are slow in coming in and all the contests are going to be close. Senator A. B. Fall, Republican, is leading W. H. Walton by about 1,000, and the Republicans say he will maintain this lead. The Democrats, however, declare Walton is elected. Both sides base their predictions upon a few scattering returns and estimates.

Phipps's Lead Cut in Colorado.

DENVER, Nov. 6.—Returns tonight cut down the lead of Lawrence C. Phipps and Oliver H. Shoup, Republican candidates for United States Senator and Governor, to 6,459 and 13,000, respectively, but with only 315 sparsely settled precincts missing out of 1,532 in the State. Both seemed certain of election by substantial pluralities. The Socialist candidates polled a very light vote, and thus far none of the Socialist candidates for the State Legislature had been elected.

Nelson's Plurality Increases.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 6.—The Republican victories of Senator Knute Nelson and Governor J. A. A. Burnquist were emphasized by increasing leads from returns counted this morning. Burnquist's total was 30,809, compared with 21,145 for Fred E. Wheaton, Democrat, and 22,510 for David H. Evans, Nonpartisan League candidate.

Senator Henderson Is Re-elected.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 6.—Incomplete returns from the sixteen Nevada counties show that Senator Charles B. Henderson has defeated Congressman E. E. Roberts for Senator by a substantial majority, and that Charles B. Evans, Democrat, is elected Representative in Congress, defeating S. S. Downer, Republican.

Nugent Gains in Idaho.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 6.—At midnight United States Senator John F. Nugent, (Democrat,) seemed certain of re-election, his lead over Frank R. Gooding, (Republican,) having grown to 1,080, with 82,000 votes accounted for. The unaccounted vote is estimated at 15,000.

CHAMP CLARK ELECTED.

Speaker's Majority Is About 1,000—Folk Defeated by 20,000.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6.—Incomplete returns received tonight indicated the election of Selden P. Spencer, Republican, by a plurality of 20,000 votes over ex-Gov. Joseph W. Folk to fill the unexpired term of Senator Stone, and the re-election by 1,000 votes of Speaker Champ Clark, who was reported defeated last night.

The defeat of the State-wide prohibition amendment by 10,000 was also indicated.

DRYS WIN IN OHIO; GOV. COX ELECTED

Rural Returns Increase Prohibition Lead and Majority May Reach 15,000.

CONGRESS DEMOCRATS LOSE

State's Delegation Apparently Comprises 14 Republicans and 8 Democrats.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 6.—Ohio yesterday entered the fast growing column of States where intoxicating liquors may not legally be sold or purchased. With the reports from rural counties returned today showing such a marked tendency toward the "dry" amendment it became evident early that the 30,000 lead that the "wets" had obtained would be overcome, and predictions to this effect proved true.

With slightly fewer than 500 precincts out, almost all of which are situated in territory which heretofore has been dry, the prohibition forces have assumed a lead of 15,810 tonight, and their leaders confidently predict that the final majority will be close to 15,000. The vote: With 5,148 precincts out of 5,756, prohibition polled 396,436, while the voters opposed to prohibition polled 380,585.

With a little more than 350 precincts missing, Governor Cox, Democrat, has established a lead of 18,768 over his Republican opponent, Frank B. Willis, and the latter has conceded his opponent's election. Returns to the Secretary of State's office today, however, indicated that the State House would have a divided body, as almost the entire State Republican ticket has been elected.

The Republicans also supported their Congressional nominees in a manner that reached the hopes of their leaders The Ohio delegation in Congress will consist of fourteen Republicans and eight Democrats, whereas last election thirteen Democrats and nine Republicans were elected.

While returns from the rural districts are slow, the indications point to a Democratic State Senate and House of Representatives.

Dry leaders are firm in their contentions that a majority of the men who have been elected to these two bodies will support the Federal Constitutional amendment relative to prohibition. In this connection, however, a peculiar situation revealed itself at the polls yesterday when a State amendment was passed conferring upon the people the right to refer back to the people any ratification by the Legislature of any Federal Constitutional amendment. Dry leaders point out that inasmuch as the State went dry they have no fear of a referendum.

California Probably Stays "Wet."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 6.—Defeat of a "bone dry" liquor amendment in California was indicated by returns tonight from 2,533 complete precincts of 6,191 in the State, which gave: "Yes," 110,369; "No," 143,137. Decisive pluralities for Governor William D. Stephens and the Republican State ticket in general were shown tonight. If there is no upset in two contested districts California will have a Congressional delegation of five Democrats and six Republicans. A Republican and "dry" Legislature also apparently was elected.

Wyoming Goes Into Dry Column.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 6.—Wyoming returns early today indicate a landslide for the entire Republican ticket in the State. Wyoming is estimated to have adopted prohibition two to one.

Minnesota May Be Dry.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 6.—The contest for State-wide prohibition proved extremely close in this State, with the latest returns giving the dry's a majority of 1,100.

Benjamin Franklin, says:

VICTOR BERGER ELECTED.

Indicted Socialist Carries His District by More Than 5,000 Votes.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 6.—Ten Republican Congressmen and one Socialist, Victor L. Berger, were elected in Wisconsin yesterday, while Governor Emanuel L. Philipp, Republican, swept the State and carried his associates on that ticket with him. Philipp's plurality is expected to reach 50,000.

The Socialists elected their Milwaukee County ticket, displacing several Republican office holders who had been in office many years.

Berger's vote was a general surprise, in face of two Federal indictments hanging over him for violation of the Espionage act. He polled 17,822 against Carney, Democrat, 12,315, and Stafford, Republican, 10,593. The district usually returns a Republican.

Democrats Gain in Oklahoma.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 6.—The re-election of United States Senator Robert L. Owen, and a gain of one Democratic Congressman, E. B. Howard, in the First District, is indicated in returns today from slightly more than one-half of the State. Returns received here from 833 precincts in fifty-one counties give: For Governor, Robertson, Democrat,) 43,121; McKeever, (Republican,) 37,754. The re-election of all six Democratic Congressmen is reported by election officials to be practically assured.

WET STATES GO DRY.

Prohibitionists Pleased at Vote in Florida, Wyoming, and Ohio.

Prohibition forces here were elated by the election returns showing a shift of three States to the "dry" portion of the country. Florida, Wyoming and Ohio they said certainly had voted dry. The Prohibitionists also declared that their advices showed that Minnesota and Nevada also had voted for total prohibition. William H. Anderson, Superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon League, said he had been notified by the national organization at Washington that the latest count of the votes in Minnesota and Nevada up to last night indicated complete prohibition success in both of these States.

CAPT. NICOLL KILLED IN FLANDERS BATTLE

CAPT. FROTHINGHAM ON LIST

Brooklyn Officer Serving with the Upton Division Is Gassed and Shell Shocked.

Captain Fancher Nicoll, who was in command of Co. L of the 107th Infantry, was killed on the Flanders front in the latter part of September. Only twenty-nine of the company are said to have survived the battle in which he was killed. In a letter received by a relative of Captain Nicoll from one of these survivors, the writer says that "we will never have another man to compare with him unless it be Byrne. Even when Captain Nicoll was dying he reached out his hand to comfort his company clerk, who had been wounded beside him." Captain Nicoll was 39 years of age, and a son of the late James C. Nicoll. He was a graduate of Williams College and of the Columbia University Law School. He had been in the 7th Regiment eighteen years. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Captain Harry A. Frothingham, commanding Co. K of the 308th Infantry of the Upton Division, is in an American base hospital in France, suffering from gas poisoning and shell shock. He is a Plattsburg trained officer, and a son of Mrs. L. G. Frothingham of 450 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn.

Lieutenant Arthur Walters of the 305th Machine Gun Battalion of the Upton Division, has been killed in action. He was 23 years of age, and was commissioned from the ranks of the 77th Division. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward T. Waters of 819 Sutter Avenue, Brooklyn. He was in business in Manhattan when he was called for service in the National Army.

Lieutenant Edwin F. O'Dougherty, wounded, is in the 167th Infantry of the Rainbow Division. He was trained at Plattsburg. He is a graduate of Stevens Institute and his home is at 854 Park Place, Brooklyn.

Lieut. Col. Emory J. Pike, killed in action, was a West Point graduate of the class of 1901 and a former troop commander of the Second Cavalry. He was an honor graduate of the Army School of the Line and also of the Army Staff College. He was killed while trying to rescue one of his men who had been buried by an explosion in a dugout. He was 42 years of age and a native of Des Moines.

Major Benjamin Sloan Beverly, a member of the West Point class of 1916, died recently on a transport while en route to Europe. He was an artilleryman and was 27 years of age. His home was in Virginia.

Dennis J. Ford, killed on Sept. 28, was in the Forty-seventh Machine Gun Battalion. He was 16 years of age and got into the service by giving his age as slightly in excess of 18 years. His home was at 164 Wyckoff Avenue, Brooklyn.

Sergeant Frank P. Hughes, dead of wounds, went to France with the New York Division. He was 31 years of age and was a construction engineer. He was a cousin of Miss Isabel Chancellor of 991 East 167th Street.

Thomas Cooney, Jr., killed, was a son of Thomas Cooney of 340 East Fifty-second Street. He was 23 years of age and a member of Company L of the 310th Infantry of the Seventy-eighth Division.

William J. O'Brien and his brother Edmund have both been wounded. They are in the New Jersey Guard Division and are the sons of Policeman Michael F. O'Brien of East Orange.

Sergeant Joseph De Soucey, wounded, is in Company B of the 302d Engineers. His home is at 376 Potter Avenue, Astoria, L. I.

Corporal James Duffy, wounded, is a member of Company M of the 165th Infantry. His home is at 139 Third Street, Astoria.

William De Vane Pullen, killed on Sept. 29, was a member of Co. K of the 107th Infantry. He was born in Alabama, and was a son of Mrs. Margaret K. Pullen of this city.

F. Lyman Dunnell, Jr., wounded in the fighting before St. Quentin, is in Co. F of the 107th Infantry. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Dunnell of 106 Central Park West.

Stanley S. Hallett, dead of influenza in France, was in Co. B of the 308th Infantry. He is survived by a wife, who lives at 533 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn.

William C. Overton, dead of pneumonia, was in the 485th Motor Transport Company. His home was in Bellport, L. I.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 5.—It was an astounding victory yesterday south of Valenciennes, about Le Quesnoy and Landrecies, and after his heavy defeat the enemy is retreating in disorder from some sectors of his front.

The 4th British Corps, commanded by General Harper, was in the centre of this attack, with the 37th and New Zealand Divisions on this side of Ghissignies and Le Quesnoy.

The last-named place is a mediaeval town, defended by high ramparts and inner and outer bastions, strengthened by Vauban, the famous Engineer of Military Works under Louis XIV., and it was garrisoned by over 1,000 Germans, with orders to defend it at all costs. They were brave men, and determined to obey this command.

The New Zealanders, however, were equally determined to take Le Quesnoy, and they set out to assault it frontally as soon as the attack had been launched with a powerful bombardment. Those New Zealand boys, among whom I have been this morning, have been fighting with hardly a break since they went away from Hebuterne, near Albert, three months ago, but their spirit remains high, and yesterday they achieved one of their most heroic feats.

They stormed the outer ramparts of Le Quesnoy in old-fashioned style with scaling ladders, and made breaches through the walls, as in the old days of Henry's men-at-arms, but with more peril because of machine-gun fire which swept them from the inner defenses. They gained part of the outer ramparts, but could get no further, and the German garrison remained strong inside their keep.

New tactics were adopted by the New Zealand General, who ordered one body of his men to go round Le Quesnoy on the north, and another to work round it on the south, leaving pickets all around the town. This was done, and the town was completely surrounded by the New Zealanders, who joined hands on the east side.

Some of their battalions then fought forward against determined resistance from the Germans in the villages of Herbignies and Jolimetz, where they broke their way into the enemy's artillery positions and captured many guns. Astonishing things happened there, but, meanwhile, the German garrison of Le Quesnoy was called upon to surrender. Messages were first dropped inside the town from British airplanes flying low above the place.

"You are completely surrounded," was the first message dropped in this way. "Enemy troops are far to the east of you. If you will surrender you will be treated as honorable prisoners of war."

The German garrison of Le Quesnoy read these words, but no order to surrender was given. Later in the morning two deputations were sent to them, each one consisting of a New Zealander officer and two German officer prisoners. Going through a breach in the outer ramparts, they shouted out the summons to surrender, with the promise of honorable treatment. A few men accepted this offer and came out to give themselves up, but most of the thousand remained within their bastions and still gave no sign of capitulating.

So it was all day until evening, when after astonishing successes further forward the New Zealanders determined to close in upon Le Quesnoy and force its surrender at the point of the bayonet. From the outer ramparts they stormed the inner walls, which were very high and perpendicular, so that they were not easy to scale. They forced their way in despite all machine-gun fire, and after fighting in the streets of the town they received the capitulation of the remaining members of the garrison, amounting still to nearly a thousand men.

While this drama was in progress, other New Zealanders were fighting in the village of Jolimetz and other villages and farmhouses on the edge of the forest of Mormal, where most of the trees had been felled in the outskirts, and they broke straight through the German gun positions, as I have already said. The gunners were harnessed up when the New Zealanders surrounded them, and it was as strange a sight as I have seen—these German artillerymen driving their batteries toward our lines as prisoners of war, under the escort of our dismounted men. One division captured fifty-seven guns and another twenty, and all told the English and New Zealanders of our 4th Corps took nearly a hundred guns by yesterday afternoon.

The English battalions of the 37th Division fought with the greatest gallantry, and had a hard time on their left, where they were held up by fierce machine-gun fire at the chapel and the railway embankment near Ghissignies. For a long time they could not break down this resistance. Five tanks set out to help them, but only two crossed the railway embankment. Finally the Germans were routed out, and the left of the 37th moved forward into line with the right, which already had made far progress and had broken down the enemy's desperate defense and captured many prisoners and guns.

With the New Zealanders, they made an advance of 10,000 yards up to yesterday evening, fighting all the way for 7,000 yards against stubborn enemies, and this morning they have gone much further, with the Germans retreating before them.

Terrific fighting also happened during the British attack across the Sambre Canal, near the Fourth Army front, on the right wing of Landrecies, where first the 32d, 50th, and 18th Divisions were engaged from north to south.

They had twelve German divisions against them, and in front of them the canal, thirty yards broad, with wide reservoirs on either side, so that it was a wide stretch of water.

In crossing the St. Quentin Canal, between Bellenglise and Bellicourt, our men were provided with lifebelts and rafts, and here they also had canoes and light bridges which were brought up.

Before reaching the line of the canal there was fierce fighting about and in the village of Catillon by the troops of the 1st Division, who carried it with splendid courage and took many prisoners. They were helped by the gallant service of the Tank Corps. A number of tanks went into action, clearing their way through the woods and crawling around Catillon, which they girdled with machine-gun and Hotchkiss fire.

All through the day these tank pilots and crews did not spare themselves, but fought with their units like destroyers in a fleet action.

Landrecies itself, whose name is heroic in the early history of the British retreat from Mons four years ago, (it seems a thousand years,) was taken by the 25th Division—that gallant division of men which in April last was fighting desperate rearguard actions up in Flanders, when Sir Douglas Haig called upon them to fight with their backs to the wall.

There are many new men among them now, but the spirit of the division remains as an inspiration and a glory to those who wear its badge; and yesterday they gained great honor because they were the first back in Landrecies in the footsteps of the "Old Contemptibles."

On the left centre, opposite Villerspol and La Folie Farm, near Orsinval, there were Guards on the left and the 62d Division on the right. The Guards took Villersbol during the night before the attack, and yesterday morning met fierce resistance.

On their left were battalions near Wargnies-le-Petit. They and the 62d had marshy ground in front of them, and isolated farmhouses were fortified as machine-gun nests in spite of civilians living in the cellars below and surrounded by this terror of battle. There was a severe struggle across the River Aulnelle and beyond, but the troops of a single corps took 1,000 prisoners and a number of howitzers and guns.

On the extreme left of the battlefront the First Army did not have much fighting yesterday except at Rombies, as the enemy was retiring in front of the British troops south of Valenciennes. Many German divisions there have been almost wiped out. Only 250 men were left out of the 111th Division and some regiments were down to fifty or sixty men.

A Baden regiment which happened to be up to strength was captured complete with twenty-five officers and 650 men. One of these officers said that he voiced the general feeling of the Baden troops when he said they hated the Prussians because, under the Ludendorff régime, many Prussian officers had received soft jobs behind the line, while the Baden troops were being slaughtered.

"The Kaiser," he said, "will have to go, and with them all his breed."

When it was suggested to him that the German military party was not yet beaten, he laughed and said:

"You should see their long faces behind our line."

Everywhere I went today I heard the conviction expressed that the German soldiers were utterly tired of the war, and would not go on fighting much longer without a revolt.

It is only the discipline of their officers that induces them to continue for a little while, and where that fails all fails. Their machine gunners, still the élite of their army, maintain proud and desperate courage, but there is no doubt, to judge from the prisoners taken in large numbers, that the spirit of the German Army is being broken by the absolute knowledge of defeat.

READY TO FORGIVE, MARCONI DECLARES

Says Italy Will Extend Friendship to Austrian Peoples If They Deserve It.

ROME, Nov. 8.—Now that Austria-Hungary is out of the war, Italy is ready to extend to the peoples of that empire, under certain conditions, the hand of friendship, Senator Guglielmo Marconi, head of the Italian mission to the United States in 1917, said to the Associated Press today.

"Austria's final collapse," said Senator Marconi, "was caused by the splendid offensive of our army. It has brought definite victory within our reach. We may still look for some little trouble in bringing Germany to her senses, but with Austria definitely out of the war and with Italy's veteran legions free to throw themselves against Germany, either on the French front or by wounding her side through Bavaria, we ought not to be long in convincing the Teutons of the futility of further resistance.

"Italy may well be proud of her soldiers and sailors. There is perhaps no other instance in history of an army which suffered such a reverse as Caporetto, retreating before the devastating rush of the enemy, and yet succeeding in turning like a stag at bay and holding up that enemy behind a scant protection of mountains and rivers until help could arrive, and then within a year throw itself forward and force the enemy to surrender. It is indeed a noble achievement which reflects more glory on the Italian armistice if the retreat from the Isonzo had never occurred.

"[illegible] may well be proud also of our navy. There is no other nation in this war which can point to such men as Rizzo, Pelligrini, Rosetti and Paolicel, who not only had the sheer audacity merely to conceive such exploits as they performed, but the nerve, courage and skill to carry them out successfully.

"At last, after three and one-half years of privation and suffering, patiently borne, after so many appalling losses, after passing through depths of despair and enduring moments when all seemed lost, at last the scales of justice have been weighed down in our favor. We may calmly look the future in the face and say:

"'At last the world again is to know the blessing of peace. Safeguarded by President Wilson's immortal principles we shall be able to settle down and recover from the effects of this war, without the constant threat of another conflagration hanging over our heads. At last the sway of military and brute force is at an end. An era of peace and good will among men has begun.'

"At last the hour of expiation for Austria has struck for all her past crimes and oppressions. It really seems a sort of poetic justice that her death-blow should be delivered by Italy, a nation which, perhaps, suffered most at her hands in the past. One might feel sorry for her plight were there not abundant evidence in the villages and cities of Friuli, just reconquered, that Austria in no wise has changed her ways.

"It is plain that the Austria of 1918 is the same Austria of the forties. When we see that the population of the provinces lost after the Caporetto disaster have been starved and robbed, their women mistreated, and property wantonly destroyed for pure love of destruction, when we hear that old men have been treated so shamefully that all they ask is a bite of bread and a rifle with which to avenge the insults suffered at the hands of the invaders—when we see and hear all this, can we feel pity for such a foe? One might as well feel pity for the criminal who is about to suffer capital punishment for a foul murder.

"But, in spite of all this, we will not treat the Austrian population in a spirit of vengeance, for we do not consider them wholly responsible for the actions to which they had been instigated by their rulers. If the various peoples of Austria are ready to form their own Governments according to the principles formulated by President Wilson and to govern democratically, we, on our side, are ready to hold out our hand to them in friendship and to live with them as good and peaceful neighbors."

ITALIAN TROOPS MARCH INTO AUSTRIA

Begin to Occupy Territory That Will Be Held as Guarantee Under Armistice.

JUGOSLAV MISSION IN ITALY

Received at Padua by Gen. Diaz—Position of Victorious Armies When War Ceased.

ROME, Nov. 6.—The conditions of the armistice between the Entente nations and Austria are being carried out without delay. Italian troops have begun to occupy the territory which will be held as a guarantee that the clauses of the agreement will be observed.

A Jugoslav commission arrived at Venice today, accompanied by Admiral Marzolo of the Italian Navy. It proceeded straight to Padua, where it was received by General Diaz, Commander in Chief of the Italian Armies.

The Ministry of Marine announced that Italian naval units occupied the ports of Dulcigo and Antivari, Montenegro, on Monday.

A War Office communication issued today says:

At 3 P. M., Monday, our troops had reached Sluderno in the Venostra Valley, the Passo della Mendola, and the defile of Salorno in the Adige Valley, Cembra in the Avisio Valley, Levico in the Sugana Valley, Pieve di Primero in the Clamon Valley, Pontessa Pizzo, Tolmino, Gorizia, Cervignano, Aquileia, and Gradc.

The movements provided for by the clauses of the armistice with Austria-Hungary are being carried out. During yesterday no war operation was reported.

HOW AUSTRIA SURRENDERED.

Officers, Headed by Gen. von Weber, Received Under Truce Flag.

LONDON, Nov. 6. (British Wireless Service.)—The procedure adopted by the Austrians in their application last week for an armistice is described by the correspondent of The Times at Italian Headquarters.

"Toward the evening of Oct. 29," he says, "an Austrian officer was seen coming from the enemy trenches close to Serravalle, above Ala, in the Adige Valley. It became evident at once that the white flag was genuine, and Italian officers were forward to meet him.

"The officer, who was a Captain, declared that he had come to discuss the conditions of an armistice. Taken to a neighboring command and questioned, he must be found not to have any authoritative papers and was sent back with a message that a more representative and duly accredited mission should be sent if the matter was to be pursued.

"On Wednesday evening a white flag was again hoisted, and the Austrians having evidently determined to make due sacrifice of their pride, this time more fitting personalities appeared. At the head of a small group that approached the Italian trenches was the Austrian General von Weber, a corps commander. The party consisted of eight persons and included another General and naval and military officers. There were also civilians, either diplomatic or Government representatives, and secretaries and typists.

"They were treated with every courtesy, and when General von Weber had formally stated his mission and shown that he was the bearer of proper credentials he and his party were driven next day in motor cars to the Villa Giusti, close to General Diaz's headquarters. At 9 o'clock in the morning General Badoglio, the Chief of Staff, drove with an escort of cavalry to the villa, and on his arrival all the troops present saluted and bugles were sounded.

"Entering the villa, General Badoglio found all the Austrian mission standing in a line in the drawing room awaiting him. General von Weber was in full uniform, wearing the stars and ribbons of his orders. General Badoglio saluted him and upon seating himself asked the Austrian General his errand. General von Weber replied that he had come to ask the conditions upon which an armistice would be granted. General Badoglio answered that within an hour he would let him know the general lines of such an armistice contained in a written message. He then left the room and the written message in question was at once sent to the villa.

"Meanwhile telegrams were exchanged with Versailles, and during the afternoon the precise details under which an armistice would be granted were received from Signor Orlando, the Italian Prime Minister, and again in written form handed to General von Weber. During the evening one of the Austrian envoys left by motor car for Serravalle with a draft of the conditions to communicate to the Austrian Government.

"The Austrian plenipotentiaries were very much depressed and did not show themselves outside the villa nor walk in its ample gardens."

STIRRING SCENES AT TRIESTE.

Inhabitants Showered Flowers on Italians When They Landed.

TRIESTE, Nov. 5, (Associated Press.)—The entire population of this Austrian seaport on the Adriatic turned out to welcome General Petitti di Roreto, the new Italian Governor General, who arrived here today on board the Italian destroyer Audace from Venice. The Governor General was accompanied by a number of officials. On landing the Italians were showered with flowers by the inhabitants.

It was a notable event in the history of Italy, and Signor Benelli, the Italian poet, described it to the correspondent as "the realization of a century's dream and the end and aim of Italy's war against Austria-Hungary."

As the warships proceeded toward Trieste through the mined waters along the coast, where so many thousands of Italy's soldier dead are buried, and passed the Carso Plateau all on board the warships were affected by the approaching climax to Italian hopes. As the Bay of Trieste came into view those on board embraced each other and cried in their joy.

"It is the proudest moment of my life," said General Petitti di Roreto when the Audace reached the harbor. As she anchored, airplanes circled overhead and [illegible] tugs and cutters gathered [illegible] to welcome the Italian Governor General. Although the war population of Trieste is only 130,000, it seemed as if the million inhabitants of the new Julian Province had come to the docks, to the balconies of houses, and to the towers of churches to welcome the Italian warships.

"Viva Italia!" rang again and again over the blue waters and resounded to the hills as the ship docked. It was impossible for the General's automobile to be moved. The Governor was embraced by weeping women, by children, and by white-haired patriots, who, though persecuted for a lifetime, had worked to secure Trieste to Italy.

The General was covered with flowers, and buttons were torn off the clothing of debarking sailors and soldiers for souvenirs. The popular celebration continued from Sunday night until today.

MILAN, Nov. 5.—The capitulation of Austria-Hungary and the cessation of hostilities intensified public rejoicings in many Italian cities, which were brilliantly illuminated last night for the first time since the outbreak of the war. Te Deums and exercises of thanksgiving for Italy's glorious victory were organized in cathedrals and churches, with the participation of the civil authorities and Ministers of State.

No peace rejoicings could possibly exceed the delirium of delight with which the sorely tried Italian people throughout the peninsula and in the adjacent islands greeted the simultaneous tidings of the occupation of Rovereto, Udine, Trent, and Trieste. The humblest hamlets, like the great cities, are bedecked with flags and making a merry festival. Petitions are flowing into Government offices from all sides demanding that the memorable Third of November be declared an annual national holiday.

ITALY SENDING GIFTS TO UNITED STATES

Columbus, Vespucci, and Verrazzano for U. S. for President, Congress, and New York.

ROME, Nov. 4.—Francesco Nitti, Minister of the Treasury, who during the absence at Versailles of Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino has been acting head of the Government, has named a Parliamentary mission to proceed immediately to the United States. The mission is composed of Senator William Marconi, Senator Ruffini, President of the Italo-American Union; Senator General Dallolio, who was for a time Minister of Munitions, and Prince Lanza di Scalba, former Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs.

Wishing to show the appreciation of Italy for the part the United States is taking in the war, the mission will be the bearers of gifts for President Wilson, the American Congress, and the City of New York, consisting of original codices of Christopher Columbus, Amerigo Vespucci, and Giovanni da Verrazzano.

The codices of da Verrazzano, who explored the coast of North America from North Carolina to Newfoundland in 1524, discovering New York Bay, are especially interesting, as they refer to his American explorations.

The codices will be presented in artistic cases with special inscriptions.

AUSTRIAN ARCHDUKES FLEE TO SWITZERLAND

Empress Also Rents a Cottage There—Denial That Ruler Will Abdicate.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 6.—All the Austrian Archdukes and their families have gone to Switzerland, advices from Vienna say.

GENEVA, Nov. 6.—The Swiss newspapers announce that Empress Zita of Austria has rented the Château Wartegg at Rorschach, on Lake Constance. The newspapers add that the Empress is expected soon to occupy the château.

BASLE, Nov. 6.—Reports that Emperor Charles intends to abdicate are denied by an official dispatch from Vienna. Another message from that city says that the Emperor and Empress drove in the public parks on Sunday and received cordial salutations from the people.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 6.—According to Vienna advices Eastern Silesia almost to the frontier has been placed under the administration of a German people's council.

Cracow newspapers received here, say that the Czech commander at Prague has ordered the Czech commanders in Silesia to regard Silesia as a Czech State.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Serious riots have occurred at Aussig, Bohemia, and Pettau, Styria, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Soldiers and civilians plundered a great number of shops and factories and several houses were set on fire. Many persons were killed.

1,000,000 AUSTRIANS IN ITALIANS' HANDS

Total Value of Captured Material May Reach a Total of Five Billion Dollars.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS IN EASTERN ITALY, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—The Italian Army is gathering in the booty of its great victory. The value of the captured material will eventually reach $5,000,000,000, it is estimated. It now includes 200,000 horses and 6,000 guns.

By a rough count, 1,000,000 Austrian prisoners are now in Italian hands.

It is said that the defeat of the Austrians in the last drive was ten times more costly to them than the defeat suffered at Caporetto last year was to the Italians.

Italian troops are now beyond Bolsano and are slowly moving forward over roads impeded by the wreckage of war.

CZECHS AND JUGOSLAVS ESTABLISH REPUBLICS

Kramarz to be President at Prague and Pogacnik Installed at Agram.

GENEVA, Nov. 3.—A new republic came into being when the conference here of Czechoslovak leaders ended yesterday. The constitution of the new government is patterned after that of the United States.

Dr. Karl Kramarz, former leader of the Hungarian Czech party, who spent several years in prison on a charge of treason, having been released in July, 1917, was chosen first President of the new republic.

A majority of the delegates left today for Prague, where a Czechoslavak national parliament will be formed at once. The new government, a Vienna dispatch says, has placed in circulation stamps Pogacnik, former Vice President of the hemia.

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The new government of the Jugoslavs took the oath of office yesterday in the Cathedral at Agram, according to Vienna advices. The President of the new government is Josef Pogaonik, former Vice President of the Austrian Lower House.

GERMANY'S FINANCES NEAR BREAKING POINT

Debt Exceeding $35,000,000,000 Has Mortgaged Two-fifths of Her National Wealth.

LONDON, Nov. 6, (British Wireless Service.)—Germany's financial position is desperate and rapidly approaching the breaking point. After she raised her eighth war loan her national debt, it is estimated, approached £6,000,000,000. It is assumed that since then it has reached £7,000,000,000.

The Reichstag on June 23 last passed a vote of credit of 15,000,000,000 marks, which it was then declared would raise Germany's war debt to 139,000,000,000 marks, or nearly £7,000,000,000.

Assuming that the debt stands now at 142,000,000,000 marks, Germany has mortgaged therefore more than two-fifths of her wealth, estimated at £16,000,000,000.

That this figure is approaching Germany's limitation in the war is indicated by remarks made from time to time by authorities in Germany.

Unlike Topsy—Swift & Company Has Not "Jest Growed"

Swift & Company, in fifty years of well ordered growth, has become one of the great national services because it has learned to do something for the American people which they needed to have done for them, in the way in which they preferred to have it done.

It has met each successive demand, in the changing conditions of national life, by getting good meat to increasing millions effectively, efficiently, economically, and expeditiously.

The Swift & Company packing plants, refrigerator cars, car routes, branch houses, organization, and personnel of today are the practical solutions, born of practical experience, to the food problems of a half a century.

Because of all of these elements working in correlation and unison, Swift & Company is able to supply more and better meat to more people than would have been possible otherwise, at a net profit per pound of meat so low (a fraction of a cent) that the consumer price is practically unaffected.

Strip away any portion of this vast, smooth-running human machine, and you make a large part of the meat supply uncertain, lose the benefit of half a century of fruitful experience, and scatter the intelligent energies of men who have devoted a life work toward meeting the needs of a nation in one vital field.

The booklet of preceding chapters in this story of the packing industry will be mailed on request to Swift & Company, Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Illinois.

Results of National Truck Efficiency Test Announced by Packard Company

1760 Packard Trucks Show How to Attain Efficiency Urged by Council of National Defense and War Industries Board

FOR four years now, War conditions have forced the industrial man to think about his transportation largely in terms of the motor truck. Out of his experience two underlying questions have been brought sharply to the attention of every truck user:

What ought I to expect my truck to do for me?
What ought this service to cost me?

All lines of business are vitally interested today in making every motor truck move more freight, thereby relieving the burden on the railroads.

Every business realizes the necessity for an accurate and complete cost system, and a standardized method of accounting, which will serve as a permanent record of operation and maintenance.

In fullest co-operation with the efforts of the National Council of Defense and the War Industries Board to save freight cars for urgent Government service—the Packard Motor Car Company announced on June 1st last the opening of the National Truck Efficiency Test.

This National Test was planned to do three things:

To interest all truck owners and drivers in the campaign of the National Council of Defense and the War Industries Board for higher efficiency of motor truck transportation and the use of motor transportation wherever possible to relieve the congestion of the railroads.

To demonstrate on the road the practical methods to attain higher efficiency in motor truck transportation.

To show how costs of motor operation may be found exactly, and the advantages of recording these costs regularly and in detail on the standardized forms of the National Standard Truck Cost System, as perfected by the Truck Owners' Conference.

Prizes amounting to $5025.00 in cash were announced to be awarded to owners and drivers of Packard Trucks who established efficiency records—on the items of outgoing and return loads; the state of the roads; time required to cover the route; low cost per ton-mile in gasoline, in tires, in oil; in maintenance cost, and the condition of the truck at the end of the test.

Seventeen hundred and sixty Packard Trucks carried out the conditions of the test and turned in their detailed records, on forms of the National Standard Truck Cost System—the one system which keeps an exact, impartial and comprehensive record of any truck, irrespective of size, make, or the class of hauling the vehicle is doing.

It was impossible, of course, for every entrant to win a prize in cash. But every owner and driver did get an insight into the higher service he might expect from his truck, when operated on the principles explained to him by the Technical Service Department of his local Packard Branch or Packard Dealer.

It is the function of the Technical Service Department to see that every available means of motor transportation shall be kept running at highest efficiency.

In a very real sense this test is a nation-wide extension of the Packard Policy of 100% War Work.

And the truck owners and truck drivers who carried through this test knew that they were thereby rendering the fullest co-operation with the Government.

THE PRIZE WINNERS AND JUDGES IN THE NATIONAL TRUCK EFFICIENCY TEST

Class A—1½ and 2 ton trucks

FIRST: What Cheer Chemical Co., Pawtucket, R. I., James L. Drury, Driver.

THIRD: Edson, Moore & Co., Detroit, Mich., Leon Moore, Driver.

Class B—3 and 4 ton trucks

FIRST: H. F. Cherigo & Sons, Baltimore, Md., Lew Bacighipi, Driver.

SECOND: Salt Lake City Pressed Brick Co., Salt Lake City, Oloff Hanson, Driver.

THIRD: Harper & Wilz, Baltimore, Md., C. Wilz, Driver.

Class C—5 and 6 ton trucks

FIRST: W. M. Hoyt Co., Chicago Ill., Joseph Brookbank, Driver.

SECOND: Gottfried Krueger Brewing Co., Newark, N. J., Charles Langbein and Joseph Birchler, Drivers.

THIRD: H. F. Cherigo & Sons, Baltimore, Md., J. Butts, Driver.

The owner winning first honors in each class is awarded $1000. The winning driver in each class is awarded $500; second, $100; third, $75.

The judges who made the awards were three well known experts on Motor Transportation: H. P. Gould, editor of 100%; H. W. Slauson, M. E., motor editor, of Leslie's; and Waldemar Kaempffert, editor of Popular Science. The records of the test were identified by number and at the time of making the awards the judges did not know the names of the winners.

Practically every line of business employing motor trucks, from a single truck to the "fleet," competed throughout the three months of the National Truck Efficiency Test.

The National Truck Efficiency Test, for the first time, gave an incentive to the driver to keep records — to keep his truck in the best operating condition.

It is true that, in most cases, the owner selects the truck of his choice. But it is the driver to whom the care, operation costs, upkeep and efficiency of the truck are entrusted.

One of the most valuable results of the test was the close co-operation rendered by the Technical Service Department of the local Packard Branches and Dealers with the individual truck driver—distributing information on better operating methods, greater efficiency, lower upkeep and running costs.

Relaxed Muscles Can Rest

It is ONLY through relaxation that your feet can gain a respite from the ceaseless work they do.

Relaxation while under the strain of actual walking seems perhaps incongruous — but considering the patented construction of Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoes it is easily attained.

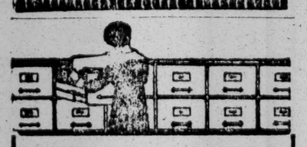

The shocks of meeting a hard surface are eliminated by the resilient felt and cork inner sole—and the elimination of shocks allows the delicate muscles to be at their ease constantly. No wonder, then, that your feet—wearing Dr. A. Reed Cushion Shoes—do not tire.

DEFENDS STRATEGY OF 'WESTERNERS'

Maurice Derides View That Victory Could Have Been Won Long Ago in East.

SAYS BALANCE WAS HELD

By Major Gen. SIR FREDERICK MAURICE.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The downfall of Bulgaria, the surrender of Turkey, and the collapse of Austria have given rise to much self-congratulation on the part of the "Easterners." It is suggested that but for the pigheaded obstinacy of the soldiers, who were almost to a man "Westerners," all this might have happened long ago, and that our eastern fronts have only been kept alive by the vision and statesmanship of our Ministers, in the teeth of military opposition.

This is a travesty of truth. When the General Staff was recreated in the Winter of 1915-1916 the situation in the east was that the Dardanelles expedition had failed and appeared likely to end a ghastly catastrophe, the Suez Canal and Egypt were threatened, the advance to Bagdad had failed, and German and Turkish agents were active in Persia and on the frontier of India, while from German East Africa the enemy was carrying out raids into Uganda. The orgy of easternism had, in fact, ended in imperiling our whole position in the east.

It is a complete illusion to suppose that there ever had been any responsible or thoughtful soldiers who held the view that our vital interests in the East could be disregarded and that every available soldier should be concentrated on the western front. Due provision for the security of these vital interests was one of the first acts of the reorganized General Staff. The Gallipoli Peninsula was evacuated without loss, an operation so unprecedented and unexpected that there are many to this day who believe it was accomplished by bribing the Turk; Egypt was secured against attack by the conquest of the Desert of Sinai and by the occupation of the wells which made an advance against the Suez Canal possible. The situation in Mesopotamia was restored, Bagdad was occupied, and the enemy's activities in Persia checked, while, lastly, the Germans were driven from their East African colony.

When the Germans and Turks concerted plans for the recapture of Bagdad and began to assemble forces for that purpose about Aleppo, their schemes were defeated by the victory of Gaza-Beersheba and the capture of Jerusalem, by which enemy forces intended for Mesopotamia were diverted to Palestine. The most rabid Easterner will admit that this is not a bad record for the so-called Westerners.

The Same Old Controversy.

In almost every great war that ever raged there has been a controversy similar to our eastern and western controversy. There has been the same conflict between a demand for concentration and a demand for a dispersal of force. The difficulty always has been to maintain a just balance between these demands.

The soldier who wished to neglect the east altogether is a man of straw erected by the eastern controversialist to receive his blows. The military argument is really very simple and can be stated in a few words. So long as Germany had large forces on her eastern front which might be brought to the west, the western front, which was of all fronts the most vital for us and for the French, could not be regarded as secure. It was futile to suppose that Germany's position could be turned by an attack upon one of her allies, because her central position enabled her to support that ally more quickly than we could attack, and, furthermore, she could always get back more quickly to the main front than we could. Therefore, strategically, the only defensible course, so long as Germany had more troops than she required to defend the western front, was to limit our sideshows to what was necessary for defense of the interests which had to be secured, while at the same time making the utmost possible use of all forces which for one reason or another could not be employed on the western front. There is nothing to be said for a policy which maintained more troops in Palestine than were necessary for defense, after the collapse of Russia made it clear that the Germans would make their great attack on the western front, and then transferred those surplus troops to France after the blow had fallen.

Once it became evident that Germany had no troops to spare from the western front and was in fact drawing upon Austria for reinforcements the whole strategical situation was fundamentally changed. From August onward the western front was from our point of view absolutely safe, and there was no chance of Germany being able to send aid to her allies. Therefore, the case for pressing attacks on all fronts became very strong, particularly when, thanks to the development of India's military resources, our troops in the secondary theatres came mainly from our great dependency, and could not for the most part be sent to the west.

The Macedonian Offensive.

I did at the time oppose the Macedonian offensive, because I looked at the problem solely from a military point of view. I knew of the immense strength of the Bulgarian positions and the difficulties of the country, and I did not think there was very great prospect of decisive victory. I was not aware that the internal condition of Bulgaria was so precarious as to warrant the attempt, and I acknowledged my mistake as soon as I discovered it.

It is only the blind who will not see that this is primarily a war of attrition, that Germany's allies, being even more exhausted than she is, were only kept in the field by the prospect of a German victory. Once that prospect had gone, they collapsed. Bulgaria surrendered before her armies had been completely defeated. Austria asked for an armistice before she met with military disaster. Turkey was suing for terms before Allenby had entered Aleppo or Marshall had rounded up the last Turks on the Tigris.

A member of the Government has just stated, and I agree with him, that if Sir Douglas Haig had had five fresh American divisions at the beginning of October, to follow up his victory at Cambrai, it is almost certain the German resistance in the west would have collapsed. A westerner can ask for no better argument in support of his policy, for it is obvious that the downfall of Germany would have at once brought with it that of her allies. While we have yet to see whether the reverse will be the case, I fear we have in the past wasted far more than the equivalent of five divisions in extraneous enterprises which might have been conducted with greater regard to Foch's great principle of economy of force.

Value of Our Army's Work.

Nov. 5.—The First American Army and General Gouraud's army, which has been fighting doggedly ever since Sept. 26 in some of the most difficult country on the whole front and against determined resistance on the part of the enemy, have reaped their reward, and, having worn the enemy out, they have sprung forward some miles toward the Hirson-Mézières railway, from which they are now only some sixteen miles distant.

This is a great achievement which will have important results, for the enemy's main lateral line of communication is severed and his power of transferring troops is greatly hampered. But it need not be disastrous to him, for he has, some twenty-five miles further back, the Luxemburg-Arlon-Namur line, which, if not so good as that which he has lost, is still serviceable.

Crossing of Sambre Canal.

In the north the French First Army and our own Fourth, Third, and First Armies have gained another notable victory in crossing the Sambre Canal, which is a very serious obstacle, being some 800 feet wide and navigable by sea-going barges, and in gaining possession of about half of the great Mormal Forest and capturing the picturesque little town of Le Quesnoy.

The general effect of these two victories has been to make the enemy's position in his centre between the Aisne and the Oise more precarious, to weaken his hold on the Scheldt, and force him to attempt yet another readjustment of his front. In fact, he has already begun the withdrawal for which he has doubtless been preparing for some little time.

The continual retreat and the removal of the Austrian divisions must affect the morale of the German troops and bring the final collapse nearer.

But I am still of the opinion that if that collapse comes soon it will begin in Germany rather than at the front. I do not think that, looked at from a military point of view only, the situation warrants greater expectations than that the enemy has been fighting hard, and that if he is showing weak spots he has still plenty of strong ones.

The weather is uncertain—or, rather, it is becoming more and more certain that it will be bad; and the labor of repairing roads and the railways damaged by the enemy is immense, and the difficulties in the way of rapid exploitation of our success are considerable.

PUNISH 18 GROCERS UNDER FOOD RULES

Brooklyn Dealers Guilty of Hoarding Sugar or Selling Flour Without Substitutes.

Eighteen grocers in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn have been found guilty of hoarding sugar or selling wheat flour without substitutes, or both, according to announcement made yesterday by the Federal Food Board. Inspectors reported to the Food Board that some of the grocers had in stock several thousand pounds of sugar beyond their requirements. The names of the grocers, with the disposition of the cases, are:

DAVID CHACANSKY, 322 Grand Street; hoarding sugar; surrendered certificates for 1,000 pounds of sugar.
FINKELMAN'S, 201 South First Street; hoarding sugar; 500 pounds of sugar deducted from November allotment.
ISRAEL FAIORTAGE, 210 Roebling Street; hoarding sugar; 500 pounds of sugar deducted from November allotment.
Mrs. IDA KANDEL, 224 South Third Street; entire allotment of sugar for November deducted.
L. SALTON, 237 South Second Street; hoarding sugar; 300 pounds of sugar deducted from November allotment.
FRIEDMAN & KATS, 165 Havemeyer Street; selling flour without substitutes; 1,000 pounds of sugar deducted from November allotment.
CHARLES SIRKES, 220 Roebling Street; hoarding sugar; 300 pounds of sugar deducted from November allotment.
FEUERSTEIN & BERNSTEIN, 137 Havemeyer Street; hoarding sugar; allotment cut from 7,000 to 4,000 pounds a month; sugar certificate for 1,265 pounds surrendered.
BEN GORBIN, 250 South Second Street; selling wheat flour without substitutes; warned.
PHILIP SASLOW, 143 Havemeyer Street; selling wheat flour without substitutes and hoarding sugar; November sugar allotment cut to 1,000 pounds.
JACOB J. SAFRAN, Williamsburg Market, 271 South First Street; selling wheat flour without substitutes; cautioned; must display sign for one week admitting violation.
TILLIE LACKMAN, 265 South First Street; selling wheat flour without substitutes; cautioned; must display sign for one week admitting violation.
L. TEITELBAUM, 384 Division Avenue; hoarding sugar; cautioned; must display sign for one week admitting violation.
HERMAN CATOR, 294 Broadway; hoarding sugar; 500 pounds of sugar deducted from November allotment; certificates for 500 pounds of sugar surrendered.
ABRAHAM VLADINUR, 184 Marcy Avenue; selling wheat flour without substitutes; cautioned; must display sign for one week admitting violation.
ANNA ARONSON, 182 Havemeyer Street; selling sugar in excessive quantities; cautioned.
MAX KAZACHINSKY, Williamsburg Market, 271 South First Street; selling wheat flour without substitutes and overcharging in sale of wheat flour; cautioned; must display sign for one week admitting violation.

The Federal Food Board yesterday informed butchers who sell to the Jewish trade that margins of profit on soup meat, shoulder steak, and breast had been determined by the board, and that butchers must acquaint themselves with those margins. The board issued this statement:

"A sliding scale, adjusted to the various costs of chucks and plates, has been made, and copies of the same sent to the office of the Federation of Kosher Butchers. As these margins are now in effect, it is the duty of every butcher who sells to the Jewish trade to familiarize himself with these margins. This he can do by inquiring of the Federation of Kosher Butchers or the President of his association, or the Food Board."

To regain health and strength after Spanish Influenza or Pneumonia

BUILD up your blood and body with Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

The germs of Spanish Influenza or Pneumonia are very devastating in their effect. Your blood is impoverished, your vitality drained to low ebb, your powers of resistance so enfeebled that any serious chronic disease may fasten on you.

To completely regain your health and strength, you must restore your blood to normal richness and redness. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is recommended as a wonderful general tonic and blood builder. It helps to increase the number of the red blood cells and their capacity to carry oxygen to every cell and tissue, charging your system with new strength, energy and resistance to disease. It increases the appetite, is promptly assimilated, and exceedingly pleasant to taste. Endorsed and prescribed by the medical profession for over 25 years.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan also is of great value in the prevention of Spanish Influenza or Pneumonia. It helps to make rich, red, pure blood—your best fortification against the inroads of sickness.

TELLS OF THE SCOPE OF MID-EUROPE MOVE

Prof. Miller Says Union's Task Is Now to Organize 70,000,000 in Terms of Democracy.

WILSON SENDS MESSAGE

Extends Hearty Greetings to the Representatives of the Oppressed Nations.

The aims and objects of the Mid-European Union, founded on Oct. 26 last in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, were explained last night to more than 300 guests, men and women well known in varied walks of life, at a dinner of the organization at the Hotel Plaza. The following twelve delegates to the Mid-European Union were present: Dr. T. G. Masaryk, Czechoslovak; M. Sichinsky, Ukranian; H. Hinkovik, Jugoslav; Mr. Narusewicz, Lithuanian; Captain Vasile Stolca, Roumanian; Mr. Tomazolli, Italian Irredentist; Dr. Dako, Albanian; Christos Vassolakaki, unredeemed Greeks; Itamar Ben-Avi, Jewish Council; Mr. Zsatkovich, Uhro-Rusin, and G. Pasdermadjin, Armenian.

The speakers were Professor Thomas G. Masaryk, President of the Czecho-slovak National Council; Herbert Adolphus Miller, director of the organization, and George Foster Peabody, who was toastmaster. The meeting was devoted largely to explanation of the scope of the territories and histories of the oppressed nationalities of Europe, and the points made were elucidated by references to a large map of "the Mid-European peoples" in the rear of the ballroom.

The toastmaster read this telegram from President Wilson:

"Please extend my warm greetings to the representatives of the oppressed nationalities of Mid-Europe, and express to them my deep pleasure that there should be such impressive and irresistible unanimity of principles amongst us as regards the issues that are at the heart of the great struggle for justice in which all nations of the world are engaged."

"The Mid-European Union was created in part," said Professor Miller, "to thwart Germany's ambition and help to destroy Austria-Hungary. Austria-Hungary is now dead and Germany discredited. The task of the union now is to promote and maintain order in Europe and to organize seventy million people in terms of the new democracy.

"During these centuries the effort to crush out the individuality of nations was developing in them the very force to overthrow their oppressor. Any one who reads the history of Prussian Poland for the last decade can see that the soul of a people cannot be crushed. Every one has read the romantic story of the Czechoslovaks, but the spirit of all is the same.

"But now a new task faces these nations to the east of Germany. The Germans and the Magyars had ruled by force and intrigue, stimulating and even inventing divisions and antagonisms to keep the nations from throwing off their yokes. The sacred institutions of religion were prostituted to this purpose when other means failed. The result was inevitable suspicion and antagonism.

"Now there are twelve nations pledged to the task. They extend in a continuous line from the Baltic to the Adriatic and the Black Sea and include the Armenians and Jews of Asia Minor. They speak many languages, through some of them are related, but they have a common hatred of Teutonic oppression and the common purpose to recognize their nationals on independent democratic principles.

Declaration of Principles.

"The Mid-European Union, whose name was chosen with such deliberation, aims to help solve these problems. The delegates are all officers of national organizations, which interpret as well as may be the purpose of their peoples on both sides of the Atlantic. Their object is to definitely face the problems and differences which really exist and to try to formulate principles for their solution. As yet the action of the union is not authoritative, but it can work out programs which in principle must be followed. The moral force of the twelve nations on each other will be very great. Already they have declared that all Governments derive their power from the governed; that there should be no secret diplomacy; that they should coordinate their efforts to insure the liberties of the individual nations for the furtherance of their common welfare provided such a union contributes to the peace and welfare of the world.

"It has been unanimously agreed that transit across their countries shall be duty free, that self determination through a carefully guarded plebiscite shall be the basis of determining nationality, that national minorities shall be given full civil rights, that education is a means of proper development. Economic interdependence is recognized, and the task of undertaking the establishment of proper economic relations and methods is under consideration. Exploitation by foreign institutions must be protected. There must be a higher standard of living, but money must be a commodity, not a power. These aims are not academic and doctrinaire. The theoctopus of many institutions under which the rest of the world is burdened they know not, and they have many forces of organizations which are most amenable to the new order.

Asks Help of World.

"What is needed is that the new gospel may be spread among the peoples of the nations involved, and that the rest of the world shall understand and give its help. It is a task to stagger the imagination, and, of course, the millennium is not at hand, but to some large degree it will succeed, because it must."

LONE AIRMAN FIGHTS 50 GERMAN PLANES

British Officer, Thrice Wounded, Escapes After Downing More Than Eight Enemies.

WITH THE ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—One of the most daring and gallant deeds has been added to the record of the British air force in a battle recently fought in the Mormal Forest by a British Major, working single-handed in a fast scouting machine.

The Major had engaged a German airplane, and almost before he realized it was surrounded by a great flight of enemy machines, which attacked him fiercely from all sides. A battle royal ensued, which lasted about an hour, during which the British airman was attacked by successive flights of enemy planes until he had given battle to between fifty and sixty.

Early in the fight the Major sustained three severe and crippling wounds, one arm and both legs being rendered virtually helpless. Despite his injuries and the fact that he was almost unconscious at times, he continued to fight, until by brilliant and fast manoeuvring, he managed to escape to his own lines. He had destroyed four hostile planes and driven down out of control between four and six.

Once during the mad battle the Major concluded he was lost and deliberately charged one boche, with the expectation that both machines would crash and end it. He was working the machine gun as he swept toward the enemy. Just as a collision seemed inevitable the German machine burst into flames and dropped. The Major swept over the falling plane, missing it by some feet.

The British airman brought back his machine in such condition that it can be repaired and will be flying shortly. He is in a hospital and will probably recover.

ROB, BURN, AND KILL AS THEY RETREAT

ATROCITIES BY COMMAND

Captured Order Proves the Denials of the Kaiser's Government to be False.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—German forces in their retreat from Belgium are bombarding defenseless towns, using especially gas shells, and devastating the countryside, according to an eyewitness account made public today by the Belgian Legation.

"The Belgian Government has been informed," said the statement, "by a reliable eyewitness who follows closely the operations at the Belgian front that at the very moment that the German Government has announced its protest against inhuman acts and while Germany offers to stop aerial bombardments in the interest of the civil population of the occupied territory, the Germans have bombarded the villages and towns which they were obliged to abandon during their retreat; they have used especially gas shells for this purpose.

"Indescribably heartrending scenes have occurred, the unfortunate population having no gas masks or means of protection against these death-spreading fumes. A Belgian soldier entering Wyngheme, his home town, found his wife dying and his little daughter dead, victims of the poison gas, and his home a heap of ruins. The country all round Ghent, the rich and beautiful cultivated fields and pastures, the picturesque villages of Hansbeke, Landeghem, Nevele, Laethem, Saint Martin, Tronchiennes, present a horrible sight of devastation and havoc. Not a church was spared from destruction.

"Among the civilian population hiding in the cellars there have been a great many deaths from gas, twenty-seven in the village of Hansbeke alone. A portion of the population who had fled from their homes during the fighting and bombardment found on their return mere ruins and debris—trees had been cut down, houses ransacked, furniture smashed to pieces, fields devastated.

"From these facts one may appreciate how hypocritical are the humanitarian propositions and protestations of the German Government."

The legation also made public a captured ordered of a Bavarian division commander proving that the German Government's denials that the troops are continuing their looting practices are false. The order reads:

"Regrettable as is the situation of the Belgian populace, the question of supplies for our troops, heavily engaged at the front, must remain for us of paramount importance. For this reason the last draft horse, the last vehicle, must be requisitioned and used to the greatest advantage.

"Commanders of the various units and men must take into account that the attitude of the population toward us has been completely modified. Since the situation has been altered, one must not expect to find in the Belgians the same docility that has characterized them through the past years of our warfare. They must be considered strictly as the population of an enemy State with which we are at war. Therefore, it is particularly forbidden to assist the civilian population in any way; military interests alone should be considered. The products of the country must be utilized solely in our own interests."

LOSSES FAR EXCEEDED BY NEW SHIPPING

Output in Three Months Nearly 500,000 Tons Above Destruction from All Causes.

LONDON, Nov. 6.—The Admiralty announces that the output of world tonnage in the last quarter exceeded the losses from all causes by nearly half a million gross tons.

The United Kingdom built new shipping to the amount of 411,395 tons, the other allies and neutrals 972,735 tons. The tonnage of merchant vessels completed in the United Kingdom and entered into service in October was 136,100.

ADVERTISEMENTS are frequently excluded from The New York Times to make room for news, much of it by cable. The New York Times daily prints a greater volume of cable news than any other newspaper in the world.

18 columns of advertisements are omitted today and 109 columns published.

This condition forces upon The Times careful discrimination in the assignment of space.

Preference is given, therefore, to advertisements having news value, and to those for which copy, including matrices, cuts or drawings, for the daily edition, is delivered before 5 P. M. on the day previous to publication, and to those for the Sunday edition for which finally approved copy is delivered before Friday night.

Orders for the insertion of advertisements of a general character should specify the date on which insertion is desired, and, so far as possible, should include the words "or first available day."

UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

NOVEMBER 11 to 18 — NOVEMBER 11 to 18

This is one of a series of seven announcements, each prepared by one of the seven great organizations that are coming before the American people next week in a United Appeal for $170,500,000—which sum has been approved by the U. S. Government

'THE MORROW OF VICTORY," SAID MAZZINI, "IS MORE PERILOUS THAN ITS EVE."

Mazzini knew what he was talking about. He had studied the history of wars. He had seen that victory may be almost as disastrous to an army as battle itself. He knew that the period of demobilization often becomes a period of demoralization.

Today we stand at or near the threshold of the period of demobilization for our boys in France. It will be a long period—one year at least; perhaps two or more. There are eight great reasons why that period is going to be an asset in the lives of our boys, not a liability. The first of these is the character of the boys themselves, the splendid clean wholesomeness of their lives and traditions. The other seven reasons are the seven great war work agencies.

Next week these seven great agencies will come to you asking for funds to carry on their work. In this series of advertisements it is proposed to show you what plans they have for using those funds for the welfare of your boy.

WHAT ARE THE PLANS OF THE Y. M. C. A. FOR THE PERIOD OF DEMOBILIZATION?

First of all, the Y. M. C. A. plans that your boy shall have a chance to play when the fighting is done. In France it has more than 1,000 physical directors—the best of America's amateur and professional athletes. The orders for athletic goods placed by the "Y" are the largest in the history of organized sport—one single recent order amounting to more than half a million dollars.

No one but the commanding officers know how much the baseball games that have gone on behind the "Y" huts in France have had to do in winning the war. They have transformed men's minds; they have helped men to forget—to be refreshed and renewed.

And the influence of clean sport, which has meant so much in the days of battle, is going to mean even more to your boy in the days when he has more time on his hands and more reason than ever for being wholesomely and cheerily employed.

FIFTEEN MILES OF MOVIES A WEEK—AND THE BOYS ARE CALLING FOR MORE

Every week fifteen miles of film is carried across to France to be shown in the Y. M. C. A. huts. Can you imagine what it means to the boys to come, tired and worn, out of the trenches and find "Douglas" and "Mary" and "Charlie" waiting for them? Think what the movies will mean in the long days of waiting after peace is signed!

Yes, and what the theatrical entertainments in the huts will mean! For, under the direction of Winthrop Ames and E. H. Sothern, the finest men and women of the theatrical world have volunteered to entertain the boys in the huts in France.

Shall we keep the footlights burning in the hut theatres over there? There is no doubt what your answer will be if one of the boys in those hut audiences happens to be YOUR boy.

EVERY HUT WILL BE A UNIVERSITY CLASS-ROOM WHEN VICTORY IS WON

"What shall I do when I get back home?" "Will I be all out of step?" "Will these warfare years unfit me for making progress in business when I return?"

These are the questions that boys are asking over there—asking them eagerly, half fearsomely. They have given a year or two or three years and of the best part of their lives. Will it mean that they are handicapped permanently because of that sacrifice?

Not much. When the day of final victory comes every hut in France will become a university classroom. Our belief in the necessity and value of this work is so great and our confidence in the backing of the people so strong that the Y. M. C. A. recently ordered over two million dollars' worth of educational books to go to France now and be paid for out of the money to be raised in the forthcoming campaign. The leading educators of America have been across and laid out the plan; the best teachers that our schools and universities can provide have volunteered to go across. And with them will go a steady stream of the ablest American business men. Together they will keep the boy up to the mark. They will give him the chance to come back a better trained, more resourceful, more successful boy than when he went away.

He has fought your battles for you, and won. Will you send him the men and the books that will help him to win the battle of after-life?

Remember This When You Give

The work of the Y. M. C. A. in France has grown by leaps and bounds in the last three months, because of the largely increased number of our men who have been sent over there.

When we had our Campaign last year, for the purpose of raising $35,000,000, the American people responded with great liberality and subscribed $54,000,000. Of this amount $52,000,000 has actually been paid into our treasury, in cash. Every dollar of this has been spent, and we have borrowed during the last few weeks upwards of ten million dollars, and spent all of this.

We borrowed ten million dollars in the absolute confidence that the American people would be as liberal in the next Campaign as they were in the last one. We have borrowed it because we could not cripple the work which was so necessary. We borrowed it because we knew those boys of ours "over there" were not stopping to count the cost in the battles they were fighting for us. They risk their lives—their all—in their work. For such men as these could we do less than push our work ahead, spending all the capital we had and borrowing as much as we could? It would have been much easier for those who are managing the work, much safer, and much more conservative to have said, several weeks ago, "We cannot continue to expand this work; we must contract it, because we have not the money." But would it have been a patriotic thing to do? Would it have been treating our boys as they are treating us? Not much.

Therefore, we took the course we did. And, therefore, when the Y. M. C. A. asks for one hundred million out of the one hundred seventy million to be raised, you must realize that many millions of this sum will have been spent for work done in the past, and, therefore, cannot be used in the work of the future.

GEORGE W. PERKINS

YMCA

THERE ARE BETTER PLACES THAN PARIS FOR YOUR BOY TO SPEND HIS FURLOUGH.

General Pershing was wise. He said to himself, "The Frenchman can go home for his furlough; the Englishman goes to Blighty. But our boys have only the great cities—and great cities are not the best places for boys on furlough."

So he arranged with the Y. M. C. A. to take over the great hotels at Aix les Bains, one of the finest resorts in the world. And there, with swimming, mountain climbing, billiards and theatricals and horseback riding, the boys have had such a vacation as only millionaires could have before the war.

Aix les Bains is only one of half a dozen resorts which the "Y" has ready for your boy when his furlough days come. It costs money to keep those great places going, though the boys pay a part of the expense. But is any place too good for our boys on their furloughs? If you have no boy of your own over there ask that question of a man who has.

SOME OF THOSE LITTLE FRENCH VILLAGES HAVE NO STORE AT ALL.

Those little French villages where your boys are quartered will be pretty dreary this winter. Coal will be $60 or $70 a ton; perhaps the Y. M. C. A. hut will be the only place where you boy can be dry and warm.

And the canteen in the hut will be the only store for miles. Money will manage to get itself spent somehow. If there is no store in a town, it may find less desirable channels. General Pershing knew this when he asked the "Y" to undertake the management of the canteens or soldiers' stores in France.

You may have heard criticisms of the prices in the "Y's" canteens in France. Of course the prices are often higher than on this side; they have to be. Ocean freights are tremendously high, and so is transportation by automobile in France. But remember this—the "Y" never intended to make and never has made a penny of profit on the canteen. Instead it has lost several hundred thousands of dollars the first year. It planned from the beginning to sell at actual cost; and by a recent arrangement with the Quartermaster it will be able to sell many articles cheaper than the boys could buy them over here. Bull Durham for 4¼ cents, for instance; and Fatimas for 9½ cents.

The "Y" knew that the canteen would prove a hard and thankless task when General Pershing asked that it be taken over. The "Y" knew there would be an abundance of criticism; what store is free from it? But the canteen has been a blessing to the A. E. F., and will be in the days to come. Assistant Secretary of War Keppel testified before the Senate Committee that the charges that the "Y" had made a profit were absolutely without foundation.

The prices are being constantly lowered as the ocean tonnage situation improves. And General Pershing says that there is nothing more imporant than that the canteen should keep well stocked and flourishing through the demobilization period, when the boys will have plenty to spend and must have a place to spend it.

LET'S KEEP THE HUT FIRES BURNING OVER THERE.

There is not room on a page like this to touch the edges of the "Y's" multitudinous activities over there. No room to mention the great Eagle Hut in London, the center of soldier and sailor life in that city; or the scores of restaurants and hotels in France with clean beds and home cooking; or the two cracker factories and the chocolate factory which the "Y" took over in France to give our boys something sweet to carry in their pockets.

But there is room to say a word about the men and women who are with your boy over there. This is the first war in which the influence of the home and church has followed the boy straight up to the front line trenches. The hut is home over there—the place where your boy reads and is warm, and writes home (the "Y" buys letter paper in lots of 100 million sheets). And the hut is church. Often in a single hut there will be a Jewish service and a Catholic service and a Protestant service all within two days.

And the men in the huts—six thousand of America's best—they are your representatives, fathers and brothers of America. They are there in the lonesome hours with a ready smile and a word of welcome. They are there in the trying hours; they are there to be and to do what you would want to be and do if you could have followed your boy across.

Back of them, in the huts behind the lines, are a thousand of the finest women in the world. They are mother and sister to those two million men. To them men come hungry for the sound of a woman's voice in a language they can understand; to them they show the pictures of mother and sister and the girl back home.

Is it worth while to keep the influence of those men and women strong about your boys in the next trying months?

Are you going to make the year of demobilization an asset or a liability for them? Will it be a period of demoralization or a period of progress, and growth, and happiness, and good cheer?

You will never have such another chance to serve America—for as you mould these boys in the next two years so they will mould your country for the next generation. Think hard about that. Think—and then give your answer next week through the United War Work Campaign.

LEVINSKY PUT OUT BY JACK DEMPSEY

FLOORED IN THE SECOND

Utah Boxer, on the Aggressive from Outset of Battle, Crushes Opponent's Defense.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Battling Levinsky's pugilistic star set in the ring of the Olympia A. A. here tonight, when Jack Dempsey, the Salt Lake City heavyweight, knocked out the veteran Hebrew boxer in the third round of what was to have been a six-round bout.

The end came just thirty-five seconds before the end of the round, when a series of heavy blows to the body, followed by a crushing right-hand swing to the chin, put the blonde Battler down for the fatal ten seconds. This was the first time in his long and brilliant ring career, extending over many years, that Levinsky has felt the humiliation of a knockout.

There was no question as to Dempsey's superiority over his more experienced rival. The Utah heavyweight gave an indication of what was to come in the second round, when he floored Levinsky with a punishing left-hand blow to the stomach. The Battler took a count of nine before arising. He never fully recovered from this blow and only the bell saved him from a knockout then and there.

Levinsky fought as well as he could, but his best wasn't good enough. In fact he only landed a few clean blows on Dempsey, who kept tearing in after his opponent almost from the first gong. These blows Dempsey shook off without even noticing them. He was intent on one thing, which was evident from the start, and that was to score a knockout over Levinsky.

Dempsey boxed rather cautiously at the outset of the opening round and Levinsky was doubly cautious. The Westerner, however, was the aggressor and several times rushed Levinsky about the ring, lunging out savagely with either right or left to the face and body alternately. Levinsky's only effort was a comparatively weak left jab or hook to the head, which didn't bother Dempsey in the slightest.

With the gong in the second round Dempsey set about his task in real earnest and soon had Levinsky flying before him in a whirlwind of blows. After sparring for an opening Dempsey suddenly shot out his left to the stomach. Levinsky crumpled up on the floor of the ring, but staggered to his feet at nine. The Battler clinched instinctively and Dempsey tore in at him, but the Westerner shook Levinsky off without ceremony and tried diligently to batter him to the floor. Levinsky was staggering helplessly about when the bell sounded the end of the round.

Levinsky had hardly recovered from this punishment in the third round and Dempsey met him with a volley of rights and lefts to the face and body. Levinsky tried ineffectively to cover from the punishing attack, but Dempsey rushed him about and made his own openings for heavy blows. A hard right to the jaw forced Levinsky to hold. When the referee parted the combatants Dempsey sent his right and left gloved fists in a flurry of blows to Levinsky's mid-section and then suddenly shifted for a right to the jaw. The Hebrew heavyweight crumpled weakly to the floor and was counted out for the first time in his career.

In a semi-final bout Johnny Dundee of New York hobbled, hooked, and cuffed his way to a victory over Gussie Lewis of this city in six rounds. Joe Burman, Chicago's fast bantamweight boxer, scored a victory over Young McGovern of this city in another six-round contest.

KOSTICH IN SECOND PLACE.

Serbian Player Defeats Marshall, United States Chess Champion.

By defeating Marshall, the United States champion, in the twelfth round of the international tournament at the Manhattan Chess Club yesterday Boris Kostich of Serbia further strengthened his hold on second place and came up very close to Capablanca of Havana, who yesterday had a bye, besides having in hand an adjourned game with Chajes.

Marshall was by no means in form, although he had the white side of a queen's gambit declined, he played indifferently, lost his queen's pawn at an early stage and gradually drifted into a losing position as the result of an attempt to improve his prospects. Kostich won the game after twenty-eight moves. It is generally conceded that the second prize is practically his.

Oscar Chajes made the most of the defeat sustained by Marshall by winning his game from Morrison of Toronto after forty-eight moves, thereby passing Marshall and taking third place in the race. Chajes had the black pieces and adopted the Petroff defense.

In the third game, between Janowski of Paris and Black of Brooklyn, opened by the latter with a Ruy Lopez, Black succeeded in winning a pawn in the course of the middle game. He experienced difficulty, however, in making this advantage tell in the ending, wherein the masters were left with four bishops besides pawns. This game was adjourned.

Capablanca	8	1	Janowski	4	5
Kostich	7½	2½	Black	2½	6½
Chajes	5½	4½	Morrison	1½	9½

CHINESE ELEVEN DEFEATED.

Robins Dry Dock Soccer Team Blanks Orientals, 6 to 0.

Playing against the crack soccer team representing the Robins Dry Dock and Repair Company at Todd Field in Brooklyn yesterday, the Chinese Students eleven, which has entered the National Challenge Cup Competion, suffered defeat by the score of 6 goals to 0, the home team scoring three times in each half.

Garside, from passes by Hayes and Mitchell, scored the first goal after ten minutes of play. Hayes scored the second goal off a pass from Cramp. The third was registered when Van den Eynden passed the ball to Garside, and for the second time Garside drove it through the net.

In the second half Mitchell broke through the Chinese defense and dribbled the ball down the field for the fourth goal. From an end kick Hayes butted the ball into the net for the fifth goal, and a little while later, after a series of passes, Hayes again scored, making the final score 6-0 for the Robins team. Chang, Waung, and Lee performed creditably for the Chinese.

The lineup:

Chinese, (0.).	Position.	Robins, (6.)
Chang	G.	Spital
Chow	R.B.	W. Laverty
Huang	L.B.	Robertson
Wuang	R.H.	Duffy

Referee—T. Cunningham. Linesmen—J. McDonald for Robins, J. Tracey for Chinese. Goals—Hayes, (3,) Garside, (2,) Mitchell, Robins, Dry Dock. Time—Halves of 45 minutes.

ALEXANDER JOINS COLORS.

Star Tennis Player Enters Officers' School at Fort Monroe, Va.

Frederick B. Alexander, one of the most proficient tennis players who ever competed in this country, left on Tuesday for the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va. It was this sterling player who was largely responsible for the success which attended the Red Cross tour of tennis players during the season of 1917, when some $50,000 was raised for the tennis ambulance fund. Alexander was sought by the Y. M. C. A. for duty overseas, but turned a deaf ear to all entreaties, preferring to enter an active fighting branch of the service.

BLAISDELL AND SHEA WIN.

Brooklyn Billiard Players Victorious in Novice Final Round.

J. S. Blaisdell and J. M. Shea, both representing Lawler's Academy in Brooklyn, were the victors last night in the opening of the final round of play for the N. A. A. B. P. novice straight-rail championship. Blaisdell played at Gruhn's Broadway Academy in this city and defeated Arthur Wickers of Gruhn's by a count of 100 to 52 in thirty-seven innings. Blaisdell had a high run of 22 and averaged 2 26-37. Wickers had a run of 7 and an average of 1 16-36.

At Lawler's Academy Shea defeated Philip Levy of Gruhn's by a score of 100 to 63 in thirty-eight innings. Shea had a high run of 12 and averaged 2 24-38. Levy's highest run was 14 and he had an average of 1 25-38.

PECK'S CLAIM IS DENIED.

Yankee Captain Loses Appeal for Salary After Sept. 1.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 6.—The claim of Roger Peckinpaugh of the Yankees for salary was denied in a finding announced today by the National Commission.

The New York player claimed the salary due under his contract for the time of the early closing of the season on Sept. 1, and the date called for in the contract he signed last spring, which provided for salary to Oct. 14. The decision was the same as the one made in the case of Jake Daubert of the Brooklyn club.

W. and J. Cancels All Games.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 6.—The sole remaining games of West Virginia's original nine-game gridiron schedule were canceled today, and all hope of playing any intercollegiate games was abandoned.

PROS TO PLAY ON NOV. 14.

Benefit for Fund Will Be Played at North Shore Club.

Details for two tournaments for the benefit of the United War Work Campaign under the auspices of the Professional Golfers' Association have been definitely decided upon. At an executive session yesterday plans for a tournament at the North Shore Country Club were drawn up. This event, as previously announced, will be held on Thursday, Nov. 14, while the other affair is to be at the Country Club of Atlantic City on Monday next.

Every entrant at North Shore will be expected to contribute a fee of $5, and it is believed that a goodly sum will also be raised at the clubhouse during the day. Conditions provide for eighteen holes, and entries will close with Herbert Strong, at Roslyn, L. I., next Tuesday, though post entries will be accepted.

The Atlantic City affair will be over the thirty-six-hole route, and most of the professionals taking part will arrive there on Sunday. Quite a delegation from this district is expected to compete, including Alec Smith, Gil Nicholls, George Fotheringham and Herbert Strong.

If the match scheduled for the Garden City Golf Club on Sunday next between Walter J. Travis and Findlay S. Douglas is as keen as their meeting over this same links nearly a score of years ago, those enthusiasts who follow the pair will find themselves well repaid. In 1900 "Walter J." and Douglas met there in the final round of the national amateur championship, the first named winning his initial U. S. G. A. title when he defeated the Scotchman by 2 up, the match ending in a downpour of rain. On Sunday the contest will be for the benefit of the United War Work Campaign.

PIMLICO HANDICAP FOR EXTERMINATOR

Kilmer's Kentucky Derby Winner Beats Foreground in Driving Finish.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 6.—W. S. Kilmer's Kentucky Derby winner, Exterminator, gathered fresh laurels this afternoon when he won the Pimlico Autumn Handicap for three-year-olds and ran the distance of a mile and a quarter in [illegible] only a fifth of a second slower than the track record.

Exterminator was favored in the weight allowances, being in receipt of nine pounds from E. R. McLean's The Porter, which ran a smashing race and carried 127 pounds into third place. A. K. Macomber's War Cloud, another of the heavily weighted ones, was slow to leave the barrier and, with the leaders cutting out a fast pace, never had a chance to get into a contending position.

As in one of their previous battles this Fall, Exterminator and The Porter raced out in front, and it was not until well into the stretch that the weight began to tell on The Porter. Commander Ross's Foreground, carrying the feather of 107 pounds, had kept in touch with the leaders, and when The Porter gave way made a determined effort to catch Exterminator. It was a fight to the finish line, with Exterminator gained the verdict from Foreground by a scant length. The Porter was only a neck behind Foreground.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds, claiming; five and a half furlongs. Roi Craig, 107 pounds, (A. Schuttinger,) $7.80, $3.90, and $2.40, won; Sweeplet, 104, (E. Sande,) $7.50 and $3.10, second; Lackawanna, 109, (L. Lyke,) $2.80, third. Time—1:08. Echo B., Pollu, Veteran, Carry On, Pinard, Apple Jack II., Mother in Law, Charley Thorley, and Effie's Pride also ran.

SECOND RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming; six furlongs. Orico, 101 pounds, (A. Schuttinger,) $7.60, $3.90, and $2.40, won; Sweeplet, 104, (E. Sande,) $7.50 and $3.10, second; Lackawanna, 109, (L. Lyke,) $2.80, third. Time—1:08. Echo B., Pollu, Veteran, Carry On, Pinard, Apple Jack II., Mother in Law, Charley Thorley, and Effie's Pride also ran.

THIRD RACE.—Steeplechase; for maiden three-year-olds and upward; two miles. Fencer, 142 pounds, (J. Barrett,) $12.30, $6.90, and $5.40, won; Belle of the Sea, 136, (C. Smoot,) $8.20 and $4.80, second; North Star, 142, (D. Byers,) $4.20, third. Time—3:51. Ollie Byrne, Ocean Prince, Acabado, Outlaw, Dave Campbell, Bughouse, Royal Arch, and Water Toast also ran.

FOURTH RACE.—Pimlico Handicap, for three-year-olds; one mile and a quarter. Exterminator, 113 pounds, (L. Ensor,) $8.40, $4.70, and $2.70, won; Foreground, 107, (E. Sande,) $13.50 and $5.80, second; The Porter, 127, (F. Robinson,) $2.60, third. Time—2:05 3-5. War Cloud and Recount also ran.

FIFTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares; one mile and a quarter. Salvestra, 126 pounds, (E. Sande,) $3.90 and out, won; Dorcas, 123, (T. Farrington,) out for place, second; The Dean, 110, (E. Ambrose,) out for third, third. Time—2:10. Only three starters.

SIXTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming; one mile and a quarter. Marian Curie, 110 pounds, (F. Robinson,) $5.40, $3.20, and $2.50, won; Bonster, 108, (A. McIntyre,) $8.80 and $4, second; Bar of Phoenix, 113, (G. Walls,) $3.10, third. Time—2:08. Kentucky Boy, Goldcrest Boy, Furand Calls, Mercancy, Bierman, Valspar, and Babette also ran.

SEVENTH RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming; handicap; one mile. Stuart Honey, 116 pounds, (E. Sande,) $21.40, $7.60, and $3, won; Wise Man, 114, (A. Schuttinger,) $3.50 and $2.60, second; Icarus, 110, (F. Robinson,) $2.60, third. Time—1:39 4-5. African Arrow and Poacher also ran.

NEW PLAYERS SHOW TALENT

Van Wie and Sullivan Add Strength to Fordham Team.

The N. Y. U. game being only three days off, Coach Siskind sent the Fordham football squad through two hours of the stiffest drill held this season. Most of the time was given to scrimmaging against the prep. eleven. The 'Varsity backs tore the lighter prep. team at will, Ryan and Barnes getting away for several long runs. During the latter part of the scrimmage the prep. players were given the ball on the 'Varsity 10-yard line and told to push it over. However, the Maroon line held, and one attempt after another failed to get the necessary distance. Van Wie's breaking through and tackling were the features of the practice. This youngster, who is only 10 years old, with a little more experience will become a valuable forward. Sullivan, a new candidate who hails from Boston College, also showed up well.

COLUMBIA COACH IS ILL WITH INFLUENZA

Loss of Fred Dawson Comes at Critical Period of Team's Development.

Big developments may be expected in Columbia University's football plans for the next four Saturdays. Charles Halstead Mapes, Chairman of the University Committee on Athletics, who was a visitor at South Field yesterday afternoon, said that the next few days might bring forth the information of heretofore unlooked for developments. Whether this means that a game has been scheduled with Pennsylvania, Mr. Mapes would not say.

Levering Tyson, graduate manager of athletics returned to the campus yesterday and expected to leave for Ithaca today in order to meet with the Cornell athletic authorities with reference to the proposed Columbia-Cornell game on Nov. 30.

Coach Fred Dawson was taken suddenly sick an hour before football practice, and was hurriedly sent to his home on Washington Heights. It was said that his temperature was rising rapidly, and although there was no official statement as to his condition, it is believed that he is suffering from an attack of Spanish influenza. Tom Thorp, who has been acting as assistant coach for the last week or two, was pressed into service as head coach.

Columbia would be unfortunate to lose Dawson even for a few days at this time, because he plans to go to Princeton for the course of instruction offered S. A. T. C. physical directors on Nov. 11. He will be gone two weeks at that time, and if he should be forced to lose any time now Columbia would be in a bad way.

Two hitherto undiscovered players stood out with prominence in yesterday's practice. One was Tearse, a husky youth, who is now a freshmen in the regular academic course. He was at McGehen High School for four years and played on the school eleven. He is one of the biggest men on the squad, and playing in the scrub line yesterday he ripped through two big holes in the Varsity advance ranks. Collins, the other newcomer, was a back at Cornell two years ago, and did exceptionally well against the Varsity. Throp tried him out at left end.

For the first time since last Saturday, the full Varsity complement was on the field. Lieutenant Chester Robb and Houlahan, who suffered the most in the Amherst game, were both in line, as were Stevens, Robinson, and Zychlinski. Memmott also got his first chance to play in the Varsity backfield in more than three weeks and Canapery, who has just recovered from the influenza, was also used in the backfield for a time.

The searchlights on Hamilton Hall were used for the first time, and the practice drill was extended until 5:30, with fair success. Under the old regulations, the Varsity men quit with all the other football players at 5 o'clock, but a special permit was granted enabling the squad to remain on the field until 5:30.

Dr. Tuggle Wins at Billiards.

Dr. F. W. Tuggle last night scored the first victory in the tournament which will decide the national Class C 18.2 balk line billiard championship under the auspices of the American Billiard Association. The play opened at Osborne's Academy. Dr. Tuggle defeated Fred Wade by a score of 200 to 107 in seventy-seven innings. The victor returned a high run of 28, with an average of 2 46-77. Wade's high run was 12 and he averaged 2 43-77.

YALE FOOTBALL IS DROPPED

Military Authorities Decide There Is No Time for Game.

Reports that Yale University would have no football team this season were confirmed yesterday by Lieutenant F. K. Hoehler, Director of Athletics for the Students' Army Training Corps at New Haven.

Lieutenant Hoehler said the athletic authorities of the Army and Navy units met with the university authorities and decided that no intercollegiate football contests of any sort would be played, even for the raising of charitable funds. Academic and military schedules at Yale make it impossible to take any length of time for the daily practice so necessary in football.

This announcement eliminates the possibility of Yale playing a game with Columbia. Yale has been negotiating with both Columbia and Springfield Training College for games.

SEALING OF ZEEBRUGGE

Smashing of U-Boats by Depth Bombs and Surrender of Crews Revealed Through Aircraft.

The official exhibition of colored naval photographs by the British Government was opened yesterday at the Anderson Galleries, Fifty-ninth Street and Park Avenue. There are 180 photographs in all, a large proportion of them being enlargements, on a great scale, of the work of airplane cameras. Never before has such a collection on any subject connected with the war been made. Several of the photographs are larger than any previously made.

Some of the pictures are scenes of the sealing of Zeebrugge, one on a large scale showing the entrance blocked by British ships sunk in the channel. The original of this photograph was found on a captured German airman. Another picture, celebrated by a poem by Alfred Noyes in THE NEW YORK TIMES of yesterday, was that of the old Vindictive at Zeebrugge, where she deliberately drew the German fire on herself to screen the sinking of the blockade ships in the channel, and before she went forth to be sunk at Ostend across the path of submarines moving in and out of that base. The smashing of German submarines under water by depth bombs, the surrender of crews of damaged submarines, smooth seas on which round blots of oil recorded the deaths of undersea craft, were the subjects of some of the photographs.

Sir William Lowther Grant, K. C. B., British Naval Commander in Chief of the North American and West Indies Station, said in opening the exhibition:

"The rôle of the Grand Fleet, and of the British Fleet as a whole, is fairly well known and I believe it to be generally accepted that had it not been for that fleet, its protection of the ocean highways for the transportation of vast armies, and of food and supplies both for the armies and for England and allied countries, we could not have held out but for a few months and our cause, the cause of liberty and justice, would have been lost in the face of the extraordinary preparedness and strength of those attacking us."

Lewis Wants to Determine Personal Responsibility of Officers and Directors for Accident.

The John Doe inquiry, presided over by Mayor Hylan, sitting as a Magistrate, into the disaster which cost ninety-one lives in the Malbone tunnel of the Brighton Beach line of the B. R. T. on Friday, will be continued at 11 o'clock this morning in the old Brooklyn Court House. District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Brooklyn announced yesterday that he had made a demand for all the minutes and other records of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company and its subsidiary companies to show their exact relation and determine the personal responsibility of officers and directors of the different companies for the careful operation of trains.

STORMFIELD FOR A HOME.

Clara Clemens Gabriowitsch Aids Artists' War Service.

Clara Clemens Gabrilowitsch has turned over Stormfield, the home of Mark Twain at Redding, Conn., as a convalescent home in charge of the Artists' War Service League, recently incorporated under the laws of the State of New York. The objects of this organization are similar to those of the American Friends of Musicians in France, except that it proposes to aid men of all the artistic professions in the service and their dependents, instead of confining itself to musicians alone.

An honorary committee named for the purpose of stimulating membership now includes Rudyard Kipling, representing literature; Enrico Caruso, music; Daniel C. French, sculpture, and John Drew, representing the drama. J. F. D. Lanier will be Treasurer and Winslow, Lanier & Co. will act as bankers for the fund raised by the league.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Robert H. McLaughlin's dramatization of the Riley poems, the title of which has been changed to "Home Again," will be presented at the Playhouse next Monday night by William A. Brady. The cast will include Tim Murphy, Maclyn Arbuckle, Forrest Robinson, Charles Dow Clark, Erville Alderson, Harry Redding, Henry Duffy, Antoinette Walker, Madeline Delmar, and Marie Taylor. "Peter's Mother," now at the Playhouse, will be withdrawn on Saturday.

A. E. Anson has been engaged for the leading role in "The Invisible Foe," which will be produced here in about four weeks.

Robert B. Mantell's engagement in "Richelieu," at the Forty-fourth Street, has been extended for a second week.

A free performance of "The Better 'Ole" will be given at the Greenwich Village next Sunday night for men in uniform.

MUSIC NOTES.

Pierre Monteux will conduct the Metropolitan's opening performance on Monday next, after leading the Boston Symphony concerts here tonight and Saturday in Carnegie Hall, and tomorrow in Brooklyn.

William Hinshaw announces "Pinafore" for a gala production at the Park next week, following "The Mikado" and "The Pirates," in his current Gilbert and Sullivan festival.

THE BRAMHALL REOPENS.

Butler Davenport's "The Comforts of Ignorance" Is a Confused Play.

Butler Davenport's Bramhall Playhouse in Twenty-seventh Street reopened for its fifth season last night with the production of another play by Mr. Davenport. The new piece is rather courageously titled "The Comforts of Ignorance," and is a confused and frequently baffling play which presents portions of some four or five different stories, thereby hopelessly intriguing the onlooker and causing him to give up in dejection long before the final curtain.

Programed as a satirical comedy, the piece gives promise of being something of the sort in the first act by putting forward a social climber as its central figure, only to veer from that thesis to tell a story of domestic unfaithfulness and a fortune-hunting foreigner, with a side plea for social recognition for downtrodden mistresses. These elements, unfortunately, have not been mixed together with anything resembling technical proficiency, and the result is a play as obviously homemade as the scenery. Last night's audience was disposed to receive many of its most serious moments with giggles, which is perhaps a good indication of its quality.

Henry B. Stanford and a young woman, named Elsie Rizer, do what is possible for the play in an acting way, but most of the others in the cast vie with each other in amateurishness. The author, who plays one of the rôles, is one of the most successful contestants in this field.

CONVOYS SAVED ALL BUT 1% OF FOOD SHIPS

Of 85,772 Merchant Vessels Escorted in Fifteen Months Only 433 Were Sunk.

LONDON, Nov. 6, (British Wireless Service.)—Since the convoy system was successfully adopted some 26,000,000 tons of food and 35,000,000 tons of munitions have been brought in convoy to this country and the food ships lost have been reduced from nearly 10 per cent. to 1 per cent.

This Summer 307 ships of a tonnage of 1,466,000 came with the Argentine wheat crop for Great Britain, France, and Italy, and only one ship was lost. This may be compared with the worst period for sinkings, the week ended April 29, 1917, when 119 ships were lost.

Convoys between July 26, 1917, and Oct. 19, 1918, were 1,027 in number, containing 14,968 ships, of which only 118 were lost. The gross tonnage was 77,057,231. The tonnage lost was 654,288. One convoy of United States troops and British ships brought 30,000 men.

The grand total of merchant ships convoyed was 85,772 and the losses were only 433.

The volume of traffic to and from the United Kingdom in less than three-quarters of this year increased by one-third, while the risk of loss is one-half of what it was.

War Benefit Next Sunday.

General Bell and Job E. Hedges will speak at a benefit concert at the Hippodrome next Sunday afternoon, under the auspices of the home auxiliaries of the 304th, 305th, 306th Field Artillery and the 302d Ammunition Train, the object being to provide a Christmas celebration for children of the men of the 152d Brigade, 77th Division, now fighting in France. Among the soloists will be Mme Schumann-Heink, Leonora Sparkes, Percy Grainger, Riccardo Martin, David Bispham, and Irving Berlin. There will be a military drill by a battalion of the 22d Infantry, while the bands of Fort Hamilton and Fort Totten will assist, conducted by Rocco Resta.

THE INSTRUMENT OF QUALITY
Sonora
CLEAR AS A BELL

Duncan Phyfe

IN the Period Designs Sonora has duplicated the masterpieces of the furniture makers of all times, and here is shown a charming example which is of American origin.

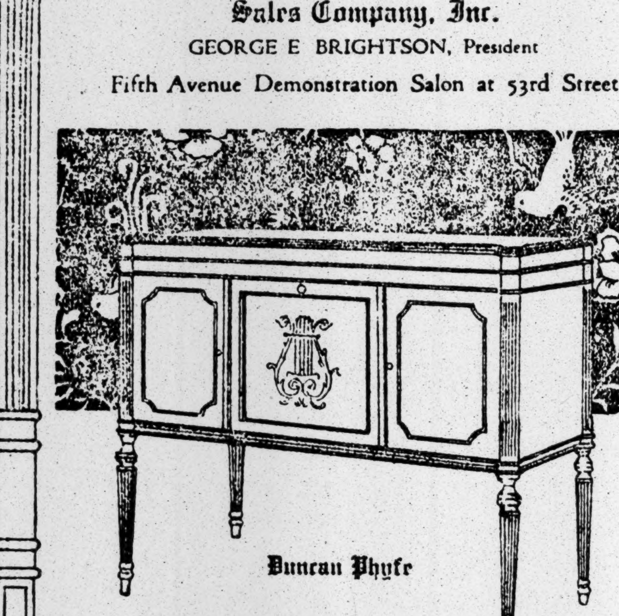

It must never be forgotten that in the Sonora, the cabinet of extraordinary merit is only one part of a wonderfully perfect phonograph which plays all makes of disc records perfectly without extra attachments and with incomparable beauty.

Gothic	Jacobean
Chippendale	William & Mary
Chinese Chippendale	Adam
Louis XV.	Colonial
Louis XVI.	Duncan Phyfe

Other models or complete equipments will be made to special order.

REPUBLICAN RESPONSIBILITY.

How much the Republicans have learned since they last had a majority in the House of Representatives no man can say. We hope that they have learned that the doctrine that the taxpayers exist to be exploited by Payne-Aldrich tariffs for the benefit of a group of protected manufacturers controlling the making of tariffs is no longer accepted in this country. They must have learned, too, that these are days of progress, that reaction should have its limits.

The Democrats, we think, have lost control of the House chiefly because they have not forgotten enough. They did not make the wisest use of their power, they were inclined to arbitrariness, they had not forgotten the supine nature of Northern Democrats seventy years ago, and behaved accordingly. A chairmanship given to a Northern Democrat here and there would have done no harm. It may be said that these are matters of politeness, of minor morals, but they are, nevertheless, worth bearing in mind. One great cause of the Democratic overthrow in the House was, we imagine, the taxes. That party must be powerful indeed that could withstand the dissatisfactions necessarily flowing from the imposition of such gigantic levies. Still, it may be Mr. CLAUDE KITCHIN's talk rather than his taxes prompted the rebuke. Laying taxes in billions, the author of the bill would be wise to temper his budget speeches with a note of sorrow; Mr. GLADSTONE often did that. The present Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee always exulted. He had a fierce joy in taxing wealth, not merely wealth as commonly understood, but wealth in the most modest degrees, represented, for example, by the ability to own a shirt costing more than $1.50. He openly expressed his purpose to put his taxes chiefly upon the North, because the North had wanted us to go into the war. That was more resented, perhaps, than the taxes themselves. It was an amazing blunder, and we think the regret most prevalent in the country today is that Mr. KITCHIN could not pay the penalty for it by defeat in Scotland Neck.

If we could intimately search the hearts of people we should probably discover that the opposition to President WILSON's war policies, the fear that he would be too lenient with Germany, had nothing to do with the return of the Republican majority in the House. The leaders raised that preposterous issue, the people were not moved by it. Nor was Mr. WILSON's appeal to the country for a Democratic House the cause of the reversal. It is much more probable that by that appeal he saved many districts to his party. The set of the current was against the Democrats for domestic reasons; it is reasonable to suppose that his appeal may have stayed its flow in some parts of the country. The Democrats in the House have a strong inclination to Government ownership of railroads and telegraphs and telephones. The experience of the country under Government operation of both these public utilities, we feel confident, has set the people decidedly against Government ownership. They have borne its inflictions patiently, cheerfully, because of the necessity of war; but they have seen what it means and will be glad to see the end of it. The Republicans will have to share the responsibility of attending to this matter and to many other problems on readjustment after the war is over.

Some indications of their intentions and their policies may be found in the choice the new House will make for Speaker and for chairmanships of important committees, notably that of Interstate and Foreign Commerce. If they find it necessary to disregard utterly the principle of seniority in determining chairmanships, the country will be glad of it, for that abuse has too long persisted. They will have a great deal more to say about the post-war policies than would have been the case had they remained in the minority. The country will be content that they should bear their share of responsibility; evidently it prefers that they should have the undoing of much that the Democrats have had to do as measures of war. The Republican majority is not sufficient to warrant them in any courses of unreason, or in extreme ventures of partisanship. Besides, Mr. WILSON will be President until the 4th of March, 1921.

THE STATE.

Mr. ALFRED E. SMITH's election by a small plurality over Governor WHITMAN is indicated by the returns and seems certain, except in so far as the vote of the New York soldiers in cantonments in the United States, a vote not to be canvassed until Dec. 17, may disturb or alter the present figures. There is reason to assume, however, that the New York soldiers will vote substantially as New York civilians have voted.

Mayor WALKER of Binghamton, the Democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor, is elected by a fat plurality over Lieutenant Governor SCHOENECK, whom the people were too considerate to re-elect for the purpose of seeing him resign. Nothing prevents him from resigning now and serving the country instead of the State.

FREEDOM OF THE SEAS.

"Every nation is free to travel to "every other nation and to trade with "it," said GROTIUS. Under this broad principle of international law the seas beyond the three-mile limit are open on equal terms to ships of every nation. But this rule is of unlimited application only in time of peace; in time of war belligerents have certain recognized rights of interference with trade, such as blockade, visit and search, and seizure of contraband, and it is over the scope of these rights that differences have arisen between nations concerning the freedom of the seas. That expression, as Mr. WILSON used it in the second of his fourteen points, has nothing to do with the use of the seas in peace; it relates only to the defining of the rights, respectively, of belligerents and neutrals in time of war. It is in many ways fortunate that the allied Governments have noted their inability to accept, in all of its various interpretations, the principle of "the freedom of the seas," and that they have reserved to themselves "complete freedom on "this subject when they enter the "peace conference." It is fortunate because the subject has long been controverted. The principles involved should be made clear, should be discussed until they are agreed to by all nations, to the end that they may become a part of the universally accepted body of international law. The reservation now made by the allied Powers ought to lead to that happy conclusion.

The American doctrine of freedom of the seas, briefly stated, is that private property, not contraband of war, should be exempt from seizure by any belligerent at sea as it is exempt on land. The instructions drawn up by Secretary JOHN HAY for the American delegates to the first Hague Conference, held in 1899, clearly stated the American doctrine:

> As the United States has for many years advocated the exemption of all private property, not contraband of war, from hostile treatment, you are authorized to propose to the conference the principle of extending to strictly private property at sea the immunity of destruction or capture by belligerent Powers which such property already enjoys on land as worthy of being incorporated in the permanent law of civilized nations.

This instruction was repeated at the time of the second Hague Conference, in 1907. The status of private property at sea was discussed by the conference; when the vote was taken there were twenty-one votes sustaining the American position, eleven were against it, and twelve did not vote. Germany voted with us on condition that there should be a preliminary agreement as to contraband and blockade. Great Britain, France, and Japan, also Russia, voted nay. The subject is one of great complexity, since it necessarily involves correlative questions of blockade and contraband. When Great Britain established her blockade of Germany, a commercial blockade, the United States, in its famous note of March 30, 1915, while admitting the established right of blockading specified ports, protested against a blockade distant from the inhibited coast and so maintained as to bar access to many neutral ports and coasts, and subjecting "all neutral "ships seeking to approach them to "the same suspicion that would at-"tach to them were they bound for "the ports" of an enemy of the blockading Power. The doctrine of "continuous voyage" is also involved. In our civil war we seized many ships, principally British, as to which a suspicion or proof existed of intention to supply goods to the Southern States, then blockaded by us. We intercepted these cargoes even when they were consigned to a neutral port, as the island of Nassau or the Mexican port of Matamoros, when it was evident that the real destination was a port of the Southern United States. The doctrine then laid down by our courts was that if an intention to run the blockade was evident the whole cargo was liable to seizure; if any part of the cargo was contraband that part was subject to seizure when it was clear that, though destined to a neutral port, the ultimate destination was within the blockaded territory.

The American doctrine is consonant with the modern spirit which has tended to restrict belligerent rights to acts undoubtedly essential to the prosecution of the war, while safeguarding and continually extending neutral rights, in order that by prohibiting so far as possible interference with commerce of the seas the loss and calamity of the war may be confined to belligerents. The tendency is to restrict within the narrowest limits the right to molest neutrals. The exigencies of this tremendous war have caused the nations engaged against Germany to be little regardful of encroachments on freedom of seas which in the case of a minor conflict would have encountered protest. What Germany means by freedom of the seas, of which she has talked so much, is the right to replenish her stores by unrestricted trade with all nations during the war, her object being to secure the denunciation of British blockade as illegal and not to be endured. Great Britain, as a nation of frequent wars, holds views somewhat at variance with the American doctrine, which has its origin in the belief that, being little given to war, the interests of this nation are almost continuously those of a neutral. It is to be hoped that the differences in respect to Mr. WILSON's second point, which are by no means irreconcilable, will be removed by frank interchange of views before the assembling of the peace conference, in order that the delegates of the Allies, when they meet the German delegates, will be found to be altogether in agreement.

A CONTRIBUTION TO HISTORY.

At the dinner given in his honor in this city on Tuesday night Mr. HENRY MORGENTHAU, lately American Ambassador at Constantinople, proposed some form of military occupation in Turkey during the reconstruction period following the war; otherwise, no stable government would be set up, and in the welter of disorder and factional strife the Armenians would not be allowed to realize their independence. No American is a better judge of conditions in Turkey than Mr. MORGENTHAU, or so well qualified to give advice about the restraint of the forces which were responsible for the evil partnership between Germany and the Ottoman Empire.

In his service as American Ambassador, which began in 1913 and ended when Turkey entered the war to play the part for which she was cast by the emissaries of the Kaiser, Mr. MORGENTHAU was always in touch with TALAAT Pasha and ENVER Pasha, the real rulers of Turkey. They were as unprincipled a pair as ever usurped power and betrayed a people. In the ante-war period the Ambassador obtained information that threw a sinister light upon their dealings with Berlin, and this information was supplemented by confidences from Baron VON WANGENHEIM, the German Ambassador, which were intended to mislead the American, but revealed to him not only the secrets of the intrigue but the true relations of Germany with Turkey and the plans of the Kaiser with regard to France, Russia, Great Britain, and the Far East. All the incidents are told, together with Mr. MORGENTHAU's shrewd comments, in that vivid and moving book, "Ambassador MORGENTHAU's Story," issued to the public today. It is a dramatic relation, full of astonishing revelations and striking sketches of character, nowhere dull or halting, speculative, philosophic, and at times humorous, for it was not all tragedy that passed in review before the keen-eyed Ambassador.

Perhaps there is no passage in the book which has greater value as a contribution to history, or is more pertinent just now, than what Baron VON WANGENHEIM had to say about the terms of peace that Germany would impose upon France. She was to be made to demobilize her armies, to pay an indemnity of $20,000,000,000, and to surrender her art treasures. Great Britain and Russia were to be dealt with as ruthlessly. But Mr. MORGENTHAU, taking notes and later to print them, never forgot that he was America's Ambassador. He fought for thousands of foreign residents after Turkey entered the war; he championed the Armenians, although he could not save them from massacre; he stood up for every right of his country, and would not be hoodwinked or browbeaten. To read the story of the services Mr. MORGENTHAU rendered as a representative of America and a friend of humanity is to realize his value in consultation when the future of Turkey and her oppressed races must be considered.

A PUBLIC MISFORTUNE.

This is the eighth Congress in which SWAGAR SHERLEY has represented the Fifth, or Louisville, District of Kentucky. He is the head of one of the cardinal committees of the House, that on appropriations. He has steadily risen in the estimation of the House from the time that he entered. No man in it has followed the public business and devoted himself to the public interest more constantly or more fruitfully. Quietly, without the slightest advertising, solely by his merits, he has made himself a great figure in the House, intellectually the real leader of the Democratic side. For what fault was he not re-elected? Has he wronged the deepest emotions of some of his constituents by not showing sufficient ardor about Post Offices and Public Buildings? Why have the Democrats of his district deserted a statesman who is an honor to it and to Congress?

SOCIALISTS.

It was a mighty good day's work to defeat MEYER LONDON, the Socialist Representative of the Twelfth New York District. It was even better work to defeat MORRIS HILLQUIT in the Twentieth. In both districts a combination of Republicans and Democrats, that is of loyal men, was made against these Socialists, who, like the majority of so-called American Socialists, are German Socialists, adversaries of the war, friends of Germany. On account of his superior abilities Mr. HILLQUIT is a much more dangerous man than Mr. LONDON. In the Thirteenth District Mr. C. D. SULLIVAN, likewise a coalition candidate, disposed of that City Hall Socialist, Mr. ALGERNON LEE. In the Fourteenth, Aviator LA GUARDIA subdued without difficulty the eminent friend of academic freedom and of other kinds of freedom verging on sedition, SCOTT NEARING. In Manhattan and in the other boroughs the Socialist vote declined, and no Socialist candidate for the House was elected from them.

In 1917, without the woman vote, Mr. HILLQUIT's vote for Mayor was over 145,000. That of the Socialist candidate for Governor Tuesday was about 85,000. Mr. HILLQUIT had special elements of strength. There has been a wide belief that woman suffrage would work to the advantage of the Socialists in the cities, especially in this city. It is too early to form a definite opinion, and all the cities in the State must be studied. In this city, apparently, woman suffrage was of slight or no advantage to the Socialists.

Just satisfaction at the defeat of LONDON is tempered and reduced by disgust at the election of VICTOR BERGER, indicted under the espionage law, in the Fifth Wisconsin District. BERGER is a man of force, one of the most dangerous German Socialists. That there should be in Wisconsin a district capable of sending such an enemy of the United States to Congress, that in Milwaukee there should be such an island of pro-Germanism, is disquieting and disgraceful. Mr. STAFFORD, the Republican sitting member for the Fifth District, voted on the wrong side of many of the crucial war and military measures. It cannot be said that the all-American side in the campaign in that district was adequately represented save by the Independent and hopeless candidate set up by the Security League.

Nobody, however, will point a scornful finger exclusively at Milwaukee who remembers that Senator NORRIS of Nebraska is borne back to the Senate in the rejoicing arms of the solid pro-German vote.

SOME NEW ENGLANDERS.

Vermont, supposed to dote on prohibition, chooses Mr. PERCIVAL W. CLEMENT, an unperturbed local optionist of long standing, as its Governor. New Hampshire takes her rich and comely gentleman-farmer Governor KEYES as one of her Republican Senators. Another is a pleasant old acquaintance and persevering candidate, Mr. GEORGE H. MOSES, sometime Minister to Greece. What is happening in Massachusetts? The Republican candidate for Governor has a plurality of only 17,000 over his Democratic opponent. Last year Governor MCCALL's plurality was some 90,000. To be sure he was running against a weak adversary. The defeat of Senator WEEKS by former Governor WALSH is, perhaps, less surprising than it seems. Senator LODGE's plurality over FITZGERALD in 1916 was only some 34,000. Whatever his virtues and affabilities and melodies, Mr. FITZGERALD is amusing as a possible Conscript Father. Mr. WALSH is a man of ability, of engaging personal qualities, remarkably popular. Mr. WEEKS, through his knowledge of financial and business questions, might be thought to have special qualifications for the Senate after the war; yet Mr. WALSH beat him by nearly 19,000 votes. Governor MCCALL yearned for the post, and had to put forth a mournful manifesto, testifying fully to his own worthiness and lambasting wealth. How far was the wrath of the adoring McCallites to blame for the disaster to Senator WEEKS? Massachusetts is come to be a doubtful State.

The irrepressible FITZGERALD was elected a Representative in Congress. If DANIEL WEBSTER and ROBERT C. WINTHROP and EDWARD EVERETT could come back to the Bay State, how long would they want to stay? For the Massachusetts people have just voted for a Constitutional Amendment to start the initiative and referendum. So the ancient State has all the modern improvements. Massachusetts, there she lands!

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

His Charge Is Not Well Based.

There is a more than regrettable passage in an interesting and otherwise admirable letter in the November Atlantic from Captain JAMES NORMAN HALL, an American aviator who has done good service on the western front and has well described, in previous articles contributed to the same magazine, war as the airman sees it. At present the Captain is a prisoner of the Germans in the "Offiziers Kriegsgefangen Lager" at Karlsruhe.

In the letter, after telling vividly the story of the fall that landed him, a much bruised and shaken man, behind the German lines, the Captain, as was his right and perhaps was his duty, says that his treatment as a captive has been courteous and kindly, that his quarters are comfortable and his food as good and as abundant as reasonably could be expected in a country where nobody is living really well and most people are suffering great hardships. He quotes a German aviator to whom he expressed a pleased surprise at having encountered no personal hostility from fliers whose lives he had tried to take as saying, "Hauptmann, you will find that we Germans are enemies of a country in war, but never of the individual."

Of all that no complaint can be made, but it is quite another matter when Captain HALL deduces from his own happy experience the conclusion that "some of those tales of escaped or exchanged prisoners must have been highly imaginative." That statement is distinctly—well, having once used the word "regrettable," let it serve again, though a harsher one might easily be found. Without one exception, so far as can be remembered, Entente aviators who have fallen into the hands of the Germans have proclaimed, when opportunity offered, that they were decently treated, and they have all credited the German aviators with observing fairly well such amenities as war permits.

Through some curious twist of the Teutonic mind, service in the air either attracts only superior men or makes them such. There has been practically no criticism of them as a class except that they bombarded hospitals—in obedience, presumably, to orders. These facts, however, gave Captain HALL no excuse for impugning the veracity of other prisoners who, after exchange or escape, have described as atrocious the treatment they received while captives. In now almost innumerable instances they proved by their condition the truth of their stories.

They Write After Their Kind.

Diplomacy, like the other arts and sciences, has a language of its own, or, if not exactly that, it uses a good many words in ways and significances that are often surprising and sometimes puzzling to common folk. The war, with its numerous exchanges between Governments, has brought many of these peculiar words to public notice and added several of them to the popular vocabulary, and this may be counted among the educational influences which the great struggle has exercised—a poor compensation, of course, for the immeasurable destructiveness of war, but still a real one as far as it goes.

Our own official documents and communications do not present, perhaps, as many departures from ordinary usage as do those of the European nations, but our State Department does know the formulae of diplomacy and sometimes feels obliged, for the sake of definiteness, to employ them. A mild case of such employment is to be found in the latest of Secretary LANSING's productions—the one printed yesterday as the President's answer to the German demand or request that he transmit to the Allies the German appeal for an armistice.

In it the Secretary referred to the receipt of a "memorandum of observations by the allied Governments on this correspondence," and just what was meant by a "memorandum of observations" was shown by the next three paragraphs, in which this particular one was quoted. What was said in them would hardly have been called "observations" by writers not in diplomacy. It seemed to be, rather, a statement of conclusions and determinations from observations, but the departure from ordinary usage was by no means as far as it is when the diplomats talk or write of "denouncing" a treaty, or when they refer to its several provisions or sections as "capitulations." In both cases the diplomatic usage is supported by etymology as well as by the diplomatic habit.

In language, however, "whatever is, is right," and people out of diplomacy have as much warrant for their usage as have those in it for theirs. Quite safely, therefore, we can go on interpreting "denunciation" as more or less bitter denunciation, and we needn't give up thinking that a "capitulation" is a surrender.

Safe for a While at Least.

From present indications, and if present hopes of a not distant peace are not deceived, the Prohibitionists are going to find nothing but emptiness in some of their legislative victories. What will it profit them, for instance, to have strong waters banned from June 1 next if the ban is to continue only for the duration of a war that stops before that date?

A real grievance is thus created. Perhaps the Prohibitionists will not complain too bitterly, however, for there are many worse things than a real grievance, and to be without one is for many people—perhaps for most—a state of unhappiness. It takes away a valid ground for feeling virtuous and superior—sometimes the only ground a person has for that agreeable sensation—and resentment naturally follows.

The Prohibitionists might well view with some apprehension the number and size of the victories they have won in recent years. If ever the time came when they had no more States to conquer, how empty would be their days, and what a skurrying about some of them would have to make in search of jobs as profitable and pleasant as they now have!

Capital of a League of Nations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In these days of swift and dramatic happenings, one dares tell his dreams. I have a suggestion to offer to the consideration of thoughtful men everywhere, that Constantinople be made the seat of the new international order, the League or Society of Nations, the establishment of which is one of the major aims of our victory.

Our fathers found it essential, in establishing our Government, to set apart a district, separate from all the States, where the Federal Government should have its seat. The precedent may well be followed in the establishment of whatever international government may be found practicable. Constantinople is ideal for such a use, far better than The Hague. It lies near the Balkans, near Asia Minor, near Russia, midway between Europe and the Orient, at the very centre of the sensitive areas of political and international life. It should not be left to the Turks. Russia no longer has any claim to it. No one nation should possess it. It is the ancient seat of world empire, with the glamour of historic tradition about it. It has a superb site, and could be made a glory to the whole world.

RESCUE RUSSIA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Germany will shortly, if forced to do so, acknowledge her defeat and make a surrender as complete as that of her allies. Even if she should attempt to temporize further, the delay cannot long be continued.

With the cessation of fighting the hardly less intricate reconstruction of devastated Europe will become the paramount issue.

It should be apparent to all that the greater the military defeat sustained by Germany, the greater will be the effort made by her to recoup the disasters of war through the successful prosecution of her economic plans. To defeat these will be no less an achievement than her military discomfiture. Germany has established and maintained the Bolsheviki in their criminal domination of Russia and through them has acquired a temporary hold upon the industries of Russia, which she will be compelled to relinquish only through a complete understanding on the part of the Allies of her purpose, arrived at not by guesswork, but through careful, diligent, and painstaking thoroughness on their part.

Assume for the moment that Germany becomes a democracy. Her peoples will at once say to the peoples of Russia, their neighbors, that the hardships imposed by Germany were due solely to the Kaiser and his military advisers, and that free Germany desires to co-operate with free Russia in the development of the great resources of Russia for the good of both. They will make this appeal as strong and as far-reaching as they made their appeal to the Bolsheviki, which was effective in overturning law and order. Her economic purposes will not have been altered by defeat, but they will be just the same purposes that the Germans have always had in reference to Russia. While the hatred of the Russian people for Germany has come to be intense, nevertheless such an appeal as will be made by the self-styled free people of Germany to the free people of Russia for the ostensible purpose of mutual benefits may meet with a similar reception, and through the same methods of bribery, unless the Allies intervene and definitely and purposefully adopt and carry through a comprehensive plan of economic aid and support in the rehabilitation of Russia. The hopelessness of Russia under its present trials must be well understood, and the necessity of prompt succor we should all realize.

Our reasons for the delay in bringing promised aid have perhaps been justified, although the Russians are having great difficulty in understanding the cause. It was necessary that all the efforts of ourselves and of our allies should have been concentrated upon the western front and on the military defeat of Germany. With that purpose accomplished we can advance no further reason for failure to comprehend Russia's needs and the urgent necessity of providing the required relief.

An additional means of more promptly reaching the heart of Russia will now be available by the surrender of Turkey and the opening of the Dardanelles. This is most opportune and should be promptly utilized.

A legally established Government, consisting of a Directorate of five, constituted by a legally elected National Assembly, is now in existence, located at Omsk, in Siberia, and this Government begs for our prompt support.

There can be no doubt but that the saving of Russia lies very close to the hearts of the American people, and it is certain that our Government will have all possible support in carrying out this vast undertaking. A prompt expression of the desire of our people, through their various civic organizations throughout the country, in support of the Administration's announced policy of helping Russia, should be made known and should receive the hearty support of the entire nation. In other words, let us undertake the reconstruction program with the same unanimity of purpose and with the same energy as we have shown in the prosecution of the war.

"Blood and Iron" Collapses.

Germany is now gathering the fruitage of Bismarckism.

His "blood-and-iron" policy; his contempt for morality in international relations; his trickery with Denmark, with his subsequent trickery and treachery to Austria, whereby Schleswig-Holstein was stolen; his Ems dispatch infamy, tricking France into the war of 1870, are now yielding a mighty, even though overdue, harvest. Frederick the Great, Bismarck, Wilhelm II. are the trinity which seared a nation's soul, bringing it to its present scientifically barbarous and dehumanized state, the name German symbolizing trickery, treachery, cruelty, bestiality, inhumanity. All three have been the nation's gods. When they are loathed by Germans as they properly are by civilized people there will be hope for that purification and rebirth necessary to readmitting Germany into the family of nations.

AT TRIANON.

The sunlight falls on Trianon
And sends its shafts between Remembering trees.

Ladies, behind your painted fans
Whisper more spirit-soft!
And, gentlemen, walk slow,
And gravely once again
Converse.
Matters of State,
More great than e'er ye knew,
They're thinking on in Trianon.

Let the little play-mill
Another Queen is trembling,
So let the pastry-slab stay bare.
The ghosts are gathering there
Around Love's tiny Temple—
Ladies in muslin petticoats,
Tired of brocades,
With little muslin caps
Upon their high-dressed hair,
And gentlemen in jeans,
Aping the ways of peasants whom they starved.
What know they of these larger days?
And have they learned the lesson yet,
Since riding to the block
Three leagues away from Trianon—
Mankind has ever sought,
Is clamoring still,
For Liberty, Equality, Fraternity?

They watch the motors throng the gates.
They see the men in uniform
Or plain attire alight,
And often close the doors themselves,
Sans footmen.
They see them walk into the palace
With its gilded chairs,
Its candles and its mirrors,
Its memories of feasts
And men held down.

What do ye whisper there,
Ye pale aristocrats,
Beneath remembering trees
Where sunlight sifts
On Trianon?

ARMY TO BLOCK ANARCHY.

We Do Not Wish Whole Peoples to Get Out of Hand, Dr. Mott Says.

Speaking yesterday afternoon before a group of wealthy men and women in the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., 10 West Fifty-fourth Street, in behalf of the United War Work Campaign which is to raise $170,500,000 next week for the seven war work organizations, Dr. John R. Mott, Director General of the campaign, referring to the return of our troops to this country, said:

"Shall we bring them home in large numbers until a real peace instrument has been forged? We have had our warning from Russia, and we have learned from her experience. We do not desire to see in Germany, Austria, Turkey, or Bulgaria, whole peoples get out of hand and wreck all we have been fighting for, at a sacrifice of eleven million lives. We are not going to bring back our men in large numbers until we have attained all we have been fighting for. It is these things that show we need an oversubscription of 50 per cent. to carry our work through next Summer."

Dr. Mott described in some detail the great program before the War Work Council. The magnitude of the physical program, he said, was one such as the world has never before seen.

"As the day of peace draws near, I am sure that the American people would never forgive us if we did not prepare to serve our boys in the period of demobilization. The time I fear for our boys is when discipline is relaxed, when the hours of leisure multiply and temptations grow near. I have spent thirty years in helping men and boys, and I have learned to trace the faults and the wreckage of life to the hours of leisure. The burning question today is, shall the period of demobilization be a period of demoralization or not. We have sent more than 300 professors and teachers over there, and we need 2,000 more. We need $5,000,000 for text books alone for the American Army. We need $3,000,000 for books of reference. The educational program ought to get $100,000,000 by itself."

Dr. Mott, who has paid five visits to the front, said that the Canadian Generals estimate that it will take fifteen months to return their troops home, and that the Australians will allow eighteen months for this process. From military and naval men he talked with, Dr. Mott's impression was that the entire American Army would not be landed on the soil of the United States until twelve months after demobilization is begun. He did not agree with the man who said it would take three months, for British shipping will not then be available for that purpose.

The sum to be raised next week, Dr. Mott added, meant but 8 cents a day for each soldier and sailor for a single year. In addition, provision must be made for relief work on this side, for work in connection with soldiers in France, Italy, Russia, East Africa, Belgium, India, and other places. When it is taken into account what is left over for the American soldiers and sailors, he said, the sum asked for is pitifully small.

Others on the program were Lieutenant Coningsby Dawson, who told of the heroic actions of the men at the front; the Paulist Choristers, under Father Finn; Miss Mildred Dilling, harp solo, and Eugene Berton, songs.

About $100,000, it is expected, will be raised for the fund by manufacturers in the Long Island City section of Queens, who adopted yesterday a suggestion that they operate their factories on one Sunday in order to raise money for the drive. At a meeting of the factory owners yesterday the suggestion was made that employes be asked to contribute one day's pay to the fund. The concerns agreed to give an amount equal to what the workers in each plant subscribed.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the American Iron and Steel Institute, held yesterday in the office of Judge Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the board and President of the institute, resolutions were adopted commending the drive, and a resolution was adopted recommending that the affiliated concerns in the iron and steel industry contribute liberally. The resolution declared the object of the forthcoming campaign to be of supreme importance.

In a letter to Sir Arthur Yapp, head of the British Y. M. C. A., Lord Reading, British High Commissioner, sent wishes for the success of the campaign. Lord Reading said: "I wish you every success in your visit to America and I feel sure that as representative of the Y. M. C. A. you will have a very hearty welcome there. I should be glad if you would tell your audiences in America that I have come back from my visit to France, where I had my opportunities of seeing the American soldiers, deeply impressed by the spirit which inspires all ranks and convinced that with their aid we cannot fail to achieve a final victory, and, let us hope, at no very distant date."

Mr. Rockefeller said he wished all the workers to dispel the public impression that the funds asked for the overseas work of the seven organizations would not be needed if hostilities were ended soon. He said that the money would be in greater use than ever because the American soldiers might be subject to the temptations attending idleness from military duties, and he added that the sum needed by the organizations was nearer $250,000,000 than the campaign goal of $170,500,000, because the budgets were made up before the army was expanded by changing the age limits of the draft.

PEKING, Nov. 6.—Societies for hastening peace are working strenuously to accomplish Chinese reunion. Even Sun Yat Sen's latest declaration that the reconvocation of the old Parliament is indispensable in order to approve the Constitution and elect a President is thought moderate.

Unfortunately the Southern Chinese are endeavoring to complete the conquest of the Island of Hainan and continuing their offensive in Fukien. This may unite the Northern Tuchuns, who meantime are a pacifist wing led by the President.

Financial difficulties, together with the Allies' advice, may prevent further serious warfare, as the powers have declined to sanction the release of the customs surplus until a settlement is effected, while the Canton Government has addressed protests to the powers concerning the customs and salt revenues, opposing the Central Government's using these revenues in their subjugation.

77 SHIPS IN OCTOBER.

American Yards Again Establish New Record of Deliveries.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—American shipyards again established a new record in October by delivering 77 ships of 398,100 deadweight tons. The Shipping Board also received during the month two ships of 17,808 tons built for its account in Japan.

The deliveries by American yards included 45 steel ships of 283,400 deadweight tons, 30 wood vessels of 100,200 deadweight tons, and two composite ships of 14,500 deadweight tons. The Pacific Coast led in completed ships, with 30 vessels of 190,400 tons. Atlantic Coast yards turned out 17 of 102,000 tons, the Lakes 21 ships of 73,000 tons, and the Gulf finished 9 of 33,200 tons.

October deliveries bring the total of completed ships since Aug. 30, 1917, when the first was delivered to the Shipping Board, up to 487 vessels of 2,793,510 deadweight tons. Of these, 2,386,835 have been delivered in the present year.

AMERICANS HONOR SURGEONS OF ALLIES

FINISH INSPECTION TOUR

Have Visited Our Military Camps Throughout Country—All Are Veteran Army Medical Men.

The American medical profession last night welcomed the distinguished foreign delegates to the American Clinical Congress, who have returned to New York after a tour of important civil and military medical centres of the country. The New York Fellows of the American College of Surgeons were hosts to the visiting surgeons at a dinner at Delmonico's, presided over by Dr. J. Bentley Squier, the feature of which was the conferring upon the visitors of honorary fellowship in the college.

The speeches, both those of the American sponsors and the responses of the newly-created honorary fellows, were marked by sincere interchange of cordiality and respect, and expressions of desire that surgery should avail itself after the war of all resources the nations represented had been able to devise during the struggle.

The visiting delegates taken into the college were Colonel Sir Thomas Myles, member of the Board of Consultants of the British War Office, former President of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland and surgeon to the King; Major Pierre Duval, surgeon in the Paris hospital and consultant to all the armies of France; Lieut. Col. Raffaele Bastianelli, member of the Royal Medical Academy of Italy and an officer in the Italian Army; Colonel George E. Gask, British medical officer, Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons, with a record of three years front line service, and Major George Grey Turner, credited with many improvements in military surgical technique and a veteran of Far Eastern operations of the British Army. The honor conferred upon the visitors from overseas was shared by Major Gen. M. W. Ireland, Surgeon General of the American Army.

Trip Over Country.

Dr. Squier, who led in organizing the clinical congress and who was a member of the Committee of Arrangements which planned the welcome, presided at the dinner. He reminded the gathering, including several hundred of the best known medical men here, that the clinical congress was to have undertaken important work in this country in October, but that the formal sessions had to be abandoned before the congress was convened because of the influenza epidemic.

Dr. Squier then introduced Colonel Franklin Martin, who related briefly the incidents of the delegates' journey. They went first to Washington where they were received by President Wilson and his Cabinet. Then they traveled to Camp Greenleaf, the medical training camp where, Colonel Martin said, they presented the technical papers which were to have been read at the conference. Next the delegates went to Rochester, Minn., where they visited the Mayo clinic, after which they went to Chicago, Philadelphia, and other important cities.

Colonel Martin introduced Colonel William J. Mayo, President of the American College of Surgeons, and then the candidates for honorary fellowships filed by the speaker's table, the little procession being led by General Ireland. He was escorted by Major General William C. Gorgas. As each member reached Colonel Mayo he halted long enough for Dr. Mayo to cite the achievements of the candidate.

General Ireland's Speech.

General Ireland in his speech said that the fellowship was an unexpected honor and that he would treasure it as a trust to be held for the thousands of medical men of the American Army. Turning to a discussion of American Army medical experience abroad, General Ireland said wartime treatment of the sick and wounded had proved different in this war, and he paid generous thanks to the medical officers of the Allies for their aid to the Americans. Not only were the Americans taken to front-line formations and instructed, but important medical officers of the allied armies came monthly to the Research Council in Paris, thereby enabling that body to "do ineffable good and save countless lives."

"American medical officers in France," General Ireland added, "have labored in France under many difficulties. Much of France's resources had been exhausted when we got there, and it was a splendid spirit with which our American doctors took up their great task. I think I may say that the achievements of American medical officers in France will add a bright page to American medical history. We still are short of personnel and material due to a lack of tonnage, over which we have no control, but I am confident these difficulties will be overcome in time to enable us to accomplish all that lies before us."

Colonel Sir Thomas Myles was applauded when he recited some of the crimes of Germany, and asserted that kindness should not prevent punishment of the guilty. He told of the torpedoing of the British mailboat Leinster, with the loss of many women and children by the firing of a second torpedo among the lifeboats, and continued:

"When you are told to turn the other cheek, think of those women and children. Now that the boche is getting a little of his own back through the bombing of the Rhine cities he's beginning to squeal. I beg you to let no thoughts of gentle dealing with the enemy poison your hearts or your souls. I hope the day of retribution is coming, and that before the war is over we make the Hun shiver in his shoes.

Urges Invasion of Germany.

"I believe that even yet on the western front the British, the French, and the American Armies are to taste the full fruit of victory. I do not believe that the war can end before those armies have reached German soil, and have begun to sow death, destruction, and terror among the Huns at home!

"Many phases of my journey here have impressed me. I noted that broad spirit of toleration and liberty, and the earnestness and enthusiasm of the men at your great medical camps. But over all and above all I gloried in the determination of the American people to bring the war at last to a satisfactory issue."

"Whether there is to be peace just now or not," said Colonel Bastianelli, "I hope that, just as all the allied armies are fighting together for a victorious peace, medical men of all the nations that have suffered together, may meet to fight as one to alleviate the sufferings of humanity and to apply to the good of all that which each has learned during the years at the front."

In the afternoon the visiting delegates were the guests of the Department of Surgery of Columbia University at the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Later the delegates held their only technical session here, each talking upon some phase of war surgery. Major Duval described the general principles of the surgical treatment of war wounds. Major Adrien Piollet used lantern slides to show the rapidity with which wounds were brought by modern methods to a point where complete sutures could be used. Colonel Bastianelli told of new methods of treating cerebral wounds by which 52 per cent. of all patients were saved.

Sir Thomas Myles cited cases of reappearance of war wounds and gave instances of the reoccurrence of infection and disability months after the patients had been discharged as cured.

AMERICANS SWAM MEUSE UNDER FIRE

HALF MILE OF MUD BEYOND

With Bullets Raining About Them, Troops Then Crossed Canal and Scaled Wall.

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES ON THE SEDAN FRONT, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—The crossing of the river Meuse and the capture of the town of Dun by the Americans can go down in history with any similar deed of valor. When its full details are known it will rank as one of the most gallant feats of the entire operations northwest of Verdun.

The troops who accomplished it will be entitled to rank as heroes, for their work in militarily crossing the stream was a strategic move of unusual daring. The crossing involved the forcing of a way over the 160-foot river, a half-mile-wide stretch of mud and a sixty-foot canal in the face of a frightful enemy fire.

It also involved swimming by those who knew how and the pulling of others over on ropes. Grappling irons were used to scale the sheer walls of the canal along which machine gunners had been posted under the fire of scores of batteries from the hills adjoining.

The order to cross the canal came at midafternoon Monday. The troops received their grim instructions under a sun which was shining for the first time in days. The men knew almost as well as their commanders the difficulty of the task and realized how well-nigh impossible its accomplishment would be. Yet they never doubted or hesitated.

Sent Over by Brigades.

The orders were to send over one brigade first, and if it failed to send another, and others one after the other if this became necessary. It was with dash that the Americans tackled the problem. Theoretically they had the choice of crossings anywhere for five miles. Actually they were limited to one point, where two-thirds of a mile of mud lay between the river itself and the canal that roughly parallels the river.

The Germans were too firmly entrenched at all other spots. They had not protected themselves with trenches here only because they never dreamed that the Americans would be so daring as to try to negotiate the passage. This was a short distance north of Brieulles.

All the swimmers of the first brigade were first singled out and put in the van. It was intended to attack in this way on the theory that the swimmers were less likely to be hit by the Germans owing to the fact that they would be nearly submerged. On the other hand, they could carry with them ropes and other paraphernalia for assisting nonswimmers across. The building of pontoon bridges was put off until at least some American elements had crossed the river.

Notwithstanding some losses and the fact that the swimmers could not defend themselves, many of them reached the east bank of the river with lines which were drawn taut across the stream. Others floated on rafts and collapsible canvas boats. These men had less success than the swimmers, because they were better marks for the enemy's rifles and the boats could easily be sunk by bullets even if their occupants were not hit.

Pontoons Destroyed by Shells.

Close to where the swimmers crossed the engineers began to throw over pontoon boats and a tiny footbridge. The pontoons were destroyed by the enemy, but the bridge remained intact and added materially to the constantly increasing numbers of men arriving on the west bank of the river. Soon after dark the first brigade was across the first barrier, and more men were ready to make the journey.

The second phase of the perilous undertaking then began—the crossing of the kilometer of mud stretching between the river and the canal, which, though it was under a tremendous enemy fire, was not held by infantry. The Americans stumbled across the mud through the withering fire. Their feet sank into the mud and soon the pace of the men was slowed down to a laborious walk. Nevertheless they got through, even if the task caused some depletion in their numbers.

The next phase constituted the crossing of the narrower but deeper canal, with its sheer sides and the Germans almost at the very top of the eastern edge. The swimmers again got into action and plunged through notwithstanding the enemy fire and scrambled to the top. Here the men divided their attention in driving off the enemy and helping nonswimmers across by the same method used at the river. Two bridges finally were laid down by the engineers, greatly facilitating crossing.

Two Bridges Across.

These two bridges withstood attempts of the enemy to destroy them and contributed largely to the speed in getting the American troops over.

When the swimmers reached the edge of the canal they could not land without the aid of grappling hooks, which had to be caught onto the top of the well edging the canal so that the swimmers could pull themselves up by means of ropes. It would have been a hard enough task for men undisturbed by the enemy's guns, but its accomplishment was almost inconceivably difficult under the violent enemy fire.

With two waterways and two-thirds of a mile of mudland successfully passed, the Americans had only the customary fighting, and went to it with no delay and in ever increasing numbers.

The Germans, who apparently had assumed that it was impossible to cross the Meuse, gave way without great resistance before men who could brave their fire, swim two streams and cross a swamp with almost charmed lives and attack them without pausing for even a moment.

The Meuse has now been spanned by several temporary bridges, which were put down immediately on the heels of the German withdrawal. The capture of Miley was comparatively easy after Dun had been reached, and the American advance has been rapidly sustained since the moment the Americans touched foot on the east bank of the canal. The troops, though tired by their exertions, found the fighting there easy as compared with their previous experiences when they were unable to respond to the galling fire.

The retreat from the east bank of the Meuse began rapidly, with the Americans in hot pursuit. The German withdrawal eased the pressure on the Meuse line at Dun, where up to that time an attempt to cross had not been made, but it was soon possible to throw over pontoon bridges, with comparatively little opposition. Other bridges were constructed capable of carrying over the artillery and heavy trucks, and after that the operations were continued vigorously.

AIRMEN, FORCED DOWN, FIGHT FOE ALL NIGHT

Silence Two Machine-Gun Nests and Hold Out Till Infantry Rescues Them.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY NORTHWEST OF VERDUN, Nov. 6, (Associated Press.)—A daring exploit by two American aerial observers, Lieutenant William Erwin of Chicago and Lieutenant Bocum, the first named the only American observation ace, was revealed today when the advancing infantry came upon them holding off Germans with the machine guns of their airplane. The aviators and their machine were rescued.

Erwin and Bocum flew over Sedan yesterday and fired on the troops there. They were forced to land on the German side of the line owing to engine trouble. The landing was made near two machine gun nests, which the American airmen silenced. Then they fought off their would-be captors throughout the night, and were still defending themselves tenaciously near Stenay when the infantry advanced and found them.

A German aerodrome east of Stenay, on the Meuse, was attacked Saturday by an American observer's plane. More than 400 machine gun bullets were fired at eight German planes on the ground. The American machine previously, at an altitude of about 300 feet, passed over Stenay.

Lieutenant Louis Bernheimer of New York, the pilot, and Lieutenant Ralph Bagby of New Haven, Mo., the observer, started out to investigate whether any new German bridges had been built along the Meuse. Lieutenant Bagby's report, dropped from the plane for information of the army, read:

"No new bridges along the Meuse. Near Tailly I saw five German soldiers and fired on them with machine gun bullets. Two of the men escaped. Saw fires in Buzanoy and Throrques. Saw American troops in Fosse.

"Stenay was very active. People in all the streets. No trains in Stenay. Saw none moving in either direction. Did not fire at Stenay because of civilians in the streets.

"East of Stenay sighted an aerodrome with eight machines on the ground. Fired more than 400 shots from my machine gun with good effect."

Bagby and Bernheimer were fired at from machine guns on the ground, but neither man was hit.

PALMER WOULD PAY GERMAN DEBTS HERE

Suggests Applying $700,000,000 of Seized Alien Property to Damages to Americans.

CALLS ON BANKERS TO HELP

Custodian Warns Them That "Industrial Disarmament Must Come Along with Military."

A. Mitchell Palmer, the Alien Property Custodian, expressed the hope last night that he would be permitted to use the more than $700,000,000 of enemy property and money now in his custody to pay off some of the damages due to American citizens as a result of German ruthlessness on land and sea. The occasion of his speech was the dinner of the Quarterly Club, at the Metropolitan Club, at which Mr. Palmer was the guest of honor. Mr. Palmer said he expected to continue the Americanization of enemy-owned property in the United States "until every iota of enemy ownership is completely wiped out and the businesses placed in the control of 100 per cent. Americans."

Mr. Palmer said that at the present time he is the custodian of between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000 of enemy property, and that within a short time he expects the amount to be increased to more than $1,000,000,000.

"Whatever accounting is to be made when the war is over, for enemy property taken here during the war," Mr. Palmer continued, "so far as that accounting affects investment in American industry, will be for the money value thereof, and not for the thing itself. Without attempting to prophesy what may be done with the proceeds, for this must remain to bet settled by the treaty of peace, it is safe to say that the businesses which the Germans built up in America will be lost to them forever. No other course would be compatible with the safety of American institutions."

No greater favor could be shown Germany, Mr. Palmer added, than by carefully managing and conserving these properties "against the time when, at the conclusion of war, upon accounting for properties of any kind, the former German owners could take up the invasion of American industry and commerce on the very salient which they had erected before the war."

"Industrial disarmament," he said, "must come along with military disarmament. Autocracy in industry must fall with the Hohenzollerns. "I want the bankers of this country to help me crush the strangle hold which Germany, through its bankers and agents, has had upon most of the essential industries of this country. I want to Americanize every German-owned industry in this country. I want to see every factory, every workshop, and every manufacturing plant that is enemy owned placed in the hands of 100 per cent. Americans for all time. The Americanization of German-owned industries in this country is a big task, and to be successful I must have the hearty and patriotic co-operation of the bankers and business men of this country.

"In the next few weeks we will sell approximately $200,000,000 worth of enemy-owned concerns in this country at public auction. They include great woolen mills in New Jersey, large drug, chemical, and color companies, lace works, machinery plants, and a magneto company. More sales will follow. There will be no let-up in the Americanization of the German-owned concerns in this country. These sales offer an excellent opportunity for the bankers of America to demonstrate their hearty patriotism in no uncertain manner. They have aided our country nobly in raising funds to finance the war. They can and should do more by helping to Americanize the great German-owned industries in this country. I feel that I can count on their co-operation in this great task of Americanization.

"Long before the war the German Government, through its agents in this country, sought to control practically every important and essential industry. It was part of her plan to colonize, subdue, and control the world. She planted a great industrial and commercial army on American soil, and that army had become so large and so powerful that when the war broke out in 1914 Germany believed it would be strong enough to keep America out of the war. Germany planted that army in every State in the Union, and its tentacles stretched out across the Pacific to Hawaii and the Philippines, in the Atlantic to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, down to Panama and up to Alaska, without any part of American soil free from its touch.

"This great German industrial organization exploited our great resources and husbanded them for their own use and their own power. They kept secret from America the processes and patents which might some day be used against them, and built up industry after industry, totaling possibly $2,000,000,000 in money value and billions more in potential political value."

WOMEN APPARENTLY WIN VOTE IN MICHIGAN

South Dakota Also for Suffrage Two to One, but Is Badly Beaten in Oklahoma.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 6.—Suffrage apparently has carried in Michigan by a comfortable majority. More than half the precincts—1,487 out of 2,282, and including Wayne County complete except for one precinct—gave suffrage a majority of 17,242, the figures being: "Yes," 133,724; "No," 116,482.

With Wayne out of the way—a loss to the cause of less than 1,000—there is no longer the slightest apprehension on the part of suffrage leaders. The vote in this city was looked upon with more or less trepidation, but the work of the labor unions, the fraternal orders, and other elements that this year were pledged to support suffrage showed results.

Suffrage Wins in South Dakota.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., Nov. 6.—Late returns indicate that suffrage has carried in this State. In Sioux Falls the issue carried two to one and was running ahead in Minnehaha County. Hyde, Brookings, and Hanson also voted suffrage.

Badly Beaten in Oklahoma.

New Orleans Vote Beat Suffrage.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 6.—Woman suffrage was beaten in Louisiana by the heavy majority against the amendment in the city of New Orleans. The city rolled up a majority of 10,573 against suffrage. Returns from the State show that the amendment received majorities in more than half of the parishes, while the vote was close in nearly all of the others except in New Orleans.

Mrs. Marjorie Eastman Scheftel Marries Aviator.

Mrs. Marjorie Eastman Scheftel and Lieutenant Charles Park Requa of this city were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chauncey Olcott, 45 East Sixty-second Street. Only relatives and intimate friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Father Martin of St. Patrick's Cathedral. Mrs. Olcott has been a lifelong friend of the bride.

COL. EDGAR W. BASS DEAD.

Colonel Edgar W. Bass, U. S. A., who retired at his own request Oct. 7, 1898, after thirty-six years of continuous service in the army, more than thirty of which he spent at the Military Academy at West Point, died yesterday at his residence, 77 Park Avenue. Colonel Bass retired before he reached the age limit because of failing eyesight.

Colonel Bass, who was born at Prairie du Chien, Wis., on Oct. 30, 1843, was graduated from West Point in 1868 and then studied at the Post Graduate School for Military Engineers at Willets Point, N. Y. For five years he was instructor in natural philosophy at West Point and then was chosen as assistant astronomer of the United States expedition to New Zealand to observe the transit of Venus in 1874.

FREDERICK MEAD DEAD.

Retired New York Merchant Who Was Active in Yale Affairs.

Frederick Mead, whose New York City residence was at 1 West Fifty-sixth Street, died yesterday at his Summer home in Greenwich, Conn. Mr. Mead was born in New York Sept. 11, 1848, and in his early life lived in Seventh Avenue, near Second Avenue, removing to the Fifty-sixth Street address in 1871.

In 1871 he was an assistant of Professor Marsh in his Western explorations for fossils, which led to the collection of exhibits now in the Peabody Museum. Upon his return from the West he joined his father in the mercantile business under the firm name of Frederick Mead & Co., 133 Pearl Street. His father died in 1879, and a short time later the son retired from business.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SAGE.

Fifty Relatives and Friends Attend Simple Service at Late Home.

Attended by about fifty relatives and intimate friends, simple but impressive funeral services were held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning for Mrs. Margaret Olivia Sage, widow of Russell Sage, whose death occurred Sunday midnight at her home, 604 Fifth Avenue. The services were conducted by the Rev. Malcolm James MacLeod of the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, at Forty-eighth Street and Fifth Avenue, which adjourns the Sage residence. Although it had been requested that no floral offerings be made, several floral pieces were sent to the residence.

Accompanied by several friends and relatives, the body was taken last midnight to Syracuse, N. Y., where, following a brief service this morning, interment will be made in Oakwood Cemetery. The services will be conducted by a Minister of the Presbyterian Church.

It was said at the Sage residence last night that it had not been decided when the will of Mrs. Sage would be filed for probate.

Lieut. Com. Hough Dies at Sea.

Lieut. Commander Frank Pennybacker White Hough, Medical Corps, U. S. N., died at sea aboard the U. S. S. Huron Sunday, Oct. 27, when the transport was nearing France. The funeral will take place in Washington upon the arrival of the body early next week, and interment will be made in Arlington.

Dr. Hough was a native of Alexandria, Va. He was graduated from the University of Virginia in 1907, and immediately entered the navy. He saw service in China and in the Philippines, as well as in the present war.

THE DOLLAR; ITS PRESENT VALUE.

The purchasing power of the dollar fluctuates with such general changes in the country's affairs as are caused by the war.

The value of the dollar measured in terms of merchandise is materially LESS than in former years. And yet—the value, in the purchase of high-grade bonds, is considerably MORE.

Wise investors are taking advantage of this situation, and by the purchase of bonds at low prices, are providing an income for the future at very attractive rates.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Securities Gain Ground as Plans Grow for After-War Developments.

The forward movement of stocks and bonds in yesterday's session of the market was considerably smoother than the progress made in recent days, betokening, apparently, a more pronounced impression among buyers that the war news would be increasingly favorable in the immediate future. It could hardly be said that the results of the election had any material effect on business, for the reason largely that the final returns on the Congressional contests were not available up to the end of the business. Stocks displayed considerable irregularity in the forepart of the session, but later steadied in all directions and gave a real exhibition of strength in the afternoon. The railroad group was again well favored in the buying orders, and this applied also to railroad bonds. There was less effort to differentiate between war and peace stocks among the industrials, and net gains extending from 1 to 3 points at the close told the tale of progress which was fairly free from weak spots.

In the discussion of the election heard in bank and brokerage circles it was evident that the working out of after-war problems stood in the forefront of considerations. The Republicans naturally maintained that the vast changes of manufacturing, trade, and labor conditions which lie ahead could best be solved by a preponderance of Republican influence in the legislative bodies, and the Democrats were equally positive that the Administration could be intrusted to work out the details of these alterations to the best interests of the nation if supported by a majority of men of Democratic political faith. In final analysis, however, it could not be discovered that representative men of the financial district were overly anxious about the result of the voting, knowing that the side which received a majority in the Senate and House would not have much of an edge on the opposing party. The strength of securities in the face of the political uncertainties indicated this feeling as much as would have the presentation of lengthy arguments. It may be said, however, that financial and business thought is turning steadily from concentration on war to careful examination of measures to ease the reversion from war to peace. Encouragement along this line was received yesterday in news from Washington that the War Industries Board and other agencies which have assisted in preparing and co-ordinating the industrial elements behind the military machine have turned attention to the problems which lie ahead. England and France as long as two years ago began their preparations for after-war developments, but in the relatively few months that the United States has been a participant in the struggle there has been little time for the leaders to think of anything but the winning of the war. Information so far obtained points toward the continuance of some of the volunteer boards and committees for six months or more after the conflict ends, for the purpose of assisting in the metamorphosis of the nation from warlike to peaceful activities.

It may be that the security markets have been reflecting confidence among the public that the change will be made without great strain. This would be looking ahead at an expected general result. As far as current developments are concerned, there are indications that manufacturing directly connected with the war is being readjusted in certain lines. In the steel trade the switch from war work to commercial undertakings is beginning to make progress, but it is too early to determine whether or not the process can be carried out without some contraction of business.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Bonds Continue Advance.

Again yesterday the bond market on the Stock Exchange strode forward into new high ground. This was borne out especially by the railroad issues, in which gains of standard bonds extending from 1 to more than 2 points were not uncommon. The twenty-five railroad bonds used in striking an average price in these columns rose 1.14 points, an exceptional gain for a single day. The average price of 80.38 at the end of the day was the highest since Oct. 1, 1917.

Steel and Iron Operations Recede.

The Steel Corporation's blast furnaces in the last week were operated at 93.7 per cent. of capacity, compared with 94.3 per cent. the week before. Ingot plants were in use to the extent of 97.4 per cent., against 97.9 per cent. in the preceding week. The decline was largely the result of inroads on the working forces by the epidemic of influenza.

Sinclair Earnings Expand.

The Sinclair Oil and Refining Corporation continues to show increasing earnings as its enlarged facilities are operated more completely. In the September quarter net income from operations amounted to $4,761,709, a gain of $354,048 over the June quarter and of $2,776,269 over the three months ended March 31. The statement issued yesterday showed that the amount set aside for Federal taxes was almost double that of the June quarter, and $1,064,389 was set aside for depreciation and depletion. The balance carried to the surplus account was $2,418,542, against $2,487,649 in the June quarter.

Money Committee Meets.

The Money Committee held a meeting yesterday, from which nothing developed of a public nature. The special committee of the Stock Exchange, appointed on Monday to co-operate with the Money Committee, is expected to begin its joint deliberations with the latter in a few days.

Higher Interest on Certificates.

The decision of Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo to terminate the sale of certificates of indebtedness, issued in anticipation of Federal income and excess profits tax payments, bearing 4 per cent. interest and to issue in place of them 4½ per cent. certificates, was looked upon in banking circles as a natural recognition of altered investment conditions in respect to Government paper. The fact that only $152,000,000 of the 4 per cent. certificates had been sold since Aug. 20 indicated that buyers desired a larger return on their money. The first issue of similar certificates about a year ago resulted in sales of some $691,800,000. The latter carried 4 per cent. also, but they appeared before Liberty bond interest became stabilized at 4¼ per cent. and also prior to the period when certificates issued in anticipation of bond payments had been placed in large volume at 4½ per cent.

The Airplane Stocks.

Holders of stocks of airplane companies apparently have been having a difficult time of late in sizing up the future possibilities of their investments in case the war should end soon. Yesterday Wright-Martin on the Curb declined below 5—to 4⅜—which was a low record for the stock. The Curtiss shares around 22 show a substantial recession from recent days. These companies are known to have big orders for airplanes and engines and it is believed by many who follow the stock market that contracts would be affected by a cessation of hostilities. At the same time, the commercial use of aircraft is expected to be rapidly exploited when peace comes, a development whose extent cannot be estimated from the present vantage point and whose potential effect on manufacturing operations cannot yet be estimated.

New Oil Companies.

A sharp decline in the amount of new capital being devoted to the development of the oil and gas resources of the country is shown for the month of October, according to the records of The Journal of Commerce. In all 44 companies were organized with an authorized capitalization of $42,910,000, but the outstanding feature was the formation of a $25,000,000 concern, the largest that has been financed in some time. During September 56 concerns were organized with an aggregate capital of $59,922,600. New capital issues in this field of activity for the ten months of this year mounted to $419,470,600, distributed among 771 concerns. The total for the entire year of 1917 was $840,219,400, apportioned among 512 companies. Government financing is held chiefly responsible for the falling off in capital devoted to the development of the country's petroleum resources.

PRICE TENDENCY STILL UPWARD

Federal Reserve Board Warns Public That More Economy Is Necessary.

INFLATION MUST BE FOUGHT

Too Many Subscribing to Liberty Bonds Depend on Banks to Finance Their Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Despite peace prospects, "prices generally throughout the United States are showing a tendency toward a further upward movement," according to the Federal Reserve Board's monthly review today of business conditions as reported by agents in the Federal Reserve Districts. Increases are particularly noticeable in commodity lines not affected by the Government's price-fixing program. Many manufacturers and other producers are reported following a conservative course by keeping only small stocks on hand, in preparation for new business conditions after the war.

Rising prices and credit inflation, the board says, must be opposed by strictly personal economy. Despite war economy propaganda, it appears, says the board, "that many classes of the population are still spending their current incomes as freely as ever, notwithstanding prices today are at a record figure, because they have not yet embraced the national duty to save as a personal obligation."

"Probably the feature of the present financial situation of the country which most requires correction," says the board, "is the increase in disposition on the part of the public to rely too largely upon the banks as sources from which to obtain the necessary funds for use in financing the requirements of the Government. In order to provide for the taking up of additional loans when offered, it will be inevitably necessary that the public address itself with greater earnestness to the problem of saving and applying its income to public requirements. Advices from many quarters show that, while progress is being made in this matter, the mounting necessities of the Government are equally conclusive evidence to the effect that what has already been done must be continued and added to, and that further and more successful efforts must be made if the banks are not to be obliged to take and hold an undue proportion of the obligations issued by the Government."

The board's explanation goes into detail to show that bank loans for purposes other than short-time commercial transactions are becoming steadily greater in volume and in proportion to reserves, causing inflation and resultant increases in prices.

Bank Credits and Inflation.

"The reason why the public, and especially the banking community, looks with so much interest to the reserves of the banks," says the board, "is understood when the nature of credit inflation is carefully considered. Ordinary extension of credit made for the purpose of facilitating the exchange and circulation of goods requires little or no addition to the reserve funds of the banks, because the credits thus granted in the main offset and cancel one another, leaving an unimportant margin to be redeemed in cash. When the credit structure of the community is enlarged by the extension of bank loans not accompanied by a corresponding increase in production and the proceeds are employed in the way just described for the purchase of commodities or for buying them away from the consumers who would otherwise purchase them, the claims to the bank credit thus brought into existence keep on passing from hand to hand. The Government transfers them to contractors who furnish it with goods and to persons who supply it with services. Both these classes pass on the credit claims to others in exchange for goods which they desire, and they remain outstanding, representing in effect an addition to the purchasing media of the community.

"There is no means of permanently cancelling or digesting such outstanding credits except one—their use by those into whose hands they come for the purchase of the securities against which the credits were extended, notably Government bonds in our present situation. Ordinary commercial credits furnish their own means of cancellation through the maturing of the paper upon which they were based and the completion of the productive process to finance which they were extended. Credits based upon non-commercial operations or investment securities possess no such quick self-reducing quality. As they increase, therefore, they tend to make a more or less lasting addition to the outstanding volume of bank liabilities and thereby increase the superstructure of bank credits which rests upon the underlying reserve money of the country.

"During the last year there has been a decrease in the percentage of gold cover to the aggregate banking liabilities of the country, mainly the result of the process above outlined. This decline has not been occasioned by any falling off in the aggregate gold holdings of the American banking system, which indeed have shown some increase. It is due altogether to the rapid increase in the outstanding volume of bank liabilities. It is this feature of the situation which gives to the decline of the gold percentage its significance. That is to say, the decline of this percentage is an important index of our changing position, not because of any inadequacy of gold, but because of undue or disproportionate expansion of the credit structure which the gold reserve of the nation is required to support and protect in consequence of inadequate saving by the people.

Decline of Reserve Percentages.

"Decline of the reserve percentages of the central banking institutions has been a general phenomenon in all of the belligerent countries since the opening of the war and has everywhere been admitted to be undesirable. It reflects the disposition of these countries to rely upon borrowing and when necessary upon direct borrowing from the banking institutions—the public being either too little able or too little willing to furnish out of its current consumption either in the form of taxes or of direct loans to the Government the sums necessary to avoid credit inflation and to hold reserves at a normal percentage level. The great gold strength of the United States largely due to the heavy accessions to our national stock of gold in the two years preceding our entry into the war, has, it is true, placed this country in an exceptional and peculiar position; and to this extent the character of the credit inflation experienced in the United States differs from that existing in other countries and has been less easy to realize. But it would be a mistake for us to proceed on the assumption that inflation in the United States is, therefore, different in its essential character from what it is elsewhere. Here, as elsewhere, the decline in percentage of reserve holdings to outstanding liabilities reflects the relative increase of the latter as compared with the means of their direct conversion on demand, and the problem presented is the problem of controlling the growth of banking credits."

General business activity throughout the country is reported by practically all reserve agents. The marked reduction in the recent output of clothing materials, shoes and other articles of personal use indicates, the board said, that civilians in a few months may have great difficulties in getting these goods.

Banking conditions are reported "about as satisfactory as could be expected under the circumstances." Building operations are practically stationary.

TIN IMPORTERS PROTEST.

Association Declares War Board Rule Favors Their Competitors.

The Tin Importers' Association, a newly formed organization of interests engaged in the importation of tin from the Far East, protested yesterday to the War Industries Board on a ruling made by the Government agency a few weeks ago which provided that the inflow of the metal into the United States should be carried on at the sole direction of the United States Steel Products Company, a subsidiary of the Steel Corporation. Representatives of the association, met George Armsby, Chairman of the subcommittee on tin of the War Industries Board, at 71 Broadway, and arranged to draw up a substitute plan for financing and distributing the metal.

The tin importers informed the War Industries Board, in a series of resolutions, that the program under way would, in their opinion, create a monopoly of the tin trade in this country for the benefit of the Steel Products Company. They said they cheerfully acquiesced in any Government measure considered necessary to regulate tin imports as a war measure, but they protested against action which might give a competitor a practical monopoly for an indefinite period.

The association was formed shortly after the War Industries Board announced its ruling, for the purpose of unifying trade activities during the current period and after the war ends. Among the members are W. R. Grace & Co., Mitsui & Co., Nathan Trotter & Co., Lewis Lazarus & Co., Mitsubishi, Goshi Haisha, James W. Phyfe & Co., Frame, Leycraft & Co., and the Wah Chang Trading Company. Arthur Winter of Winter, Son & Co., is President; I. J. Louis, of the Vernon Metal and Produce Company is Vice President, and E. W. Starke of Caswell & Starke is Secretary and Treasurer.

MOVE TO RESTORE AETNA.

Court Names Explosives Committee to Form Rehabilitation Plan.

Looking toward the reorganization of the Aetna Explosives Company, now in receivership, Judge Julius Mayer of the United States District Court has appointed a committee of lawyers, representing the various conflicting interests in the company to present to him on or before Dec. 2 a plan under which the rehabilitation of the company may be effected. The members of the committee are Royal Victor, chairman; John B. Stanchfield, G. M. Brooks, J. N. Rosenberg, S. Strassberger, and Henry Wollman. Judge Mayer in appointing the committee made it clear that there was no finality to any plan which might be adopted by the majority and that he would take under advisement a minority report which might be presented, or even one submitted on the part of a single member.

It was the understanding that the financial condition of the company was such as to warrant a discharge of the receivers and that the only obstacle was the inability of the various conflicting interests to agree on a plan under which this would be possible. Former Governor Benjamin B. Odell, one of the receivers, showed that the company now had quick assets totaling about $16,000,000 as against liabilities of a like nature totaling $6,000,000.

MIDVALE SHOWS PROFITS.

Steel Company Reports $7,793,627 Net for September Quarter.

The Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company reports net profits of $7,793,627 after meeting interest charges and allowing for Federal taxes in the quarter ended Sept. 30, compared with $8,545,443 in the June quarter. The profit in the September period was derived from earnings of $11,590,601, this being the amount left after the war tax item had been deducted. The management set aside $3,024,162 for depreciation, an increase of $1,642,014 over the corresponding reservation in the same quarter last year.

The profit in the September quarter was equal to $3.89 per share of stock, compared with $4.27 in the preceding three months. The statement issued yesterday showed that in the nine months ended Sept. 30 the amount available for dividends was $24,139,411, an increase of $785,945 over the corresponding period last year, and equal to $12.06 per share of stock.

POUND STERLING GOES UP.

Teutons' Money Also Rises in Other Countries on Peace Outlook.

LONDON, Nov. 6 (British Wireless Service.)—Between the fall of Damascus, on Sept. 30, and the collapse of Turkey, on Oct. 20, with intermediate German and Austrian defeats, there was a further marked appreciation of the value of the pound sterling in neutral markets. The advances ranged from nearly 8 per cent. in Denmark, up to more than 13½ per cent. in Sweden.

Curiously, there was also an appreciation in the German mark, the value of which rose on a range from fully 7½ per cent. in Holland, to nearly 13½ per cent. in Sweden. A somewhat analogous movement took place also in the case of Austrian currency.

An explanation of this movement is to be found in the monthly review just issued by the London County and Westminster and Parr's Banks. The advance is solely attributable, it would appear, to speculation in view of peace prospects, people in foreign countries having been induced by such prospects to buy marks in the hope that German exchange would improve.

Conduit Company Shows Deficit.

The National Conduit and Cable Company, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, reports an operating deficit of $146,090, due to a substantial expansion of costs as compared with the first quarter. Other income reduces this to $126,798, but taxes, charges, and depreciation bring the total deficit for the period up to $483,380. For the nine months ended Sept. 30 the net sales were $10,790,010, while manufacturing costs and expenses were $11,011,206. The loss from operation was, therefore, $221,196. With other income set at $66,356, the total deficit is placed at $154,841. Taxes, charges, and depreciation have been written off to the amount of $723,007, leaving a loss for the nine months of $877,848.

Chamber of Commerce to Hear Mott

Dr. John R. Mott, head of the Y. M. C. A. war work, will address a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at noon today on the subject of "War at Home and Abroad." Among other addresses will be one by Eugenius H. Outerbridge, Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Committee on Foreign Trade After the War, who will give a preliminary report on this topic. Reports will also be submitted by the Committee on Commercial Education, and the Committee on Foreign Commerce and the Revenue Laws.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

A circular discussing long-term bonds has been issued by Lyman D. Smith & Co. of 34 Pine Street.

An offering of $100,000 Western Heater Dispatch Company 6 per cent. equipment trust certificates to yield 7¼ per cent. is announced by Farson Son & Co. They mature in amounts of $10,000 from March 1, 1920, to Sept. 1, 1924.

The Board of Directors of the Irving National Bank announce the appointment of William R. Wilson of Detroit to be Vice President beginning Dec. 4. For the last five years he has been associated with Dodge Brothers of Detroit.

The Bankers Trust Company, as trustee, is inviting offers up to Nov. 11 of the Combustion Engineering Corporation bonds to exhaust the sum of $20,000 now held in the sinking fund.

SHIP BULLION TO INDIA.

$3,000,000 in Silver Leaves Local Assay Office for Britain's Use.

A shipment of $3,000,000 in silver bullion, the largest ever sent out from the local Assay Office, was started on its way yesterday to the Secretary of State in Calcutta, India, twenty-five motor trucks being required to carry the metal on the first stage of its long journey. The bullion was obtained by the melting down of the silver dollars held in reserve against the one-dollar silver certificates, which are being retired by the issuing of Federal reserve notes. The silver thus set free is being shipped to India under an agreement with the British Government, which is obliged to pay the natives in India, in whatever capacity they are employed, in bullion.

It was learned that about $17,000,000 in bullion had been shipped to the Far East from the local Assay Office since the right to melt down the silver dollars was conferred by the act of Congress of April 23. Shipments are also being made from San Francisco and Philadelphia, and it is estimated that the total amount thus far sent to India is between $60,000,000 and $70,000,000.

INCREASE CHEMICAL SHARES

Proceeds from $9,500,000 Issue to be Used to Increase Output.

The American Agricultural Chemical Company announced yesterday that the Executive Committee had voted to issue new common stock to an amount equal to about one-fifth of the common and preferred stocks outstanding on Nov. 14. The new shares, which will total approximately $9,500,000, are to be offered to present shareholders at par. Shareholders of record Nov. 14 will have until Nov. 29 to subscribe to one new share for each five shares held. The funds raised from the stock sale will be devoted to increasing the output of fertilizers.

"The enormous demand for all farm products throughout the world," said Robert S. Bradley, Chairman, in a letter to stock owners, "has had a stimulating effect upon the fertilizer industry and has led to a greater use of fertilizers, not only because they produce greater crops of better quality, but also because they conserve labor by increasing the yield per acre. This situation is likely to continue long after the war ends, as our farmers are becoming educated to the advantages of more scientific and economical agriculture."

164 BANKS GET CHARTERS,

While 170 Increase Capital in Year, Announces Controller.

John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, announced yesterday that for the year ending Oct. 31 there had been 237 applications for charters for new national banks, with the total capital of $15,040,000. The charters granted totaled 164 with a capital of $13,400,000 involved. In 1917 the applications were 326 for a capitalization of $20,565,000. Charters were granted in 176 cases.

During the past fiscal year 170 national banks increased their capital stock by $18,524,000, while 165 banks increased their capital in 1917. The amount of increase, however, was larger, amounting to $23,854,990. Seven national banks have reduced their capital by a total of $427,000 as compared with a decrease by fourteen banks in 1917 for $898,000. During the past year 47 national banks went into voluntary liquidation, exclusive of those consolidating with other banks, their aggregate capital being $6,085,000. In the preceding year there was such liquidation on the part of 80 banks whose capital amounted to $8,697,500. There were 7,765 active national banks at the close of business on Oct. 31, an increase of 94 over the year before.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Securities were strong in an active close in the market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Supported by a vigorous demand, which found chief expression in the steel shares, values made substantial gains throughout the list. Prices at the close were about the highest levels of the session.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE,
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

NOTICE TO HOLDERS OF NEW YORK SHIPBUILDING CORPORATION FIRST MORTGAGE THIRTY-YEAR FIVE PER CENT. SINKING FUND GOLD BONDS, DATED NOVEMBER 1, 1916, DUE NOVEMBER 1, 1946.

Pursuant to Section 1 of Article Four of the Mortgage of the New York Shipbuilding Corporation to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, dated November 1, 1916, securing its First Mortgage Thirty-Year Five Per Cent. Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, the undersigned Trustee hereby gives notice that the bonds of such issue will be purchased by the Trustee for the Sinking Fund provided in said mortgage, to an amount sufficient to exhaust One Hundred Eighty-Seven Thousand Five Hundred Dollars ($187,500), being the moneys now held by it in such Sinking Fund. The Trustee hereby invites from the bondholders offers for the sale to it on NOVEMBER 25, 1918, of such bonds. As provided in said Mortgage, such offers shall in each case be for all or any part of the bonds so offered. The lowest offers to the aggregate amount not exceeding an amount sufficient as nearly as may be to exhaust such moneys now held in the Sinking Fund will be accepted, provided that the price or prices accepted will in no event exceed, in addition to accrued interest, one hundred two and one-half per centum (102½%).

As soon as may be, on or after November 18, 1918, the undersigned Trustee will notify bondholders whose offers are accepted, so that delivery of the bonds covered by such acceptance may be made to the Trustee at its office in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on November 25, 1918.

All offers must be in writing, be enclosed in sealed envelopes, state the number or numbers of the bonds offered, and name the price or prices at which the same are offered.

All offers must be received at the office of the Trustee on or before noon of November 18, 1918.

COTTON RISES SHARPLY IN BRISK TRADING

Heavy Covering Movement Carries Market 115 to 140 Points Above Monday's Closing.

Under the stimulus of a very active and heavy covering movement cotton prices yesterday advanced 115 to 140 points from Monday's final prices. December contracts at the day's high of 30.35c. were up 140 points from Monday's closing, January at 29.50c. showed a gain of 130 points, and March at 29.08c. was up 124 points. The market opened easy, first prices showing losses of 20 to 55 points, August excepted, which was 8 points higher. This was attributed to weak Liverpool cables and increased offerings from the South. After the first call there was a general advance in all options of about 25 points, mainly on buying for the short account, but from that time on, with some slight reactions due to profit-taking the movement of prices was decidedly upward.

Sentiment was helped by the denial by the Committee on Cotton Distribution of the War Industries Board of the rumor of extensive cancellations of contracts for cotton goods for the use of the army. The committee's statement was to the effect that such cancellations as have been ordered wer enominal, and were caused by reason of necessary changes in fabrics needed, replacements, and variation in quality.

DIVIDENDS.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO CO.
111 Fifth Avenue
New York, November 6, 1918.

Notice is hereby given that a dividend of five per cent. (5%) on the common stock of The American Tobacco Company was today declared payable on December 2, 1918, to common stockholders of record at the close of business November 15, 1918, in the scrip, or certificates, of the Company, due March 1, 1921, and at that time payable in cash or, at the election of the holder, expressed not earlier than September 1, 1920, and not later than December 1, 1920, in Common Stock B of the Company at par; scrip certificates, for whatever amount may be considered together in making units of $100 or multiple thereof for the issuance of stock, but no fractional shares of stock will issue, and amounts less than $100 will be paid in cash; in case the holder of the scrip certificate does not make the election as aforesaid, the scrip certificate is to be paid and discharged in cash at par; interest on scrip to maturity will be paid semi-annually in cash at the rate of six per cent. (6%) per annum on March 1st and September 1st of each year, first interest payment of scrip now issuing payable March 1st, 1919, the privilege of converting into Common Stock B pertains only to principal, and not interest.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 8,981 packages. Firmness on the finer grades of fresh table butter and a steady feeling on other qualities. Renovated well sustained. Ladles a shade easier and packing stock about 1c lower. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 60½@61c; extras, 92 score, 60c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 57@59½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 53@56½c; lower grades, 49@52c; unsalted, higher than extras, 62@62½c; extras, 61@61½c; firsts, 58½@60½c; seconds, 55@58c; State dairy tubs, finest, 59c; good to prime 53@58c; common to fair, 48@54c; renovated, extras, 51@51½c; firsts, 48½@49½c; lower grades, 43@48c; imitation creamery, firsts, 45@48c; ladles, current make, firsts, 41½@42c; seconds, 39½@40c; lower grades, 38@39c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 39@39½c; No. 2, 38½c; lower grades, 35@38c.

EGGS.—Receipts continue extremely light, and there is great scarcity of fresh gathered eggs fit for the best class of trade. Receivers having the few lots arriving which are sought for by the critical buyers are able to dictate practically their own terms. On the sales reported quotations are further advanced and the market is strong with more call for desirable stock than can be filled readily even at the improvement quoted. The more seriously mixed qualities are still of very irregular value, the best of them are being taken at better prices than heretofore, but there is still a good deal of stock offering at comparatively easy prices. Storage eggs continue strong, but prices are now at about the limit of permissible profits and the trading reported is at unchanged quotations, chiefly in range of 42½@47½c. Nearby white eggs continue extremely scarce, and any uniformly fancy lots arriving can be sold at extreme prices, almost at the dictation of holders. Some further sales of California whites are reported at 95c, but there is a little damage in some lots and reclamations are being made accordingly. The pullet eggs received in this car have not yet been moved, the prices asked being above buyers' idea of value. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 66@67c; extra firsts, 63@65c; firsts, 59@62c; seconds, 54@58c; undergrades, 48@58c; dirties, No. 1, 46@47c; No. 2 and poorer, 42@46c; checks, good to choice, dry, 42@43c; undergrades, 36@41c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, charges paid, 47@48c; firsts, charges paid, 45@47c; seconds, charges paid, 42@44½c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 96c@$1; ordinary to prime, 75@95c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 75@96c; pullets, 75@84c; Pacific Coast whites, firsts to finest, 94@95c; Western and Southern gathered whites, 65@92c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 66@74c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 58@67c.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The steel trade has begun to turn its attention to developments expected with the ending of the war. At the present time, the trade periodicals note this week, the Government is urging deliveries for war steel and efforts are continuing for economical and rapid distribution, but the readjustment of contracts is talked of as a matter for the near future.

"How fast and how far the war demand for iron and steel will now fall off," says The Iron Age, "is the uppermost question in the industry. The shortening of the program of shipyard extensions was the main feature last week. Of greater significance are the moves made this week in the reduction of munition and ordnance orders, now that peace is more plainly in sight.

While the project for the Neville Island gun plant has not been abandoned, as report had it, a revision of the plans is under way, reducing considerably the scale of operations. It is quite certain also that work will not go forward on the 12-inch howitzer shop which was to have been built at the Midvale works at Nicetown.

In barbed wire a virtual cancellation of 22,000 tons for Great Britain and 65,000 tons for Italy is reported. France was to receive 50,000 tons in the first half of 1919, and both this and a 30,000-ton contract for wire rods for France have now been held up.

Steel works and rolling mills may be nearer the end of their work for shell steel than is commonly thought, even though the war may go on for some months. In the past eleven months close to 5,000,000 tons of shell-steel orders have been distributed for rolling. Probably 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 tons of this is today between the rolling mills and the ships that are to carry it to Europe—at forges, finishing shops, shell-loading plants, or en route. It is expected that rail mills that have been rolling large rounds for shells can soon turn to rails, for rails are needed.

The epidemic of influenza disrupted plans for making the October pig iron output a record. The production was 3,486,941 tons in the thirty-one days, compared with 3,418,270 tons in September. The total exceeded September's, but the daily rate in October was 112,481 tons, against 113,942 tons in September.

The Iron Trade Review says:

The cardinal fact that virtually every ton of iron and steel now being produced continues to be demanded for war or essential purposes is a steadying influence. Trade fears are not those of the effects of a peace but of the uncharted period of transition from a war to a peace basis. Authoritative expressions from Washington show that the situation already is receiving consideration in the highest circles. The belief has been strengthened that present governmental regulation will be extended in some form to stabilize trade conditions after peace is made. The vital necessity of maintaining production at high speed continues to be sounded by the Government. Great Britain is negotiating through the Government for 750,000 tons of basic iron for delivery over the first half of 1919. This is probably the largest single inquiry ever put before American iron producers.

MOONS SCHOOLS
SHORTHAND IN 30 DAYS

YOU perform a genuine public service when you prepare to fill one of the many vacancies for stenographers or secretaries, either in the Government employ or commercial life.
THIRTY DAYS is sufficient to master stenography by the original methods of instruction adopted by the Moon Schools based on the approved Boyd Syl-lab-ic System. The average student attains a speed of 100 words a minute in the time mentioned. So confident are we that any person of average education can qualify in 30 days, that we invite you to enroll at our risk. Register at one of our schools now, and if after attending for three days you feel that you are not able to master stenography in 30 days' time by our advanced system, we will cheerfully refund the entire fee.
Three free trial lessons and catalogue on request. Call or write today.

Weather Helps Fur Trade.

The seasonable "ting" in the air yesterday resulted in increased patronage of fur departments of local stores and shops, and manufacturing furriers expect a marked improvement in duplicate business in the immediate future if the weather stays "right." A change in the trend of demand is also manifesting itself with the coming of colder weather, and the capes, coatees, and short coats that have been so popular to date are expected to give ground in favor of long coats. In the light-colored furs, gray squirrel still leads, with the palm in the dark furs going to broadtail, caracul, and Hudson seal.

Gray Goods Sales Fair.

Sales were fair in the local gray goods market yesterday, the feature being the selling, by first hands, of January-March deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s at 15 cents. This price, which is half a cent below the present Government maximum for that construction, was accepted by the mills for the first time. Other business of the day, in which both first and second hands shared, was done for shipment through this month at full Government figures. It included 39-inch 68-72s, 38½-inch 64-56s, and 38½-inch 60-48s in the printcloths and 3 and 3.25-yard sheetings. Fine goods were without special feature.

Burnt Trimmings Favored.

Among the "smart" trimmings for dress hats for immediate wear burnt effects are held in high favor. Included in these garnitures are burnt goose, burnt vulture, and burnt goura. They are shown in a variety of styles. Some are seen with branchings that wind around the crown, while others are made on round foundations with branches of aigrettes coming from the centre. The latter are said to be very effective when placed atop the crown of a turban. Other attractive trimmings include popples of purple or wine velvet, with green taffeta stems and foliage.

Acids and Chemicals Scarce.

The Government's requirements in acids and many heavy chemicals are so great that very little material is available for other interests Drug and Chemical Markets will say today. In the color field coal-tar products are in growing demand for domestic and export trade, but production is hampered by the shortage of intermediates and labor. Mercury dropped $2.50 a flask in the course of the week. Attempts of some dealers to discount the effect of peace talk by liquidating their holdings brought about considerable activity in medicinal herbs, leaves, and seeds. It seems to be the general opinion that these articles will decline in the event of an early ending of the war.

Buyers Ordered to Hold Off.

Apropos of the talk that is going about in regard to lower wholesale prices with the coming of peace, this incident was related in the wholesale dry goods market yesterday: One of the heads of a local retail organization a few days ago called a meeting of all the concern's buyers and spoke to them like this: "Some time ago the buyers for this store were warned against committing themselves to any extent on advance orders. This warning was not heeded by some of them, but, fortunately, their transactions were to the best interests of the store. Now, however, I want it thoroughly understood that there must be no more buying of merchandise for future delivery until proper authorization is given, and I don't want any buyer to come to me after this meeting and tell me that an exception ought to be made in the case of his or her department."

Glad Old Hours Are Back.

The resumption of the business hours that obtained before the influenza made it necessary to vary the schedule brought a sigh of relief from more than one executive in local business houses yesterday. The concerns most glad to get the old hours back were the retail stores and the jobbers. In the case of the stores, it was said that the extra period they were open in the evening, which ranged all the way from 15 to 45 minutes, met with objection on the part of the employes that the later opening in the morning did not begin to offset. As for the jobbers, the hours deprived them of a good and important part of their business day, particularly in the case of the order and shipping departments in the bigger houses. These departments, it was said, do much of their work after 4 P. M.

Artificial Flowers in Demand.

In the artifical flower trade, importers and manufacturers find that there has been a decided increase in their business. This is especially so in the higher-priced merchandise. Some manufacturers in this line feel that the reason their merchandise will be more in demand is because only 50 per cent. of their usual coal supply is allowed them. This will make flowers scarce and the price will advance.

Spring Hosiery Buying Slumps.

One effect of international events of the last week has been to bring about a marked falling off in the buying of the better grades of silk hosiery for Spring delivery. Some canceling has been attempted, but for the most part buyers, while unwilling to trade further at current high prices, are satisfied to accept what is due them. Even on lines that have been recently opened for the new season, buyers are holding off. Their judgment is held to be doubtful in wholesale circles here, where it is pointed out that labor and production costs will continue high for some time and that wholesale prices will stay at their present levels of necessity. If buyers get panicky and cut retail prices to reduce stocks, it is asserted, they will be cutting off their noses to spite their faces.

BUSINESS RECORDS

In Town.

JULIUS E. HEDRICK, a salesman, at 66 Broadway, formerly of Los Angeles, Cal., has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $327,314, and assets of $8 paid in on subscription to two Liberty bonds. Nearly all the liabilities were contracted in Los Angeles, and $70,000 is as indorser on notes of the Panama Ore Company of Los Angeles. Among the creditors are Jessie R. Barnhardt, $103,500; California National Supply Company, $40,000; American Well Drilling Company, $30,000; American Well and Prospecting Company, $30,000, and A. M. Allison, $30,000. His life is insured in the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company for $50,000.

R. E. KING SHOE MANUFACTURING CORPORATION of Nyack, N. Y.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against this corporation by H. and J. J. Lesser, attorneys, for these creditors: Jacob Schwartz, $946; Bertha Waldman, $425, and Adolph Gerth, $805. Judge Knox appointed Frank Stripe receiver, bond $5,000, on application of H. and J. J. Lesser, who stated that the liabilities are over $40,000, and assets $10,000. The corporation is endeavoring to make a settlement with the creditors and reorganized the business.

METZLER BROS., grocers, at 979 Freeman Street.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against them by these creditors: William R. Golden, $181; Sonia Dresne, $275, and B. Fischer & Co., $47. It was alleged that they made an assignment to Edward Scherer. Liabilities are $2,000, and assets $1,000. Edward Scherer was appointed receiver by Judge Knox.

PAUL JONES, doing business as the City Steam Laundry, at Mount Vernon, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $13,733, and assets of $15,715, consisting of machinery, $15,000; accounts, $440, and horses and wagons, $275. Charles Elliot of Topeka, Kan., is the principal creditor, $9,500.

MORRIS BOSS, a salesman of 36 West 111th Street, formerly a produce dealer, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $2,566 and assets of $119 in accounts.

J. P. GORMAN & CO., dealer in automobile supplies at 280 Canal Street, has filed schedules showing liabilities of $11,302 and assets of $2,060, consisting of stock $2,000 and cash $60.

AMERICAN CONPONOVA CORPORATION of 158 Greene Street, has filed schedules showing liabilities of $3,548 and assets of $3,569 in machinery.

EDWIN DRESS CO. of 38 East Thirty-second Street.—Judge Hough has denied a discharge to Bernard Solomon, doing business as the Edwin Dress Co. The petition was filed against him on March 20, 1916, and he neglected to go on with a hearing on the specifications of objection to his discharge.

UNEXCELLED DRESS CO.—Frederic R. Lillie has been appointed receiver for Isidor and Florence Turner, doing business as the Unexcelled Dress Co. at 17 East 125th Street. Assets are $2,000.

LIBERTY LIGHTING SUPPLY CO. of 242 Bowery—Robert Seelay has been appointed receiver. Liabilities $18,000 and assets $5,000.

WILLIAM BRADLEY, contractor, of 1 Madison Avenue.—Stephen U. Hopkins, John S. Sheppard, and George C. De Lacy have been appointed receivers by Judge Hough of the Federal Court in an equity suit brought by Henry W. Richardson, Jr., of East Orange, a creditor for $3,951, money loaned. His liabilities are $1,512,390, and he owns one-third of the assets of the Bradley Contracting Company.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

The eight-story Hotel Frederick, at 210 and 212 West Fifty-sixth Street, was transferred yesterday as recorded in the Register's office to the Commonwealth Hotel Construction Corporation. The property occupies a plot 50 feet front by 120.2 and irregular in depth, in the middle of the block between Broadway and Seventh Avenue. The hotel corporation announced several months ago that it had obtained options on practically the entire block between Fifty-fifth and Fifty-sixth Streets, Broadway and Seventh Avenue.

This is the first parcel to be acquired. The record shows that it was transferred first by E. L. Barnett, Inc., of which William J. Hoggson is President and one of the Hotel Commonwealth officials, to Louise E. Behan, and by the latter to the hotel corporation subject to a mortgage of $203,000, and a prior mortgage of $87,000. The property adjoins the Rockingham apartment house, on the Broadway corner of Fifty-sixth Street.

Buys Dwelling Near Fifth Avenue.

The five-story residence at 24 East Sixty-second Street, altered into small apartments, has been purchased by the Cross Realty Company, Edward J. Mahoney President. It covers a plot 18.6 by 100, between Fifth and Madison Avenues, and was purchased from Frederick Brown, who acquired it last July from John H. Parker. It was held at $80,000, the assessed valuation. In part payment Mr. Brown took thirty-eight plots at Huntington, L. I., near the railroad station. Byrne & Baumann were the brokers in the transaction.

$20,700 for Plympton Property.

For a total of $20,700 Joseph P. Day sold at auction in the Vesey Street Salesroom yesterday ten and one-half acres on Bay View Avenue, Great Neck, L. I. The property was sold in three plots of four, four and two and a half acres, respectively. A. D. Wyckoff, who owns adjoining property, bid in the first plot for $9,500; I. G. Wolf bought for a client the second four-acre plot at $8,200, and Robert Tarleton purchased the two and a half acres at $3,000.

Resale of Foreclosure Property.

Ivan Josephs, purchased from the Excelsior Savings Bank the row of six three-story dwellings at 241 to 251 East Seventy-second Street on a plot 100 by 102.2. The property was taken over in foreclosure proceedings recently by the bank. E. N. Adler, negotiated the sale.

Another resale of foreclosure property involved the three-story and basement dwelling at 732 St. Nicholas Avenue, located 386 feet north of 145th Street. The house has been sold by W. H. Maehling, who as plaintiff bid it in for $10,000 in September. It occupies a plot 30 by 100. The buyer is an investor.

Heights Dwelling Sold.

The Metropolitan Trust Company sold to an investor 544 West 140th Street, a three-story and basement dwelling on a lot 16.8 by 100.

Tenement Deals.

James H. Cruikshank, operator, resold to Louis Cerullo the five-story tenement 228 East 127th Street, on plot 25 by 100. W. H. Dixon was the broker.

Edward N. Crosby & Co. sold for Mrs. B. B. Bates, 4 West Eighty-third Street, a four-story building, altered into three rooms, bath and kitchenette on a floor, 18 by 102.2, to a client for investment.

George V. McNally sold for the Queen May Realty Company the five-story apartment house on a plot 50 by 100 at 602 West 146th Street to a client for investment. This is the fourth sale of the property in last month.

Recent Buyers.

Julius Kayser, the glove manufacturer, is the buyer of the twelve-story loft at 19 and 21 West Thirty-sixth Street, sold Monday by Frederick Brown, operator. In part payment the buyer gave the four-story private dwelling at 36 East Seventieth Street. Andrew F. Gilsey negotiated the transaction.

Hagerty Brothers are reputed to be the buyers of 8 and 10 Platt Street, where they have been tenants for over a half century.

United States.

The commission announces for Nov. 30, at the New York Custom House, an examination for railway mail clerks, for both men and women. Vacancies in the Railway Mail Service throughout the United States, at the entrance salary of $1,100 a year, will be filled from this examination. Competitors will be examined in spelling, 10; arithmetic, 20; letter writing, 20; penmanship, 20; copying from plain copy, 20; geography of the United States, 10. Male applicants must have reached their sixteenth but not their fortieth birthday on the date of the examination, except in the case of former employes of the Railway Mail Service, who have not been out of the service for more than five years, and for whom the maximum age limit will be fifty years. Male applicants must measure at least five feet four inches in height without boots or shoes, and must weigh at least 125 pounds in ordinary clothing, without overcoat or hat, and must have no physical defects. Female applicants must have reached their eighteenth but not their thirty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination, must measure at least five feet two inches in height without boots or shoes, and must have no physical defects. It is contemplated that the employment of women will be confined to terminal railway post offices, and one-clerk runs if employed on the road, and that the employment of women on the road will be confined to those over twenty-one years of age. It is also contemplated that men below eighteen years of age will not be selected for employment, except in cities where they may be employed in terminals or offices without being compelled to leave home. Male applicants of draft age should state in their applications their draft classification. The commission will sustain objections of appointing officers to the certification of appointment of men in Class 1A.

Education Notes.

Evening School 38, Manhattan, has been discontinued because of poor registration, and its classes have been sent to Evening School 95, which has been organized as a mixed school. Evening Schools 94 and 169, Brooklyn, have been discontinued for the rest of the season, and their classes have been sent to Evening School 150. Evening School 43 has been consolidated with Evening School 141 in the latter's building.

The Henry D. Woodworth Association of Public School 17, Brooklyn, will meet in the school building on Nov. 15, at 8 P. M. and elect officers.

An advanced class in bookkeeping has been formed in the Washington Heights Evening High School for men and women, 145th Street, between Broadway and Amsterdam Avenue. Applicants may register now.

The Professional Teachers' Association, incorporated, kindergarten to 6B only, will meet at 8 P. M. tomorrow in the World Building. There will be an election of officers.

The Fall meeting of the B. D. L. Southerland Association will be held tomorrow at 8 P. M. in the auditorium of P. S. 8, corner of Grove and Hudson Streets. There will be an election of officers.

At the New York Evening High School for Women, 40 Irving Place, a war emergency French class is opened. It offers advantages to those who wish to learn to speak French in the shortest possible time and with the purest diction. The class hours are from 7:30 to 9:30 P. M. every day of the week, save Saturdays and Sundays. The only requirement for entering this class is to be a grammar school graduate.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Fair weather has prevailed generally east of the Mississippi River, in the Missouri Valley, and in the Plains States. There have been scattered thunderstorms, scattered rains and light snows in Western Nebraska and Southeastern Wyoming.

Temperature has risen in the Lake region and Ohio Valley and it is decidedly colder in the Plains States and Lower Missouri Valley.

Fair weather will continue in the Washington forecast district during the next forty-four hours, except that rain is probable Friday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee, and Mississippi.

Temperature will rise slowly in eastern districts and it will be colder in the Ohio and Lower Mississippi Valleys and the upper Lake region.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate southeast to south; Middle Atlantic Coast, diminishing northeast; South Atlantic Coast, moderate northeast diminishing.

FORECASTS TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair and slightly warmer Thursday. Friday partly cloudy.

Southern New England—Fair Thursday and probably Friday, with rising temperatures.

New Jersey and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Thursday and probably Friday, with slowly rising temperatures.

Northern New England—Fair and warmer Thursday. Friday partly cloudy, probably showers.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Fatigue –

Is it threatening the success of women's war-time work?

FROM the girl who operates an elevator in a city building, to the khaki-clad woman at a lathe in a munition plant, woman's new war work has awakened the admiration of the world.

In enormous numbers she is going from house to house calling upon soldier's families as a part of her Red Cross work; she is collecting fares on city street cars; she has become chemist, draftsman, skilled worker in every kind of American manufacturing plant.

The pressure of America's great task has sent women into occupations that have always before been filled exclusively by men. Along the lines of communication in France, at the cantonments, women are laboring night and day to smooth the path of the fighters by the prodigal use of their energy.

Even those at home feel the strain of double duty. In addition to old tasks they must take care of fighters who have been invalided home. They must help the new units of our forces as they are taken into service. They must be filled with boundless energy.

Can women stand the strain?

Women have formed a great battle line which is just as necessary to victory as the line of sons, brothers and husbands on the battle front. Fatigue must not break it.

"Muscle fatigue produces changed chemical conditions," says the Life Extension Institute, "and develops fatigue poisons." The great British authority, H. J. Spooner, says—"It is commonly known that fatigue may be due to anything that affects the nervous system." Later he says, "The history of fatigue abounds in cases in which some seemingly trifling matter has been found to be the cause of fatigue."

Recently France has called upon America for a large number of women physical directors to teach French women in industry how to regain their strength and retain it under the strain of war-time labor. Tragic as it is, these women of France have over-worked and must be helped back to health by physical training. America must avoid making the same mistake.

How shall we avoid the menace of over-fatigue?

In the evening, if you are depressed, if you feel too tired to eat, if it seems as though you could sleep for days, you should heed the danger signal, and beware of the menace of over-fatigue.

It is the added strain of the shocks and jars of walking, as you walk rapidly about on hard pavements and hard-wood floors, which causes so much unnecessary fatigue, and leaves you tired out and exhausted.

You can save your nervous system from this useless shock and strain. Replace hard, nail-studded leather heels with O'Sullivan's Heels, which change hard pavements to cushioned walks. Save your heels, save your shoes—save leather which is daily becoming more scarce—above all, save your nervous system.

O'Sullivan's are guaranteed to outlast any other heels. They will wear three times as long as leather heels, and will give uniformly satisfactory service to the very end.

Because of our special process, O'Sullivan's Heels combine the greatest durability with the greatest resiliency.

In black, white or tan; for men, women and children. Insist on O'Sullivan's—avoid the disappointment of substitutes.

Most of the elevator operators in the cities today are women. Shortage of man power has created the demand for women in many new lines of industry. Each one who goes out to work must conserve her strength in every possible way so that the health of the nation as a whole may not be injured

The transportation companies have been among the first to utilize the great potentialities of women at work. This great source of energy must not be wasted or injured by preventable over-fatigue

Government reports show that women are holding positions which a year ago were filled exclusively by men. As the places of men are filled, the health of the women substitutes must be guarded from the dangers of over-fatigue
